

Reciprocal Trade Treaty Concluded By U.S. and France

Next To Canadian Is Highly Important; Trade Is Stimulated

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The United States concluded the negotiation of a reciprocal trade pact with France yesterday amid official predictions that the treaty would spur the tempo of commerce between American and continental European nations.

Secretary Hull and Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye signed the pact at the state department, ending more than a year of almost uninterrupted bargaining in which last remaining technicalities were reached. Officials here were known to regard the pact as of especial significance.

An accompanying statement said the agreement will become effective June 15 and be operative until July 1, 1937, and indefinitely thereafter, subject to termination by either country on six months' notice.

Details of the agreement were to be made public May 13. The statement said of the new treaty: "It will provide improved opportunities for the expansion of trade in products of special interest to each country and will enable commercial interests to develop these opportunities without fear of sudden and unforeseen changes to which they are exposed in the absence of such an agreement."

"In addition to duty concessions and quota increases by France and duty concessions by the United States on carefully selected lists of products, the agreement provides in general for substantial most-favored-nation treatment by each country of the commerce of the other."

Governor Ehringhaus declined today to intervene after he had conferred with Edwin M. Gill, state parole commissioner.

Dingle and Williams killed John Cant, Winston-Salem ice man, in a robbery that netted them $24.

Highlights Of Politics

(Persons who will figure prominently in national politics this year.)

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert
If the Republicans could be said to have a dowager-queen that person might be Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, for years vice-chairman of the party's national committee.

In the campaigns of 1924 and 1928 she directed the women's Republican clubs which she had helped organize in the decade before. Furthermore, she was national committee woman and state vice-chairman for her party in her home state of Kentucky.

She stepped down from the director's post in the women's division for this campaign, content to offer her advice on speeches speakers and appointments.

She inherited her political interests as well as her directorship in a rich manufacturing concern from her husband.

Mary T. Norton
Both on the platform and in party caucuses the Democrats will demand heavy contributions from the wit and energy of "lady Mary" Norton, the "gentlewoman from New Jersey," during the '36 campaign.

Her district has returned her to congress every two years since 1924. So her own re-election campaign will be somewhat perfunctory as she takes New Deal philosophy into eastern states.

