Four Recognized

Four Brunswick County seventh graders have qualified to attend a state recognition ceremony for academically talented students sponsored by Duke University's Talent Identification program.

They are Leland Middle School student Charlie Speight, son of Jean and Carl Speight; Shallotte Middle School students Amy L. Caison, daughter of Maurice and Lois Caison; and Lee Letina, daughter of Frank and Sandra Letina; and South Brunswick Middle School student Ronald G. Brown, son of Ronald and Sherry Brown.

Two of these students, Speight and Brown, will also be invited to the Grand Recognition Ceremony on the Duke campus June 5, due to their high SAT scores.

Students qualified for recognition by Duke University as a result of their scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

Qualifying students will be chosen for scholarships, summer enrichment camps and opportunities for continued involvement with Duke University, according to Cathy Furpless, coordinator for the schools' gifted and talented program.

Baxley Invited

Kelly A. Baxley, a sophomore at West Brunswick High School and the daughter of Dianne and Doug Baxley of Tarheel Acres, has been invited to attend the N.C. School of Science and Mathematics next fall. She was chosen for the incoming class of 282 from nearly 700 nominees statewide following a rigorous admission process.

Nye Inducted

Nicholas C. (Nick) Nye, grandson of L. Bert Nye Jr. of Tarheel Acres, Shallotte, is the valedictorian of his class at Church Farm School, a private boarding school in Chester County, Pa. Nye was also recently inducted into the school's Earl B. Wilkins Chapter of the National Honor Society. In the fall he will attend Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Va.

His twin brother, Tom, is also a senior at Church Farm School. During first through third grade, they attended Union Primary School in Shallotte.

Attending Nye's NHS induction ceremony were his aunt and uncle, Sharon and L. Bert Nye III of Great Falls, Va., who are also his foster parents.

Stitched Square

A quilt square stitched by Brunswick Community College employees Gaye Fulford and Anne Clemmons is part of a 12-foot by 5-foot quilted wall mural presented by the North Carolina Community College Adult Educators Association to the N.C. Department of Community Colleges during the community college system's 25th anniversary celebration.

Designed in hand-tied cottons and velveteens the pictorial panorama of North Carolina will hang in Raleigh's Caswell Building for one year. BCC has requested its loan for the opening of the college's new auditorium in December 1989.

Bar Elects Officers

Michael Cox was elected president of the Brunswick County Bar Association on May 11.

Also elected to one-year terms were Nancy Guyton, vice president; James Payne, secretary; Robert Serra, treasurer; and Ben Delre, librarian.

Earns All A's

Deborah FormyDuval of Southport, named to the spring semester dean's list at Peace College in Raleigh, is one of 15 Peace student who made all A's.

Wins Title

Rhonette Phillips, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Phillips of Shallotte Point, won the title of Wee Ms. Liberty Star at a pageant held May 21 in Myrtle Beach, S.C. She also won most photogenic, best portfolio and prettiest dress. She will next participate in the South Carolina state Wee Ms. Liberty Star pageant.

She is the daughter of Marilyn FormyDuval and Carl FormyDuval, both of Southport.

Kubes Wins

North Brunswick High School senior John Kubes was selected the 1988 winner of the 7th Congressional District Art Competition for high school students.

He entered a pointillistic felt tip pen study, "Discarded Stonewar Jugs," that was completed as a classroom assignment under instructor Terry Rosenfelder. The piece will hang for one year in the U.S. House of Representatives, along with works from other congressional districts nationwide.

Receives Scholarship

Sutton Crawford Foy has been awarded a Presidential scholarship for academic merit to St. Mary's College in Raleigh for the 1988-89 academic year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Foy of Long Beach, she will be a rising junior in the school's two year high school program.

Scholarship Won

Dawn Leigh Rohde of Long Beach, a senior at South Brunswick High School, has been awarded a Presidential scholarship to Lenoir-Rhyne College, Hickory.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Rohde.

Attend Workshop

Shallotte residents Mamie Wilson and Kenneth Cook, secretary and technician respectively with the Brunswick County Soil and Water Conservation District office at Bolivia, attended a May 23-25 workshop on "Conservation—A Team Approach" in Asheville.

They exchanged ideas with 60 other participants on education and information programs, photography and the team approach to conservation.

