

Champion To Serve Three Years As Vice President

Ron Champion, a physical education teacher at Shallotte Middle School, was elected vice president of the North Carolina Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance at its annual convention in Greensboro on Nov. 15.

The 2,000-plus-member organizational has the goal of providing a framework for development of its disciplines through information sharing, dialogue, debate and research. It promotes professionalism of its members by increasing their knowledge and promoting vital programs of good quality.

The position is a three-year term, with Champion serving as president of the Alliance in 1993-94.

Champion is in his 13th year with the Brunswick County Schools. He has presented workshops across North Carolina and in West Virginia and is serving as a consultant in intramural sports this year for Bladen County Schools.

Driver Award

Diane Fodrie of Bolivia is the January bus driver of the month at Bolivia Elementary, announced school publicist Thommi Arnold.

Mrs. Fodrie has been a bus driver and teacher assistant with Brunswick County Schools for five years. She is also the communications chairperson for the Brunswick County Cloggers and a member of Towncreek Church.

Receives Degree

Vickie Lynn King received a bachelor of science in business administration degree this winter from the John A. Walker College of Business, Appalachian State University, Boone.

She completed a double major in management and finance.

Ms. King is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. King of Rocky Mount and granddaughter of the late William and Vada Leah King of Bolivia.

Named To List

Two local residents have made the dean's list at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro for the fall 1991 semester, said Wilson Davis, director of the school's information services.

Bernard H. Flythe of Southport and Christy M. Johnson of Bolivia have both achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or higher with no grade below "C," he said, for a course load of six semester hours or more.

Student Listed

Karen R. Hewett of Supply was named to the dean's list at Campbell University School of Pharmacy for fall semester 1991, announced Paul B. Johnson of the school's public information office.

To make the list, a student must achieve a grade point average of 4.0 in the professional program.

Campbell University is a Baptist-affiliated university in Buies Creek.

Two Attended Meeting

Fay Layman of Boiling Spring Lakes and Debra Knox of the Northwest Community attended the N.C. Volunteer 4-H Leader Association Conference, Jan. 31-Feb. 2 in Greensboro.

They met with other leaders from across the state to discuss their particular involvement in county and district programs, participated in workshops and seminars and elected officers, reported Billy Privette, 4-H extension agent.

Volunteers Noted

Two local residents have made the dean's list at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro for the fall 1991 semester, said Wilson Davis, director of the school's information services.

Patrick Wayne Freshour of Shallowot is one of 11 students recently named to the president's list for excellent work during the fall semester at Chowan College, announced Lisa Newsome, director of college relations.

Donald and Elizabeth Trenton of Boiling Spring Lakes were the volunteers of the month for January at Bolivia Elementary.

They were chosen for their dedication and service to Rose Gembory's class, reported school publicist Thommi Arnold.

Reports For Duty

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Devin P. Thompson recently reported for duty aboard the guided missile frigate U.S.S. R.G. Bradley, homeported in Charleston, S.C.

He is the son of William C. and Wanda B. Jones of Southport and a 1988 graduate of South Brunswick High School, Boiling Spring Lakes.

Detective Finds No Evidence Of Sexual Activity In Class

Two separate investigations have failed to turn up any evidence substantiating rumors of alleged sexual misconduct by students in a South Brunswick High School classroom.

"After spending all day out there I can't substantiate that anything happened," Brunswick County Sheriff's Juvenile Detective Nancy Simpson said last week. "It is my opinion that the allegation was based on rumors."

She spent a day on the Boiling Spring Lakes campus interviewing students who were allegedly involved in the incident and other students who were in the classroom during the same period. All denied seeing or hearing any sexual activity.

"There was nothing sexual that happened," she concluded. "It was all hearsay. Some kids were cutting up and the rumors got out of hand."

She traced the rumors to a joking comment made after a student spilled hand lotion on the floor of the classroom.

If she had found evidence of any actual wrongdoing, the detective said she would have made arrests and had advised the school system of that in advance.

Rumors circulated in the county that in a ninth grade class on Jan. 24 a girl sat on the lap of a student athlete during class and the two reportedly engaged in some type of sexual activity.

The rumors spread quickly throughout the school attendance district, prompting one concerned parent to address the school board at its Feb. 3 meeting.

Brunswick County Schools conducted its own investigation and found no substance to the rumors, but called in the sheriff's department to help make sure its findings were correct and to get an unbiased opinion, said Ms. Simpson.

college in Murfreesboro.

Freshour is a graduate of Sprayberry Senior High School.

Passes Exam

Beatrice Flythe of Southport, a nurse with the Brunswick County Schools, recently became one of the first nationally certified school nurses in North Carolina.

She completed the School Nurse Certification Exam administered by the American Nurses' Association. She prepared for the exam by attending classes at East Carolina University last spring and by studying the N.C. School Health Manual.

Mrs. Flythe has been a county school nurse for 12 years. She currently divides her time among the four schools in the southern attendance district: Bolivia Elementary, Southport Elementary, South Brunswick Middle and South Brunswick High.

Regional Winner

Charles Osborne, a student at South Brunswick High School, was named the Region 6 winner in the Muddy Water Essay Contest for high school students.

The contest was sponsored by Keep North Carolina Clean & Beautiful Inc.

As a regional winner he received $50 and attended the state judging and awards luncheon Jan. 29 in Greensboro, a news release indicated.

January's Finest

Willie Mae Waddell of Leland has been named Bolivia Elementary's employee of the month for January, said Thommi Arnold, school publicist.

Mrs. Waddell was selected by co-workers for her outstanding service to the school, where she has been a custodian for 17 years.
