

Polkville YTHF Choose Officers For Coming Year

Honors For Year Are Named; Recreational Work Is Planned.

The following officers have been elected to lead the chapter next year: President, Warren Warlick; secretary, T. G. Bridges; treasurer, Charles Whisnant; reporter, James Turner; and adviser, E. L. Dillingham.

Warren Warlick and T. G. Bridges have been elected as official delegates from the Polkville chapter of the state convention to be held in Raleigh July 2 and 3.

At the same meeting Loy Crowder will represent Polkville in the district F. F. A. public speaking contest. He will use as his subject, "Savings and Investments for Future Farmers."

James Turner, past president, won the medal for being the most outstanding agricultural student for the past year. This medal is given each year by the local agricultural teacher.

Clarence Beam and Loy Crowder have recently been named winners of fourth and fifth places with $7.50 and $5 cash prizes respectively in an essay contest sponsored by the department of vocational education and the educational bureau of the Chilean Nitrate company.

The strawberry crop of southeast Carolina will be short this season due to the late, wet spring, the subsequent dry weather and the prevalence of leaf diseases.

Flying Squadron In Hands Of Officers

GAFFNEY, S. C., May 20.—"Flying squadron" from Gaffney, reportedly headed for Spartan Mills at Spartanburg for the purpose of attempting to assist strikers in preventing the reopening of the mills yesterday, flew directly into the hands of the Spartanburg county officers.

Approximately 65 from this city were reported being held in the Spartanburg county jail yesterday morning. It was said charges of violating section No. 1380 of the code would be preferred.

In addition to the Gaffney people, Spartanburg officers were holding eight from Tucapau and eleven from Inman.

Reports from Spartanburg stated the Spartan Mills were operating with a larger force than any day last week, which was the first of the strike. It was said more employees went into the factory yesterday than at any time since the strike was called.

Ellenboro Farmers Hear C. O. Kuester

C. O. Kuester, secretary of Charlotte chamber of commerce, inspired Ellenboro sweet potato growers and their wives Friday night in the school gymnasium where he spoke on the values and possibilities of co-operative associations to 150 who attended the annual banquet of the Ellenboro Sweet Potato Storage company.

Before he spoke A. B. Bushong, who is president of the company and who acted as toastmaster distributed nearly $300 in cash dividends to the shareholders in the company. This represented six percent interest in their investment in the company. For the past five years and during the depression the company paid this dividend to its members.

Shelby continues to build—at a pace that apparently exceeds the record year of 1925. A survey made this week of the up-town residential section revealed that 25 homes are now under construction, not including homes just completed or contracted for.

In addition several homes are being remodeled and several business buildings are under construction. Shelby's building program in 1925 ran into the millions and classed with the larger cities of the state.

Arey Brothers put a new Texaco gas on the market Friday morning. The merits of the new fluid are told in a page ad appearing in this issue of The Star.

Bids are being asked by the city on 28,700 square yards of pavement surface, 7,000 cubic yards of excavation, 14,000 feet of curb and gutter, 9,600 feet of flush curb or maricopa and about 1,700 feet of drain. Sealed bids will be taken to be opened in the city hall on June 9th.

Petitions signed by property owners have been received and passed on, the street paving program calling for a bond issue of $125,000.

This week A. E. Cline, chairman of the county board of commissioners announces his candidacy to succeed himself.

Joe Wesson, prominent farmer of the Western portion of the township, announces his candidacy for highway commissioner in No. 6.

Four hundred are expected to attend the meeting this evening of members of the six Baptist Young People's unions of the First Baptist church, of which Harry M. Pippin is leader.

Using a two by four scantling to break the glass in the rear door, a thief or thieves entered the store of Tom Eskridge, grocer, in the Royster building Wednesday night. Small change in the cash drawer and some shelf goods were missing.

The Star issues eighteen pages today, the largest single issue since the paper was changed from twice to three times a week.

James Webb Gardner, Steve Woodson and Julian Ford spent Wednesday in Hendersonville going up especially to see the famous Jack Dempsey in training.

The wedding of Miss Eva Wilson and A. E. Gregory was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Beam on May 19, at 4 o'clock the bride's father, Rev. B. Wilson officiating.

SNPA Convention Adjournment Today

ASHEVILLE, May 21.—A round of speeches and discussions with reports on classified advertising and engraving plants were heard by delegates to the 34th annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association just before adjournment early this afternoon.

Mark Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, speaking on "The Changing Newspaper" said "There have been many changes during the past 25 years but there has been no change in the principal which guides the publication of a successful newspaper: that principal which dictates that the newspaper must have adequate resources to collect news, intelligence to handle and courage to comment upon it, frankly, unafraid, unawed and unsubsidized."

The board of directors probably will be instructed to select the 1937 meeting place later.

Ethridge criticized low salaries in news departments and urged southern newspapers to lead in a fight for a "better south."

Spinners Operate Above Normal Run

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The cotton spinning industry was reported today by the census bureau to have operated during April at 110.9 capacity on a single shift basis compared with 108.1 during March this year and 85.3 during April last year. Spinning spindles in place April 30 totaled 28,602,580 of which 23,123,536 "were active at some time during the month."

Active spindle hours and the average per spindle in place for April by states included: North Carolina 1,713,164,573 and 282; South Carolina 1,858,497,629 and 323.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Popular Misconceptions.

In a recent address on "The Art of Medicine," Dr. Christopher Howard discussed a number of popular misconceptions.

People cling with conviction and sometimes emphasis to the belief that inso unia is dangerous to health and leads to mental exhaustion and insanity. There is no jot of proof that such is the case. Though bodily rest is essential, mental oblivion, even apparent, is not necessary to recurrent and adequate activity of the mind.

The amount of sleep required by a given organism varies between very wide limits. The best brain workers and those who, by the world's standards are acclaimed as great, often sleep very little.

This must not be taken as a plea for less sleep. It merely means insomnia is not necessarily harmful. The belief is also widespread that overwork leads to a nervous breakdown. Brain work itself never leads to any damage of the nervous tissue, but five minutes' fear or a day's worry, which is civilization's substitute for fear, may effect a person irreparably for the worse.

Many will argue that they know from personal experience of given cases in which overwork at college or on a new job has caused a "nervous breakdown." Appearances uncritically accepted seem to bear out this contention, but a critical analysis of the cited cases would reveal that the nervous breakdown was not the result of the overwork, but rather the reverse. The intensive and oftentimes comparatively unproductive work was the result and expression of an anxiety which ultimately led to the so-called nervous breakdown.

In a healthy animal too much work, whether physical or mental, leads to fatigue and fatigue dictates rest and recuperation. In the anxious person, excess fatigue becomes a stimulant which, if unchecked, may lead to the disorganization of the individual's mental and emotional life, and in consequence, a breakdown.
