

Fishing Tournament, Blitz, And Free Computers Keep Chamber Moving, Shaking

BY HOLLY RICHARDS, EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT
South Brunswick Islands Chamber of Commerce

Yes folks it's here! The South Brunswick Islands King Classic is this weekend. We expect some 250 boats to enter our tournament. We have $100,000+ in prize money available. Boats will be leaving from Marsh Harbour, Ocean Isle Beach and Holden Beach marinas with anglers from all over vying for all that cold cash. Our Captains meetings are Friday, Aug. 31 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the National Guard Armory in Shalotte. We need all of our volunteers to stop by the armory between 12 noon and 7 p.m. to pick up their tee-shirts and assignments. There are still a few King Classic Shirts available for $10 at area merchants and at the chamber office.

If you haven't registered your boat we encourage you to do so as soon as possible. You can't win if you don't enter. We have picked a theme for our 1992 Membership Blitz Contest. Congratulations to Fran Salone-Pelletier of Sunset Beach who submitted the theme "The Charter of Champions." Fran was with us on Tuesday morning, Aug. 27, to accept her great prizes. Fran is now our honorary Membership Ambassador. If you haven't renewed your chamber membership dues or your business isn't a chamber member, be on the lookout for one of our membership ambassadors. We'll be calling on you. You might even get to meet Fran. Thanks to all the area businesses for donating all the great prizes.

Now, I've saved the bragging rights for last. Our chamber has done it again. In working with IBM in the Research Triangle Park and David Batten at Brunswick Electric, we have obtained 20, yes that's right, 20 IBM personal computers for our middle school. We are extremely excited about these computers. This is equipment needed to train our future, our children. I can't say enough about the importance of educating our kids on computers in order to make them more able to compete in the future job market. A heart-felt thanks to David, his staff and to IBM for donating the computers. I told you this chamber is moving and shaking. The fun never stops around here.

Learn Spanish Basics Fast

Need to learn to communicate in Spanish quickly?

Brunswick Community College (BCC) is offering conversational Spanish classes at several times and locations starting next month.

A continuing education class starts Sept. 10 and continues through Wed., Oct. 30, meeting Mondays through Thursdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in Room 162 of the A.I.S. Building on the college's main campus in Supply.

Spanish I will be taught Mondays and Wednesdays, while Spanish II is offered Tuesdays and Thursdays for advanced students continuing their study of Spanish.

The class is designed to meet the needs of clinical personnel, teachers and store managers, but will help anyone who works with Spanish speaking persons or has Spanish speaking friends. Cost is $30, payable at the first class meeting. The class is free for North Carolina residents age 65 and older.

For more information contact the Continuing Education Dept. at BCC, 754-6922, 457-6329 or 343-0203, or the instructor, Paul Hernandez, 754-2032.

Joins Staff

Two people have joined the staff of Grand Strand General Hospital in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Kimberly B.C. Goh, a plastic surgeon, has been granted staff privileges and will join Dr. Ken Smith's practice. Also, Caroline Vrbka has joined as clinical dietitian.

Ms. Goh graduated from the University of Louisville School of Medicine in 1984.

Ms. Vrbka, who will be responsible for the nutritional component of patient treatment, graduated from Kearney State College in Nebraska in 1989.

State Claims Ocean Isle Contractor Not Licensed

An Ocean Isle Beach businessman who installs heating and air conditioning units doesn't have a license to perform the work, the state claims in a lawsuit filed in Brunswick County Superior Court last week.

Charles E. Henry II, whose business is listed as Island Mechanical Services, has never been the holder of a valid license or certificate of renewal license by the State Board of Examiners of Plumbing, Heating and Fire Sprinkler Contractors, the suit states.

It asks that a Superior Court judge halt Henry's alleged violation of the state regulations until he is properly licensed.

The board regulates persons engaged in the business of contracting plumbing, heating and fire sprinkler installation in North Carolina. According to the N.C. General Statutes, the work Henry is allegedly performing requires a license.

The complaint states that on Oct.

30, 1985, Henry signed an affidavit admitting he had contracted to install two heat pumps without first obtaining a license from the board and agreed to desist doing work for which a license is required.

The suit lists three jobs on Ocean Isle where Henry has allegedly performed work without a license since then.

It accuses Henry of installing a 3-ton Janitrol heat pump at the Joseph Ferlanto residence on Newport Street, Ocean Isle.

It also claims Henry installed a 2 1/2-ton air conditioner and a 50,000 BTU Janitrol gas furnace and duct system at the Tim Holcomb residence at Crown Creek, Ocean Isle, in April 1991.

A third incident alleges Henry installed a 5-ton Janitrol heat pump and duct system at a business owned by John Sutton on East Second Street, Ocean Isle, in May 1991.

Lakewood, Other Projects Get Planners' Approval

BY TERRY POPE

Lakewood Estates subdivision on Ocean Isle Beach Road (SR 1184) will grow by another 116 lots, according to a plat approved by the Brunswick County Planning Board last week.

Applicants Chris Chappell and William Benton plan to develop the area east of the existing subdivision with minimum lot sizes of 10,500 square feet.

"This area will round out the subdivision," said Chappell.

The north side of the development borders the Shalotte River.

Chappell also spoke to the planning board last Wednesday to ask if the planning department could use in-house maps to determine if lots lie within the 100-year flood zone that is unsuitable for development.

Developers must now pay Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) officials for that information. It is both costly and time consuming, Chappell said.

County Engineer Robert Tucker said the county has the capability and could provide the service if next year's budget allows for the purchasing of necessary supplies.

"We could place their (FEMA) information on our aerial photos," said Tucker.

Bent Tree Plantation

The planning board also approved two additions to Bent Tree Plantation near Ocean Isle Beach.

In one plat, Gate IV, nine lots will be created at the southern end of the development. In another plat, up to 24 lots will be created south of N.C. 179.

Lots in Gate IV border the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway and Big Gut Marsh, with the smallest approximately 90-feet by 100-feet.

Applicants Paul Dennis, Rae Sloan Cox and George Sloan III say the changes will complete the subdivision.

The developers had originally planned to build a 68-unit condominium project on the land, said George Sloan.

"Given the nature of multi-family sales now, we changed to single-family sites," said Sloan.

Ellen Acres

Bobby and Mary Alice Albea received approval to develop Ellen Acres subdivision, a 19-lot site on the north side of Andrew Jackson Highway (U.S. 74-76) at Maco.

An entrance to the subdivision will lie about 555-feet from Northwest Road (SR 1419). The smallest lot will be about one acre.

Albea told the planning board that he is working with N.C. Department of Transportation officials to have a turn lane built off of U.S. 74-76.

A service road will eliminate driveway connections to the busy highway.

Longwood project

Planners postponed until the September meeting action on an unnamed subdivision that would include 18 lots between Ash-Little River Road (SR 1300) and Longwood Road (SR 1330).

The board wants the agent, surveyor Bobby Long, to try to negotiate with adjacent landowners for a 60-foot right of way. The preliminary plat submitted last week by owners Larry K. and Treva Broome shows only a 20-foot right of way leading to the development.

"I don't think that's realistic," said Michael Schaub, planning board member.

Wetlands are involved on part of the land platted, said Planning Director John Harvey. The smallest lot will be 200-feet by 210-feet.

"The wetlands are not in the area where homes will be built," added Long.
