BY HOLLY RICHARDS, EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT South Brunswick Islands Chamber Of Commerce

Spring is coming, we're finally on daylight savings time. I couldn't be happier. When I was a kid, I couldn't wait for daylight savings time. It meant that summer was on its way. School would soon be out, I could go barefooted and we would be going to the beach. Easter's almost here. Easter's the start of the vacation season in the South Brunswick Islands. The start of the vacation season means families influx dollars into our economy. That, my friends, means the chamber's hard work is paying off. I for one am glad old man winter is going to sleep. Even in the dead of winter, we here at the chamber are busy promoting our area. (Believe me, I was in some cold places this winter). Everywhere we went, we told anyone who would listen how warm and beautiful the South Brunswick Islands are.

For me, talking up our islands is easy, it just comes natural. I hate cold weather. My favorite season is summer. I love everything that goes along with it, shorts, flip flops, suntans and, of course, the people. In the summer attitudes are better. Maybe that's why the people here are so friendly. Besides, this is one of the most beautiful places on earth. Why would you want to be anyplace else?

As most of you know, I came here in the middle of July of last year. The chamber was into the crucial, finishing stages of the King Classic and the Oyster Festival. That meant diving into a new job and learning the ropes and it meant I was not able to enjoy most of the finer things that the South Brunswick Islands has to offer.

All that has changed. I've learned a lot this year. I guess you could say I've got my feet firmly planted and sand in my shoes. Also, in this community, I've made some very dear friends. I'm as excited as our tourists about spending the summer here. My friends and family are lining up the weekends to come down. I never knew I had so many friends until I moved to the South Brunswick Islands. It's just amazing, people are coming out of the woodwork. (Maybe I shouldn't have talked about our beautiful beaches so much).

Speaking of friends, last week we said so long, but not goodbye, to another dear friend. Mary Barton. Mary is leaving the chamber in an employee capacity, but she'll remain very active as a volunteer. Mary served the chamber for eight years and we'll miss her. From all of us at the chamber...good luck Mary and thanks for all of your hard work.

Joining the staff of The Brunswick Beacon this week is former editor and reporter Marjorie Megivern of Wilmington.

She was first employed by the Beacon in 1978 as a part-time reporter, then served as editor from June to November of 1979, leaving at that time and returning as editor in June, 1981.

Megivern left again in November, 1982, but was back on the staff as associate editor in 1987, when she assumed editorial responsibility for Island Living, the newspaper's holiday tabloid. For the next four years she held this position until purchasing The Coastal Carolinian weekly newspaper in Wilmington, in June of 1991. Having served as its editor since that date, she resigned last week and returns to the Beacon as associate editor.

Megivern will report on education, arts and entertainment, health and social services in Brunswick