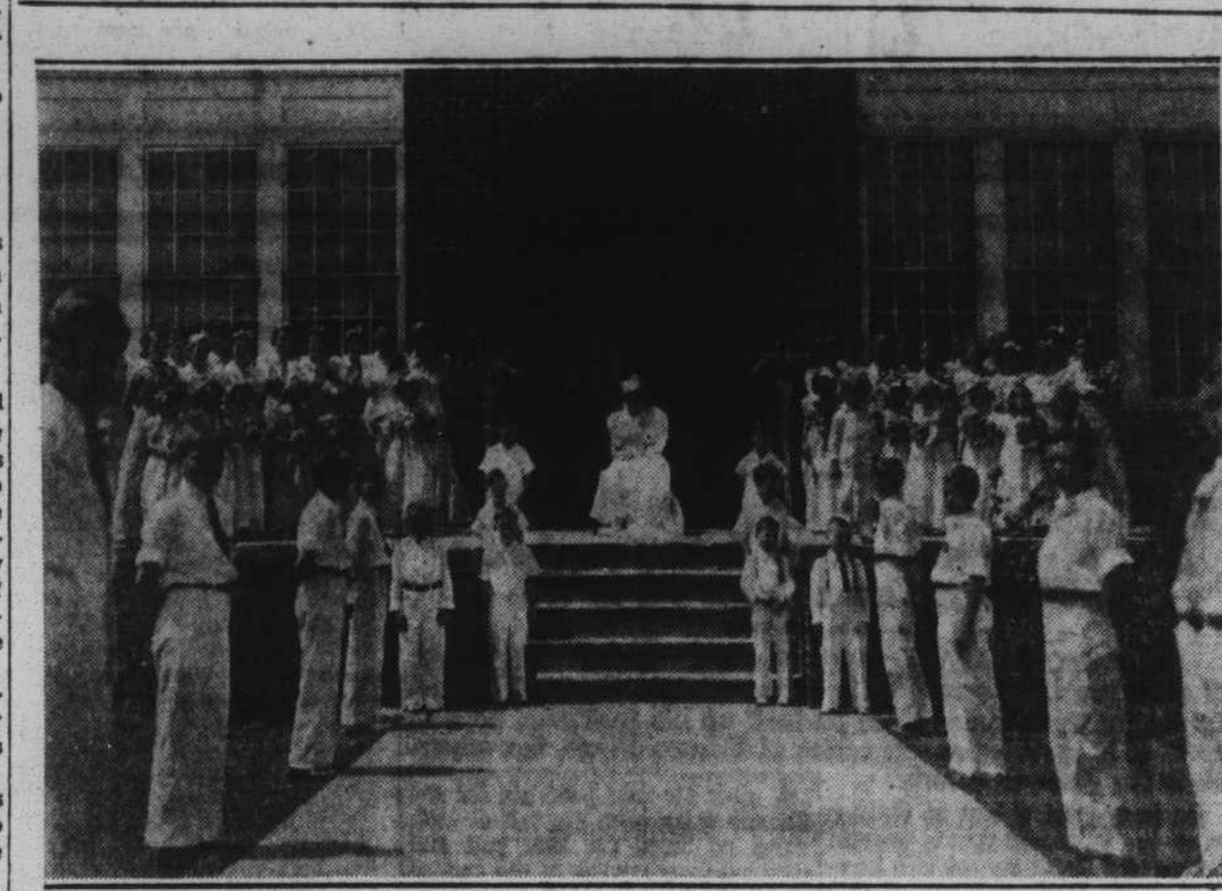

She often has been called the country's most able woman politician, and her male colleagues have given frequent evidence of their regard for her ability. She is vice-chairman of her party and will be chairman of the party's state convention.

She is a popular speaker, and meets criticism of her party with flares of convincing, self-righteous indignation nicely larded with Irish wit. She talks simply, clearly and entertainingly and likes a good fight.

Morganatic marriage is marriage between a man of exalted rank and a woman of lower rank, the issue having no claim to succeed to the possessions or title of the father.

May Day At South Shelby School

The climax of last Friday's May Day exercises at the South Shelby school was crowning Miss Roberta Hamrick as Queen of May. Colorful costumes and lovely flowers were provided for the 400 children participating. The program was vigorously applauded by a large audience.

Silly To Work Declares Mary Who Has Plenty

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 8.—Mary Pickford who has been juggling three man-sized jobs a day for six months or so, is around to the point where she views her conduct with unqualified disapproval. "It's silly for anybody to work so hard," she said today. "And particularly for me."

"Here I am, free as a bird, with the money and the facilities to do anything I please, yet chained down to a desk like a poor man with 10 children. I am a little ashamed of myself."

She was stretched out in a deck chair, beside the swimming pool at Pickfair. It was warm and still except for the faint rustle of trees, touched by a breeze from the sea. Her thick, coppery hair gradually fell into disarray from the little kicks of the wind. She pursed her lips and blew it out of her eyes, but otherwise left it alone. There were circles under her eyes.

Inside the house technicians were assembling a portable broadcasting microphone and a company of players were preparing her next program.

Broadcasting is one job. She signs contracts, interviews candidates, passes judgment on auditions and rehearsals, reads scripts and occasionally takes a hand in rewriting them.

Meanwhile, she is acting—and active—president of a motion picture corporation (United Artists).

Tap Nine Students Into Golden Fleece

CHAPEL HILL, May 8.—Nine student leaders were tapped for membership in the Order of the Golden Fleece, regarded by many as the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Carolina man at impressive ceremonies here Wednesday night.

Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, an honorary member, attended and appeared on the platform of Memorial hall with the old and new members when, at the conclusion of the tapping, Ruling Jason Tom Evans read the list thus honored.

Those tapped were Donald Kennedy McKee, Chapel Hill; Nathaniel Alexander Townsend, Jr., Charlotte; Niles W. Bond, Lexington, Mass.; Francis Pries Williamson, Winston-Salem; Fred Weaver, Aberdeen; Harry Williamson, High Point; Jacob Elias Snyder, Bethlehem, Penn.; Joseph Yoch Barnett, Laguna Beach, Calif., and Benjamin Willis, Winston-Salem.

Germ Killing Ray Destroys Bacteria

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 8.—Invention of a new type of cool germ-killing rays that destroys air-floating bacteria about the patient on an operating table was announced to the American Society of Theorocoplasty surgeons here by Deryl Hart, M.D., of Duke university medical school.

