

BTC Will Advertise For Dean Of Instruction

BY MARJORIE MEGIVERN
Despite an ongoing investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation, the Brunswick Technical College board of trustees voted Wednesday to advertise for a dean of instruction.

"We desperately need this position," said Trustee Kelly Holden, "although we voted at our last meeting to hold off on it till the SBI investigation was finished."

The inquiry was begun in March following the discovery of fraudulent classes reported by Cape Fear Technical Institute in Wilmington.

Holden told the board no new information is available on the probe, and said, "There's no indication when it will end. We need the dean because people have no one to answer to when (President Joe) Carter's out of town."

Trustee Frankie Rabon said, "It (the investigation) could drag on up to 12 months."

Trustee Eugene Hewett wondered who is presently in charge in Carter's absence, and Carter replied it was Vernon Ward, finance officer.

Architect James Pittman reported the construction of a library-student center is on schedule.

"The concrete block work is finished and brick work has started," he said. "Most of the duct work is done downstairs."

He added that bids are ready to be let by July 24 on the Interagency building and sewage disposal system.

The board approved a recommendation from Holden to contract with Institutional Development Associates for one year, at a cost of $14,000 plus expenses, to study and analyze BTC's potential for a resource and development program.

Holden said IDA will identify community resources and recommend how to broaden the college's base of financial support. Over a three-year program, the organization will set up a program of annual giving, endowments and gifts for special purposes.

Personnel will be trained to do fund-raising for the institution.

New faculty members hired were Anita Pulley as practical nursing instructor, and Mark Burch, audiovisual technician. Belinda Formyduval was welcomed as the new administrative assistant.

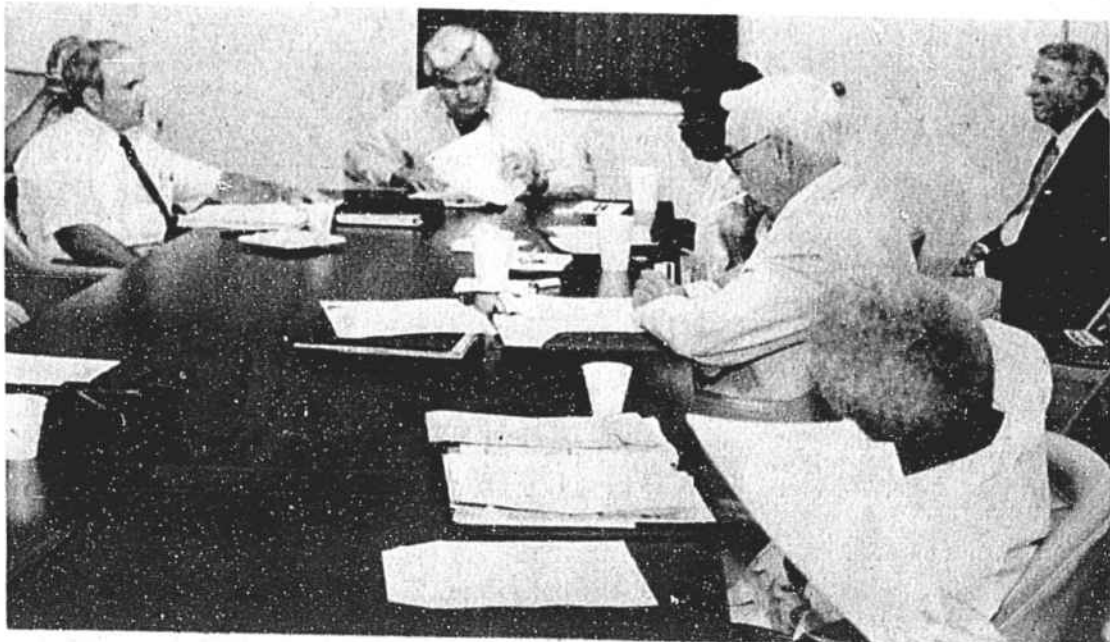

Holden read a legislative report concerning a bill, just passed in the state house of representatives, that would require all technical institutes to be called community colleges.

"The changes wouldn't make our courses parallel to those in colleges," Carter said.

In other business, the board:
• Heard a presidential evaluation is due by June, 1988, and evaluations from other institutions are being studied;

• Agreed that vending machine profits would be used for social functions of students and staff only;

• Renewed a contract with Southeastern Mental Health.

Computer Awareness Workshops Offered

Workshops on computer awareness will be offered at all branches of the Brunswick County Library next month, according to Nancy Price, adult services coordinator.

Speakers will be Bill and Glenda Kotchish of Ocean Isle Beach.

They will discuss the Radio Shack TRS computers available for public use at each of the library branches and available programs, as well as general information on use of personal computers in the home and workplace. The schedule for these sessions is July 9, 2 p.m., West Brunswick Branch Library, Shallotte; July 17, at 2 p.m. at the Southport Library; and July 22 at 2 p.m. at the Leland Branch Library.

Also on July 9, they will conduct a teen computer workshop at the West Brunswick Branch Library at 4 p.m. This session is aimed at introducing teens ages 14 and older to the computer.

More information is available by calling any branch.

CRC Endorses Access Funds

Gov. Jim Martin's request for $2 million from the 1987 N.C. General Assembly for more beach access and coastal area acquisitions has been endorsed by the N.C. Coastal Resources Commission.

In a resolution adopted June 5, the CRC praised Gov. Martin "for his leadership in recognizing the need for additional state resources to implement the beach access and coastal natural areas acquisition programs."

Gov. Martin requested the additional funding in his supplemental budget May 15.

The CRC's resolution cited a "shortage of beach access points" and also said the need for protection of natural areas "is a vital component of an effective coastal management program for North Carolina."

Sunset Beach will apply for more than $350,000 in grants for beach access for the 1987-88 fiscal year. The funds, if awarded, would be used to construct a regional parking facility and beach access project on the west end of the island, on 35 acres donated to the town by the Ed Gore family.

The 15-member CRC administers the Coastal Area Management Act. It is supported in its work by the Division of Coastal Management of the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.
