Towns Awarded Planning Grants

Boiling Spring Lakes and Calabash are two of 12 communities to receive funds from the State of North Carolina for land use planning projects.

Boiling Spring Lakes will receive $5,520, while the local government will contribute $1,380 to the cost of the project.

Calabash will get $4,900, with a local match of $2,100.

Land use planning enables local officials to conserve valuable resources while guiding community growth to areas best suited for development, according to a news release from the N.C. Division of Coastal Management. The Coastal Area Management Act plans must be updated every five years and those which are due for updating have funding priority.

The grant is administered by the Division of Coastal Management, N.C. Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resources.

Summer Numbers Dipped At BCC

Summer curriculum enrollment at Brunswick Community College this year is slightly behind that of a year ago.

Ann Marie Bellamy, public information officer, said 263 students enrolled in summer quarter classes, compared to 272 in the 1990 summer quarter.

Current operating funds are allotted to each community college based on full time equivalent students (FTE) generated in the curriculum programs for the preceding academic year. However, Mrs. Bellamy said summer quarter is not included in calculations for these funds.
