

Rutherford Board Approves Plan For Spindale School

RUTHERFORDTON, April 24.—At a joint meeting of the county commissioners and the county board of education held here Monday the former told the latter to go ahead with plans for a new school building for Spindale. The sum of $55,000 will be placed in the budget of the county, beginning July 1, 1936 and ending June 30, 1937, with which to construct the new Spindale school and to move the present Washburn school to Botic and to reconstruct it under plans to be supplied by the board of education. About ten leading citizens of Spindale attended the meeting here Monday. An architect will arrive this week to draw plans for a new 20-room modern building for Spindale. It will have an auditorium that will seat 840 people with offices, etc. It will be located where the old Western Union academy now stands between the Southern depot and the Spencer Baptist church. The academy will be torn down, also the present Spindale building and all materials possible from both will be used in the new structure. Ellis Bever, head of the Kansas state income tax department, estimates collections this year may exceed last year's $1,400,000 by 30 per cent.

Young Poet Draws Storm Of Protest From S. C. House

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 22.—(AP)—A college boy's attempt at depicting the seamy side of life in a cotton mill village stirred up a storm of protest Wednesday in the South Carolina house which promptly adopted a resolution directing a psychiatrist's examination of the young author.

Published in the Wofford College Journal, the literary effort in free verse in an imitation of Carl Sandberg's style referred to ignorant, diseased and dirty mill hands misled at their meetings by "mealy-mouthed hypocrites" and told a mill worker:

"You died on your 16th birthday when you went to work in a cotton mill."

It was written by Peter Moody, a sophomore at Wofford from Cooleme, N. C., a textile center, and a one-time "mill hand" himself.

Rep. Ponder, of Spartanburg, where Wofford is located, read it to the house and introduced a resolution requesting Dr. C. Fred Williams, superintendent of the state hospital, to send a psychiatrist to examine the writer. It was adopted without a record vote.

Appraised of the house's action, Dr. H. N. Snyder, president of Wofford, disclosed that he and Moody had previously written apologetic letters to the Spartanburg Central Labor union.

Dr. Snyder said he was "very much grieved" that it had been published, but that Moody was a "fine young man" who had meant no slur upon any class of workers.

Moody said his effort much to his regret had been misinterpreted and "the literary side forgotten." He added that he knew mill employees as a class were "hard working and intelligent."
