

Judge Accepts Misdemeanor Plea In Shallotte Point Larceny

A teen charged with breaking into two Shallotte Point homes in May pleaded guilty in Brunswick County District Court last week to two counts of misdemeanor larceny.

Matthew William Kaufhold, 19, of Yaupon Beach, was ordered by Judge Jerry A. Jolly to return to school full time or to obtain his general equivalency diploma.

On each count, Kaufhold was sentenced to two years in prison, suspended for two years and placed on two years' supervised probation. He was also ordered to spend three weeks in the Brunswick County Jail and given credit for time served awaiting trial.

Kaufhold was charged with two counts of breaking and entering and larceny in May by Brunswick County Sheriff's Detective Billy Hughes.

Another defendant charged with the break-ins, Tracy Donald Ihlefeld, 22, of Long Beach, had all charges against him voluntarily dismissed in District Court last week.

Kaufhold was accused of breaking into two homes near Carter's Oyster House, one owned by Susan and H.E. Bruce and another by Dorothy Davis Boyd.

Judge Jolly ordered that Kaufhold pay Ms. Boyd $1,000 in restitution and $300 to the Bruce family. He must also undergo an assessment and not violate any laws for two years.

Charges of breaking and entering against Kaufhold were voluntarily dismissed.

According to the sheriff's report, taken from the Bruce residence were a three-speed fan and food items. A back door had been forced open.

Ms. Boyd's residence had been broken into May 16. An estimated $107 in assorted coins and dollar bills were taken after a window had been forced open.
