

Three Accused Of Larceny To Stand Trial April 24

Trial for three people charged with larceny from four area businesses has been scheduled for April 24.

Shallotte Police and Brunswick County sheriff's detectives charged the suspects Feb. 19 for the alleged shoplifting spree involving three Shallotte stores and a convenience store in Bolivia.

Charged on four counts of larceny were John L. Epps Jr., 47, of Bolton; Patricia Ann Dawson, 38, of Whiteville; and Juanita Lee Johnson, 54, of Whiteville.

The suspects were arrested after a car was stopped on N.C. 87 near Maco after Sgt. Carl Pearson of the Brunswick County Sheriff's Department observed merchandise being thrown out of the windows.

Det. Tom Hunter of the Shallotte Police Department said merchandise was reportedly taken from stores in Shallotte around noon on Feb. 19 and from Kopp's Quik Stop near Bolivia an hour later.

Detectives recovered goods worth $625 that apparently were taken from Jones, Bridal Affair, Wilson's and Food Lion in Shallotte. The merchandise included 10 cartons of cigarettes, two prom dresses, two sets of sheets, a dress, one pair of socks, two pairs of women's panties, a skirt and blouse.

Clarifications

In last week's court docket, Melissa Crumbley was incorrectly listed as having been charged with misdemeanor larceny. The actual charge against her was communicating threats. It was voluntarily dismissed.

The incorrect information was given to The Brunswick Beacon by the Brunswick County Clerk of Court's office.
