SPORTS TALK

By "Whitie"

Carl Rogers, new P. C. H. S. coach, who took over his duties this week, has already commenced practice for this year's grid team. Here's wishing him much success. The Coach has a fine record in athletics, having starred in sports at Springfield.

There was a very good squad out for the opening days of practice. The team has suffered a heavy loss, as most of the last year's varsity was composed of seniors. Some of the heaviest losses were in the back field.

C. Brinn, the best passer and punter on last year's team, and also one of the best runners, is among the missing this year.

Britt, who was the fastest man on the team, has a job.

Other back field losses include Thompson and Newby.

The places left vacant in the line by D. Sutton, Billy Tucker, Bill Jessup, Byrum and others, will be hard to fill. However, several of last year's squad will be back again this year.

Stokes, T. Brinn and Morris should make a background for a good lineup, while Harris, who was quarterback on last year's team, will be back this year also.

Here's hoping that the new Coach will get a good response from the boys. There is a lot of good football timber in Perquimans High, even though it may take considerable hard work to build up the team to what is expected of the school.

As soon as the schedule is completed it will appear in this column.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Prove Your Angling Ability

TODAY'S Snapshot Guild is directed to all wives, husbands, daughters and sons who follow the great outdoor sport of fishing. What has fishing to do with amateur photography? Just this. The Chicago Isaak Walton League, according to news dispatches, has included in its curriculum, in the fishing school conducted in Wisconsin, a "course of truthfulness." War has been declared against the angler who persists in telling about the "big one that got away." The law of the Isaak Walton League of Chicago regarding this phase of the art of fishing is very brief and to the point. Here it is. "Get your fish, take his picture or keep quiet."

No one in particular is being accused of telling little white lies about the "whopper" that got away but Chicago's Isaak Walton League law should be recognized throughout the country. "The old adage about the cake might be revised to—'You can have your fish and eat it too' for although the fish may end its days in frying pan or broiler, a picture of it will live forever."

There is one thing to remember in taking snapshots on fishing trips. Just as you use different kinds of bait for catching various species of fish so you must vary your methods of taking snapshots under different lighting conditions.

Suppose, for instance, that you are deep sea fishing or out in the middle of a lake under the glare of a mid-July sun. One of your party gets that long-hoped-for jerk on his line. If you have one of the average folding cameras it should be ready for action with the diaphragm opening set at f/11 and the shutter speed set at 1/100 of a second. This setting of the diaphragm and shutter will serve two purposes. First—you will have the proper exposure and second—at 1/100 of a second you will stop the action as your lucky angler friend pulls the fish out of the water and into the boat.

If you have a box type camera use the second stop opening. In snapping the picture with this type of camera you will get the best results if you wait until the fish is safely in the boat and then snap the picture after the catch and when your subject is not in motion.

Let me caution you, however, against a common error. Don't forget to set your camera for distance if it is of the focusing type. If you have a fixed focus camera don't get closer to your subject than about eight feet unless you use a portrait attachment.

Now—suppose you are fishing on a river where the trees obstruct much of the light. Snapshooting under such conditions requires a different technique. Unless you have a camera with an f.8 lens or faster you had better forget about fast action pictures and confine your efforts to taking your subjects when not in rapid motion.

If you have a box type camera you should open it to a large stop and with the average folding camera open the diaphragm to f/8 or f/11 and set the shutter speed at 1/25 of a second. And remember—"Get your fish, take his picture or keep quiet."

Couple Completes 120 Years Of Continuous Service, Believed World's Record

Arthur James, colored steward at the Indoor pool at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, West Va., this month completes his sixty-third year of continuous service at the world-famous spa. His wife, Alice, a short time ago celebrated the fifty-seventh anniversary of her original employment at the Greenbrier, a total of 120 years for the couple, believed to be a national and probably a world's record.

Not until ten years after Arthur joined the Greenbrier staff was the present President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, born. He commenced his service the year preceding the first of the "Grand Fancy and Full Dress Balls," held Aug. 27, 1873, which, with few interruptions, has been held every year since. The original ball is perpetuated during the annual Robert E. Lee week festival at the Greenbrier by a series of events culminating in the invitation Lee Monument ball, to be held this year on Aug. 30.

The purpose of the ball held sixty-two years ago was to further cement bonds of friendship between North and South. Statesmen, military and society leaders from both sides sponsored the event, headed by Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America. Serving with him were Gilbert C. Watkins, Governor of Virginia, T. F. Randolph, Governor of New Jersey, General P. T. G. Beauregard, Herman Oelrichs and other distinguished figures. A copy of the original advertisement of the ball is preserved in the President's Cottage in White Sulphur Springs. Summer home of Presidents Van Buren, Tyler and Fillmore. In part it reads: "Never in the history of this national wearing-piece has there been a grander representation of the wealth, beauty and intellect from all the States. A rich banquet will be served on the occasion."

Both Arthur and Alice are still active in their duties, Alice being those of guide in the Virginia Wing at the Greenbrier, showing visitors the murals depicting the history of White Sulphur Springs.

Timely Questions On Farm Answered

Question: What can I do to prevent the spread of roup in my poultry flock?

Answer: Where there are only a few birds showing signs of the disease, these should be isolated at once and the remainder of the flock treated with a dose of Epsom Salts at the rate of three-quarter pounds of salts to two and one-half gallons of water. Where birds show signs of being diseased take them from the flock at once as these birds seldom make satisfactory recovery. Check over all causes for the trouble such as over-crowding, parasitic infestation, unbalanced diet, and poor ventilation and make corrections. This will eliminate the cause and the flock will make rapid recovery.

Question: How shall I select fruit for my first exhibit at the fair?

Answer: The necessary essentials in selecting fruit is to see that it is free from any blemish; has the typical color for the kind; is true to size and shape for the variety, and that all specimens are uniform. Be sure that the proper number of each kind of fruit is selected. This number varies with different fairs or associations and the catalogue must be studied for the correct number. Make the exhibit as neat and as attractive as possible with contrasting colors between fruit and container. Quality fruit has been given a low score many times due to poor arrangement.

Question: Why do I have to pay 45 cents a pound for sirloin steak when cattle are selling at 11 cents a pound?

Answer: The normal dressing weight or carcass weight of ordinary cattle is from 50 to 60 percent. That means that the beef actually costs about 22 cents after it is dressed.

There is an additional shrinkage of about ten percent by the time it gets to the retail merchant. This means that the whole animal actually cost the merchant about 24 cents. Of the entire animal there is 48 percent of low price cuts, 14 percent of medium price cuts, and 27 percent of the porterhouse, sirloin, and round cuts.

The remainder of the carcass is bones, unsalable fats and trimmings. Deducting the cost of the unsalable material and allowing for the low price cuts is a partial cause for sirloin steaks selling for about 45 cents.

FARMALL FARMING Is Still 'Way Ahead of Any Other

McCORMICK-DEERING

THE FARMALL way of farming row crops is still the cheapest and best way. There isn't any other that can touch it. FARMALL owners have been able to cut production costs to the very bone—they are in a position to take advantage of any upturn in farm prices and profit by it.

Make the FARMALL investment yourself and enjoy all the advantages that FARMALL power brings to its users. There is a size for every farm now with the addition of the FARMALL 12 for small farms. Other sizes are the original FARMALL which handles 2 plows, and the FARMALL 30 for 3-plow work. Remember there is only one true FARMALL—the McCormick-Deering.

Come in and let us tell you about it. Or better yet, call us for a demonstration of the FARMALL that is best suited for your farm.
