Rotarians Help Flood Victims In Bangladesh

The Rotary Club of the South Brunswick Islands is helping with disaster relief activities in Bangladesh.

The local chapter sent a $785 check to the Dhaka Bangladesh Rotary Club last week to help families there who were hit by a massive storm April 30, said Milton Iossi, local Rotary Club president.

That storm killed around 140,000 people and left approximately 10 million others homeless in low-lying southern parts of the impoverished South Asian country of 110 million people.

The South Brunswick Islands club has a sister-club relationship with the original Dhaka Club, the first of 18 in Bangladesh's capital.

In 1988, the South Brunswick Islands club donated $770 to flood relief to the Dhaka Club, which used it to help build seven homes to house 28 people whose shelters had been lost to storms, said Iossi.

Iossi was a member of the Dhaka Club from 1983 to 1985.

At the district assembly in Jacksonville, N.C., last week, Rotary International District 7730 made an appeal to local clubs to seek donations to help Bangladesh, Iossi said.

Rotary International began in 1905 and is now in 174 nations. It promotes world peace, international service, plus friendship and ethical standards in business and professional activities.

"Needless to say, small donations of U.S. dollars often go a long way in providing relief in poorer Third World economies," Iossi said.

Organizations or individuals wishing to donate should contact a local Rotarian.

The Rotary Club of the South Brunswick Islands meets for breakfast each Friday, at 7:30 a.m., at the Sandpiper Bay Golf and Country Club on Old Georgetown Road near Calabash. Visitors are welcome.
