Triple Calamity

Bolivia Elementary School students recently practiced what they would do in the event of a multiple calamity—a rainy day fire drill in which they evacuated to buses instead of the school yard. Once inside the buses, students were asked to pretend that the buses were on fire, requiring evacuation through the rear emergency doors. Above, Brenda Tayloe (left) and Marva Moss (right) help student Jessica Scarberry exit the bus. Students completed the full drill in less than 12 minutes.

Parents Involved In Union Program

Union Primary School celebrated American Education Week by involving parents in conferences.

The sessions held for teachers to demonstrate school programs for parents took place after school hours Nov. 21, according to a school news release.

Some of the conferences held were: "Reading Recovery" with Kim Royal and Foy Crary; "Storytelling" with Etherine Butler; "Those Lousy Lice" with Kate Williamson; "Chapter One Reading Program" with Pat Ward and Doris Wilson; "Make and Take" with David Everett; "Math Can Be Fun" with Mary Paul Beall and Leannah Culbreth; "DARE" with Lt. Ronald Hewett; "Homework Without Tears" with Carolyn Yarbrough; and "Reading Aloud to Children" with Diane Chandler, Kim Briles and Nancy Wemyss.

Students were encouraged to attend with their parents, and recreational activities were provided for their entertainment.

Coordinators Sue Chapman and Janis Simmons announced in the news release that they plan to make this an annual event.
