

UNCLAIMED PROPERTY LISTED

State Treasurer Has Good News For Some Brunswick Residents

Once again the State of North Carolina is making its annual effort to unite individuals with unclaimed money and property that is rightfully theirs.

Each year the state treasurer's office tries to return such items as forgotten bank account holdings, uncashed dividend or refund checks, unclaimed utility and rent deposits and unclaimed insurance proceeds.

Last year the office's Escheat and Unclaimed Property Program matched $1.8 million with 3,400 owners.

The list of Brunswick County residents with property due them includes Doshier Memorial Hospital, which has $52 coming, as well as the following individuals and businesses, who are due sums ranging from $50 to $3,691, stock and real property:

Shallotte Town Board Spreads Holiday Cheer

Scrooge and The Grinch were nowhere in sight last Wednesday night when the Shallotte Board of Aldermen gathered at town hall.

With the Christmas holiday on their minds, board members approved $75 bonuses for all 19 town employees and voted to give employees two days off for the holiday instead of the one day they've gotten in the past.

As always, the town will also give a Christmas party for employees and their families. This year's pig picking will be held Wednesday, Dec. 20, in lieu of the regular town meeting that night.

Though town employees will have two days off this year, the town will continue to operate as normal except for Christmas Day. With Christmas falling on a Monday this year, half of the workers will take off Friday and the other half will take off Tuesday. Everyone gets off Christmas Day.

In other business last week, the board backed up and set a public hearing for Jan. 3, 1990, on several zoning changes. Aldermen had adopted a new set of zoning ordinances at its last meeting, but had not advertised that the zoning of some lots would be changed under the new zoning map.

The board also plans to meet with a consultant with the state Division of Community Assistance in the near future to discuss the possible establishment on an extraterritorial area. If the town sets up the jurisdictional area, it would be able to enforce its zoning laws and subdivision regulations and the state building code as far as one mile outside the town limits.

Last week's hour-long town meeting also featured a 20-minute executive session called to discuss a legal matter with the town attorney. The board took no action following the closed session.
