THIS WEEK'S BIBLE THOUGHT

BACK TO GOD: Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Isaiah 55:6-7.

SILLIEST CONFLICT

One speaker at the small but interesting meeting of old folks interested in old age pensions in the State Capitol yesterday loudly pointed to the many things that have been done for the young—educational facilities, recreation facilities and other things—and demanded, "What has been done for the old?"

Well, one thing that has been done for the old is to give them education when they are young. In a gathering where some men were as old as 93, education of the young may have seemed to some like an enterprise for the benefit of a people of a different world. But when old age pensions are provided the system will be set up not so much for the old, who are now with us but in the nature of things will soon depart, as for the great majority who being young are irresistibly growing older.

Nothing could be sillier in North Carolina, or anywhere else than a conflict between the old and the young over the division of the funds which government is able to collect and dispense. Schools are not maintained for sake of children but for the sake of the educated adults which the State needs. Recreational facilities are not provided exclusively for the young but also for the stronger, healthier old age to which those who use them will grow.

This country is already so shattered into little tight groups with conflicting interest that it is all but impossible to get any whole thinking anywhere on almost any problem. But such conflict would be reduced to the ultimate extreme of the ridiculous if the babies and the grandpas should be set to fighting each other under the government of State and nation.

Pensions to make comfortable and secure the old age of men and women in America have the support of a vast number of Americans of all ages. Such pensions are needed in our social order and not merely for the sake of the old. But more than old age pensions are needed or anything else, there is needed in America, desperately needed, a thinking in the terms of a whole nation and a whole life and not merely in the stagnant terms of the isolated personal interest of any one interested, group or age.—News & Observer.

Mrs. Perry Entertains Friends At New Hope

Mrs. E. M. Perry entertained at three tables of contract at her home near New Hope Thursday evening. High score prizes were presented to Mrs. Wm. Divers and J. A. Sawyer. Low score prizes went to Mrs. C. B. Goodman and Wm. Divers.

Refreshments were served to the following players: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Divers, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Spivey, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Perry, Miss Laura Wood Goodman and Haywood Umphlett.

HIT OR MISS

We have all seen strange sights. I have seen many things to wonder at in my life time. But when my eyes beheld buttercups blooming in January I must confess that I had the feeling my eyes were playing me tricks or that I wasn't awake. I rubbed my eyes and took a second look, and then stooped lower to get a better view. No, it wasn't any trick, and I wasn't asleep. I had seen too many millions of buttercups not to recognize the pretty yellow blossom. There were two of them wide open on the stem, with several buds ready to burst. They were blooming in that space between the street and sidewalk on the upper end of Church Street, near the bridge.

How the hardy little plant, which everybody looks upon as a spring flower, and which all summer long blooms in such profusion wherever it is allowed a chance, sprung up, and how it withstood the recent cold and snow, is something to wonder at. Not only has it come before the jonquil, which always pop up so early in Perquimans, but it is even ahead of the breath o' spring in some sections of the town and other early shrubs.

Nervy little buttercup!

"BUT IF NOT"

By Mannington Dexter

I know my God is able to deliver; Able to save from direct human ill; Able, as when He saved the Hebrew children,— Almighty still.

But if, perchance, His plans are not as my plans; If hid in darkness should my pathway be; If when I plead He does not seem to answer, Nor care for me— Then, though men scoff and bitterly deride me— Listen! I fling my challenge to the sky!

God may deliver, but if not, I'll trust Him, And trusting, die!

"Mother, Mother, I saw a man making a horse!"

"You saw a man making a horse, Mary? What on earth are you talking about?"

"Yes, Mother, and he was a nice horse, and he was almost finished. The man was just nailing on his last foot!"—Selected.

"Crash!" Everybody jumped. A. W. Hefren, who was presenting to Dr. Luther H. Butler a past president's emblem, at the meeting of the Rotary Club on Tuesday night, when a special program was being given in Dr. Butler's honor, dropped the package.

It was a rather bulky looking package which Mr. Hefren was carrying up to the head of the table, and when he stubbed his toe and dropped the white tissue paper wrapped parcel on the floor, it sounded like all the china on the table had crashed. I haven't found out yet what was in the package to make it sound like that, and it took me some seconds to realize it was one of those stunts the Rotarians pull off now and then. When the real presentation came the package was, of course, a dainty little jewelers' box.