This is the first time that the air of an operating room has been continuously sterilized. It is the final step in safety from infection which began with Joseph Lister's inauguration of antiseptic surgery in 1865.

The rays come from long, slender tubes framing the light above the operating table. The tubes are cool, only eight to 10 degrees above room temperature. Their rays are selected wave-lengths of ultra-violet—which kill air-borne germs in 60 seconds, but do not burn human beings.

Finds Bear In Den With Year Old Cub

RALEIGH, May 8.—J. D. Chalk, state game and inland fisheries commissioner, told today of the unusual discovery in Pisgah National forest of the winter den of a mother black bear and her year-old cub.

Chalk visited the hibernation quarters in late April. He said national forest officials were watching the bears as their period of winter rest had extended several weeks beyond the ordinary period bears sleep in winter.

It is very rare, Chalk said, for bears to be found in hibernation. The den he visited was reached by a difficult climb over the face of an almost perpendicular cliff along the side of Looking Glass mountain, Chalk said.

Presbyterians Ban Montreat Speaker

Rev. George A. Buttrick, D. C., pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian church of New York, the subject of a resolution of protest passed by Mecklenburg Presbytery at a meeting May 1, is not one of the speakers for the Montreat conferences this summer, according to a letter received here yesterday.

The resolution protested the listing of Dr. Buttrick as a speaker because he is an "Auburn affirmationalist," and a member of the National Committee of the Modern Mission Movement, according to a report made by Presbytery officials. He was a speaker at Montreat last summer.

Sampson Candidates Are Ruled Illegal

RALEIGH, May 8.—Raymond C. Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, said today the selection of party candidates for county offices in Sampson county by conventions instead of in primary elections was illegal.

Maxwell wrote to the chairman of the Sampson Board of Elections to inquire "by what authority" Democratic and Republican candidates for the General Assembly and county offices were selected in party conventions last week.

The 1931 General Assembly placed Sampson under the Statewide primary law. Only seven North Carolina counties are exempt from the primary law, Maxwell said, and they are Western Union, Alexander, Ashe, Burke, Caldwell, Catawba, Clay and Surry.

Clark Hardware Adv. Wins In Sport Prize

The baseball week advertisement recently published in The Cleveland Star by Clark Hardware company, of Shelby, was awarded one of nine qualifying as a runner-up in the annual newspaper advertising contest sponsored by the Sporting Goods Dealer, national business publication of the sporting goods industry.

Attention value, sales effectiveness and originality were the principal factors upon which the many advertisements entered in the contest by sporting goods dealers from coast to coast were judged by the editorial staff of the Sporting Goods Dealer, headed by J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher.

Will Enroll More Boys In CC Camps

Enrollment of junior grade applicants, both white and colored for the Civilian Conservation Camps will be resumed this month in North Carolina. This will mark the first enrollment since last October, when further CCC acquisitions were indefinitely suspended and several camps were ordered disbanded. The order, however, was later rescinded upon protest of congress; further appropriations to carry on the soil conservation and forestry programs.

Original orders received by Col. Smith called for an enrollment of 850 white applicants and 298 negro applicants. The former quota, however, was later changed from the 850 aggregate to "maximum," which is translated to mean that the war department is prepared to exceed the original North Carolina allotment.

Recruiting will begin in Wilmington on May 8, and will be extended to Washington, May 9; Raleigh, May 11; Greensboro, May 12; Asheville, May 13, and will be concluded in Charlotte on May 15. Quotas for the various cities will be fixed at a later date. Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 28 years.

Kendrick Buys Brick Plant Near Monroe

CHERRYVILLE, May 8.—The Kendrick Brick and Tile Company of Mount Holly, Monday took charge of the Seaboard Shale Brick plant near Monroe, after buying the plant from its bondholders. In announcing the purchase, N. B. Kendrick stated that every effort would be made to put the plant into operation within 30 days, in order that present orders for brick could be filled. The new plant will produce at capacity 85,000 brick per day as will the plant at Mount Holly. The company has sold ahead several million brick.

The plant which has just come into control of the Kendrick company has been idle for the past four years. It was originally valued at approximately $150,000, and is accompanied by a tract of 171 acres of shale land. The plant is said to be in good condition, with necessary repairs to list to cost around $10,000. J. S. Costner, Cherryville contractor, is in charge of repair work which has already started.