Reaves Participates

Hubert S. Reaves of Bolivia, a sanitarian with the Brunswick County Health Department, participated in the Passenger Safety Association's Lifesaver Conference May 22-24 in High Point, which focused on new information about topics such as child protection and adult seat belt usage. Reaves coordinates the health department's child passenger seat loan program.

Receives Certificate

Danny Dean Smith of Ash, a lieutenant with the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, was awarded the advanced law enforcement certificate by the North Carolina Criminal Education and Training Standards Commission on May 20.

This is the highest professional certificate awarded to law enforcement and criminal justice officers in the state. To qualify, officers must complete a combination of professional training and relevant education, as well as meet minimum experience requirements.

Jones To Teach

Phillip T. Jones, son of Jacob Lee and Olene Jones of Ocean Isle Beach, has been certified to teach in the Arizona public schools. A 1987 graduate of the University of Arizona, he graduated from Ben L. Smith High School in Greensboro. He is married to the former Judy Wein-zaphel of Tucson.

Stanley Chosen

LaShonda Stanley, winner of the Brunswick County Fashion Revue, attended 4-H Clothing Camp May 20-22 at Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Camp in Reidsville, where she was chosen as one of the top 25 participants to model at the State Fashion Revue at 4-H Congress in Raleigh this summer.

She was accompanied to camp by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Marvin Stanley of Longwood.

Clothing-related classes were taught, stressing personal development in modeling, fabric painting and discovering "action" fabrics.

Attends Conference

Ouida Hewett of Shallotte, coordinator of the Brunswick County Volunteer and Information Center Inc., attended the annual convention of the North Carolina Association of Volunteer Administration (NCAVA) in Raleigh May 18-20. She participated in a variety of workshops.

NCAVA is the professional association for directors of volunteer programs in the state.

Attend Meeting

Staff members Ouida Hewett and Grace Bratt of the Brunswick County Volunteer and Information Center Inc. attended the NCAIRES conference at Shell Island.

The association, for information and referral services statewide, provided workshops on topics such as promotion of services and identifying community resources.

Shallotte Children Appear In Wilmington Production

Elizabeth and Will Milligan, daughter and son of Davis and Cathy Milligan of Shallotte, are in the cast of "After Happily Ever After," a production of the Thalian Children's Theater.

Performances are scheduled for 2 p.m. June 10, 8 p.m. June 11 and 2 p.m. June 12 at Roland-Grise Junior High School in Wilmington.

Elizabeth will portray a Munchkin and Will the dwarf "Sleepy" in the play written by Wilmington playwright Steve Cooper. Marjorie Megivern, associate editor of The Brunswick Beacon, directs.

The fantasy-comedy deals with well-known fairy tale characters. In Cooper's story, those thought of as "bad guys" tell their sides of such tales as "Cinderella," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Little Red Riding Hood."

Tickets for the show are $4 for adults and $2 for children, and may be purchased at the door.

The children's theater is a new organization of Thalian Association. "After Happily Ever After" is its second production.

The group is open to area children.

Seeing Well As You Grow Older

A Special 12-Part Series About Our Changing Eyesight
Sponsored By Carolina Eye Associates, P.A.

Cataracts May Improve Your Vision

By George Tate, Jr. M.D.

"What did you say? Cataracts can improve your vision? It couldn't be!"

Well, yes, sometimes cataracts in their early stages can cause a temporary improvement in sight.

General MacArthur, testifying before Congress in one of the first televised broadcasts from Washington, D.C., was observed to read his entire speech without the use of glasses. An alert eye surgeon called the General's office to recommend an examination for cataracts.

In the early stages of a cataract, the soft, aspirin-like lens inside the eye hardens and actually bends light more efficiently into focus at the back of the eye. After years of using reading glasses, adults in their 50's and 60's may suddenly find that they no longer need glasses. Some mistakenly believe they are getting younger.

This phenomenon is called "second sight." It is only temporary, and it means that a cataract probably will develop sooner or later. As the cataract becomes progressively worse, vision may become cloudy. At this point, doing close work and driving at night may become more difficult.

For more information about cataracts, or information about other eye disorders, call SightLine, our toll-free information service at 1-800-227-5189.

This special series on eyes is sponsored by Carolina Eye Associates of Brunswick County, Brunswick Hospital at Doctors Complex #2, Supply, NC. Phone (919) 754-5434.
