The moment you step up to receive your high school diploma, you step into the real world. And the real world is this...75% of all new jobs will require more than a high school education. They'll require a technical education beyond high school, associate degrees in the arts and sciences, and vocational training.

Brunswick Community College offers more than one hundred courses in seventeen programs that can help you get a job, keep a job, or put you well on your way to a four-year degree. And we're close to your home and your friends.

1992 GRADUATES—We'd like to be among the first to congratulate you and to welcome you to the real world.
