Shellfish Relayed In Shallotte River

Three sections of Shallotte River were closed to shellfishing this week to allow the relay of oysters from polluted to clean waters.

The waters near Carter's Fish and Oyster House and Milliken's Oyster House were closed Monday to allow the relay.

Fishermen are paid $1 per bushel to move the oysters, which will cleanse themselves and be ready for harvest in the fall.

The N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries closed the local waters and is supervising the oyster relay.

South Brunswick High Students Uninjured In Three-Car Pileup

Eight South Brunswick High School students were treated for scrapes and bruises last Wednesday following a three-car pileup in front of the school, said Boiling Springs Lake Police Chief J.R. Vaughan.

Boiling Springs Lakes Volunteer Rescue Squad transported the students to Doshier Memorial Hospital in Southport.

At 1 p.m., said Vaughan, when students were given early release to accommodate an afternoon teachers' meeting, cars were lined up leaving the school when a 1987 Plymouth driven by Ambery Nicole Miller, 16, of Leland, hit the car in front of her, a 1985 Dodge, driven by 17-year-old Monica Gayle Williams of Bolivia.

Williams, in turn, rear-ended a 1983 Chevrolet truck driven by Molly Conover Franck, 18, of Southport.

There were no injuries reported by Franck and her 15-year-old sister, Frances, who was a passenger. Damages to her truck amounted to $100.

Williams' car sustained an estimated $1,000 in damages. Her passenger, 17-year-old Cajita Smith, complained of neck injuries.

Miller's vehicle had estimated damages of $1,500. She and three passengers, Jennifer Yarbough, 15, of Boiling Springs Lake; Sabrina Neal, 15, of Winnabow; and Dana Baepa, 15, of Leland, had minor injuries.
