

Teenagers Plead To Misdemeanor Charges In Area Break-Ins

Two Longwood teenagers charged with the larceny of more than $11,000 in property from three area businesses pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges in Brunswick County District Court last week.

Both received suspended sentences and were given credit for time served in the Brunswick County Jail while awaiting trial. They must repay the business owners for damages and items taken that were not recovered.

Grant A. Canfield IV, 18, must spend an additional four days in jail. Judge D. Jack Hooks Jr. ordered Canfield pleaded guilty to three counts of misdemeanor breaking and entering and three counts of misdemeanor larceny in a plea bargain agreement with Assistant District Attorney Lee Bollinger.

James David Whaley, 16, also pleaded guilty to the same charges, but because he spent more time in jail before making bail he was not given an additional active sentence.

Both men were given a two-year suspended sentence and placed on two years' supervised probation. Together, they must pay the following businesses for damages and items taken in the November break-ins: $1,374.50 to Reed's Country Store in Longwood; $1,288.40 to Brunswick Farm Supply in Ash; and an amount to be determined by probation officers to Mike's Marine of Shallotte.

Judge Hooks also ordered that the men not go on or about the property of the three businesses and to remain in school on a full-time basis until each receives a general equivalency diploma or a high school diploma, or remain employed full-time.

They were both fined $250 and ordered to pay $150 in attorney fees to their court-appointed attorney, Michael Ramos.

Most of the property taken from the break-ins was recovered by detectives with the Brunswick County Sheriff's Department following an anonymous tip received in December. A number of boat motors taken from Mike's Marine on N.C. 130 west of Shallotte were found hidden in the Nakina area in Columbus County.

During the break-in at Mike's Marine, merchandise was also ransacked and paint was poured onto the floor and shelves.