J. P. Morgan Tells Rules For Success

NEW YORK, May 8.—J. P. Morgan, in one of his rare public speeches, Wednesday presented a credo for bankers. It was: "Do your work; be honest; keep your word; help when you can; be fair."

Morgan said those were the principles on which his banking house was founded. He expressed a determination that they "shall continue to be as closely followed in the future as they have been in the past."

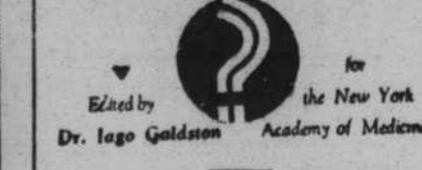

His remarks were made at the annual dinner of the National Institute of Social Sciences, which presented to him a gold medal for "distinguished services rendered to humanity."

Similar medals were presented to President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, founder of "the seeing eye," which trains dogs to guide blind persons, and William Edwin Hall, president of the Boys' Club of America.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Blended by the New York Academy of Medicine
Dr. Iago Goldstein

Doctor Mickey Mouse
The Lancet of England reports that "Mickey Mouse drew large and excited crowds to the Royal Society of Medicine and it was once more evident that the medical profession and its wives (sic) are only human after all."

The advent of Mickey Mouse, learnedly designated as Mus Ridiculus, in the dignified portals of the Royal Society of Medicine, was billed as a lecture on his anatomy and embryology. Dr. Robert Hutchinson, in introducing him, compared Mickey to the celebrated Doctor Merryman, dispenser of good health, whose principal medication was mirth and laughter.

But Mickey Mouse and the prototype animated cartoon have a just claim to serious consideration by science, in every one of its fields including psychology.

Recently in an earnest paper on "Child Development and the Interpretation of Behavior," Prof. John E. Anderson of Minnesota observed that it would be interesting and worth while to speculate on the changes of behavior that could be effected by a removal from environment of its given limitations. The comic papers, he said, have pre-empted this field with their numerous funny and adventurous characters.

Even more so, however, is this the case with the animated cartoon. In this latter medium the fancy and imagination of mankind suffer no limitation. Neither gravity nor matter, anatomy nor physiology, time nor space need bind one by their tyrannical limitations.

However, the animated cartoon is not restricted to the field of and fancied adventure. Indeed, it has been utilized to illustrate the complicated processes of embryology, the development of the animal from the parental sexual cells. It has rendered easily comprehensible the processes of cell division and of other phases of biology and physics, which otherwise could be grasped only by intricate, laborious study.

Surplus Citrus Crop Bought By U. S.

LAKELAND, Fla., May 8.—The federal government today was in the market for the remaining third class grapefruit of the 1935-36 crop at a price of 75 cents a box.

The Florida citrus commission announced yesterday it had been authorized to buy the fruit for the federal surplus commodities corporation which plans to distribute it through relief agencies in such a way as not to disturb normal traffic.

Frank E. Brigham, commission secretary who announced the purchase plan, said the commission would handle the shipping and prorate the purchases. He could make no estimate on the amount of fruit likely to be offered.

Dr. Sigmund Freud Has 80th Birthday

VIENNA, May 8.—Dr. Sigmund Freud, distinguished psychoanalyst, appeared ill and enfeebled Wednesday as he observed his 80th birthday.

Numerous telegrams came from writers and scientists the world over. Visits of intimate friends were allowed but were brief.

The official Austrian message came from Under-Secretary of Education Hans Pernter. Authorities banned its publication in the Austrian press, lest such an acknowledgment offend religious groups.

Among the visitors was Thornton Wilder, American author, and a message was received from Dr. Albert Einstein.

May Expect Weather Like That Of 1918

ATLANTA, May 8.—Encouraged by his record as a long distance prophet on Georgia weather, R. D. Paschall gazed at intricate charts today and declared the nation as a whole may expect a repetition of 1918 conditions this summer.

Weather records showed about normal temperatures for the summer of 18 years ago with July a little cool and August a little warm. Rainfall was slightly below normal.

Paschall an employe in the state income tax department, based his prediction in large part on the moon.

His successful prediction of the destructive ice storm that gripped Atlanta during the Christmas season first brought his work to serious public attention.
