Shalotte Middle School Students Receive Award Recognition June 2

It was an exciting and satisfying way to end the school year.

The June 2 Awards Day at Shalotte Middle School paid tribute to the many eighth graders who excelled during the year in a variety of academic, athletic and artistic endeavors.

The Daughters of the American Revolution award went to Cindy Fenton, who also won the coveted Gary Poulos Award, named in memory of a young man who died in a sand cave-in during his seventh grade year in March 1981. The plaque presented to her described qualities of Christian attitudes, scholarship, respect for others and participation in extracurricular activities. Miss Fenton also received a certificate and a Cross pen for four years of perfect school attendance.

ed include Woodmen of the World, given to Chad Smith; DAR Outstanding Citizen, Erica Cumbee; and Shalotte Junior Women's Club Student Arts Festival awards to Sondra Gray and Leah Sloan.

Sixteen school award winners included the language arts plaque to Jeremie Varnum; the football award to Joel Gupton; the most improved eighth grader designation to Tonya Stewart and certificates and Cross pens for nine years of perfect attendance to Joel Meshaw and Julie Long.

Recognition was also given to outstanding students in chorus, handbells, band, art French, library, horticulture, physical education, social studies, language arts and math and science.

Seventh grade marshals for the ceremony were Erin A. Lee, Diana Anderson, Sarah Brown, Amanda Chestnut, Heather Clemmons, Shenna Lancaster, Caroline Sheffield, Sue E. Sievers, Leah Sloane and Crystal Widener.

Principal Mark Owens and Assistant Principal William Detrie spoke to the students, the school chorus performed, and the processional and recessional were accompanied by music from the handbell choir.

CLUB BRIEFS

Calabash Elks Auxiliary Sets Initiation

Calabash Elks Lodge Auxiliary No. 2679 will initiate new members Wednesday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. at its regular meeting at the lodge.

Prior to the meeting, Dick Owens, esteemed leading knight, and other Elks will prepare a $5 steak dinner for the women only, serving at 6:30 p.m. with advance reservations required.

Members are also submitting recipes this month for compilation of a cookbook to be called Mrs. Calabash's Kitchen, and volunteers led by Norma Nordbruch will play bingo with resident of Brunswick Village in Shalotte Monday, June 29.

Exercise classes at the lodge continue each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. through June, then will not resume until September. Cost is $1 for members and non-members.

The Auxiliary will hold auditions June 20 from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the lodge for a talent show that will be held in September. Participants don't have to be good, said spokesman Mary Noongian, just brave enough to get up front of other members and do something. "It should be fun," she said.

Moretz Exhibits Art

Paintings by Nell Moretz are on exhibit in the Brunswick Community College (BCC) lobby until June 29.

Ms. Moretz specializes in oil and watercolor, but also works in acrylics and pen and ink drawings.

She is a member of North Carolina Nature Artists, whose shows have displayed her work, and of Associated Artists of Southport and the Oak Island Art Guild.

She teaches a painting class at the Long Beach Recreation Center through the BCC continuing education program.

Shaw Alumni Reactivate

Graduates of Shaw University in Raleigh are reorganizing the school's local alumni chapter, with meetings held the second Thursday of each month at 5 p.m., spokesman Edna Gause said.

The group has elected new officers and adopted a project for the year and is seeking additional members.

Serving as officers are Irene Hankins, president; Starrie Grissett, secretary; Sandra Robinson, treasurer and membership committee chairperson; Lizzie Mitchell, program chairperson; and Lorene Williams and Mrs. Gause, publicity chairpersons. Sam Flowers is in charge of fund raising.

As their first project the group has scheduled a local concert by the Shaw University Gospel Choir on Nov. 8.

Alumni interested in joining the local chapter can contact any of the officers for more information.
