State Theatre News

The picture, "Lady Be Careful," which will be shown at the State Theatre on Friday of this week, features a cast headed by Lew Ayres, seen as a timid sailor who gains a reputation for prowess with women; Mary Carlisle, Larry Crabbe, Benny Baker, famed radio comic; Grant Withers and a host of screen comedians. Its story, new in theme and treatment, revolves around an odd bet made by Lew Ayre's shipmates. Ayres, who has won his dynamite reputation by accident, is urged to attempt to get a date with a Fanny dancer, the most beautiful girl in the city, who is known to have no interest whatever in sailors. His friends bet that he'll date her and get from her a ribbon, as proof of her affection.

How the gambler wins the bet for his friends, at the same time winning the girl for his wife, forms a hilarious plot.

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the world's foremost mentalist, Alno Dams will give a special matinee for ladies only. If you have any questions about love, marriage, business, health, travels or anything of a personal nature he will answer it. He calls you by your name and does not collect your questions.

Johnny Mack Brown comes to the State Theatre on Saturday of this week in a hard riding western thriller, "Every Man's Law." How he takes the law into his own hands will be a real treat to all who see this picture. The last chapter of "Darkest Africa" will be shown and a brand new thrilling continued will begin, "Undersea Kingdom."

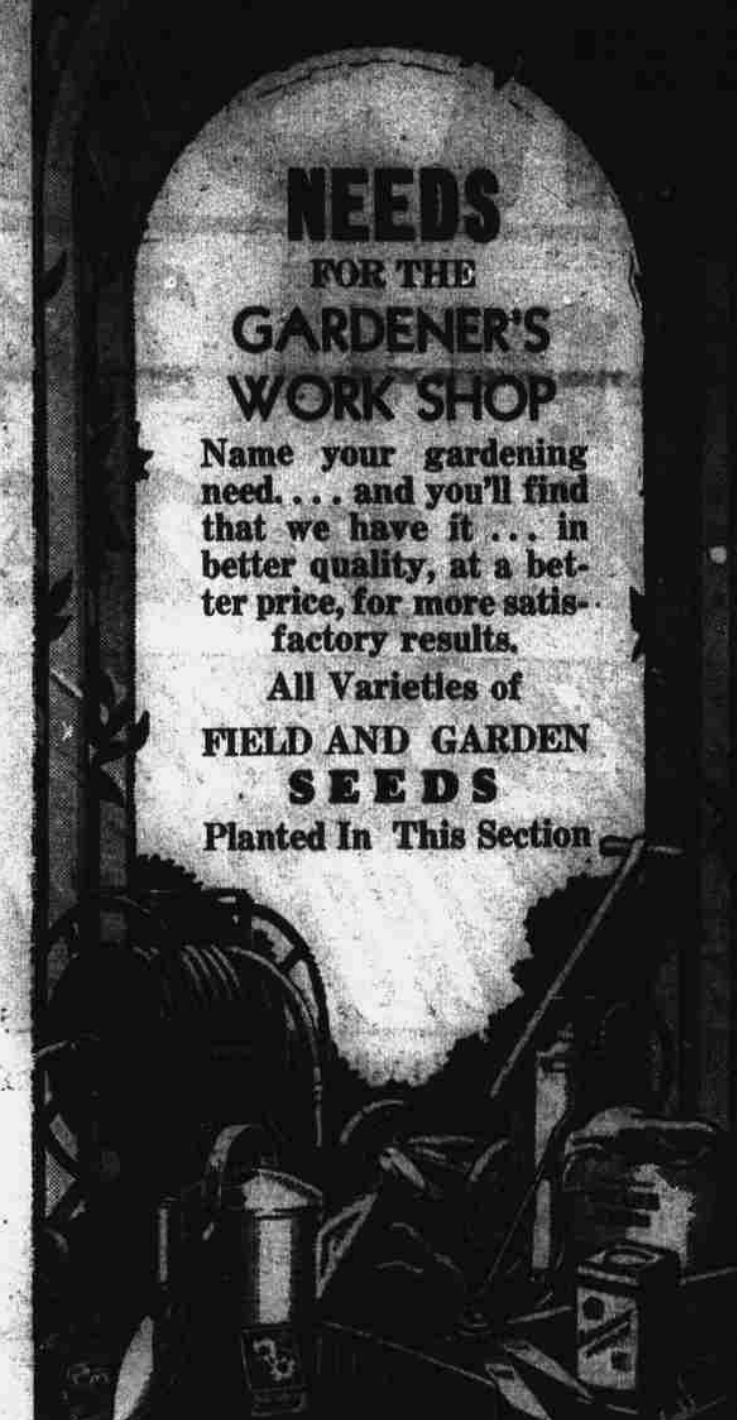

Victor McLaglen, acclaimed by the world as one of the greatest actors of all time and last year winner of the Award for best work done that year, will be seen Monday and Tuesday in a picture made especially for him. "Sea Devils" is a thrilling story of the sea, it is full of kicks and laughs. Don't fail to see Victor McLaglen and Preston Foster as two hard boiled fighting sailors who argue over and fight over anything.

Next Wednesday will be prize night at the State and the attraction will be "Murder with Pictures," a comedy murder story with Lew Ayres, Gall Patrick Paul Kelly and Benny Baker. How they go about to solve one of the most baffling murders will be a real treat to movie goers.

"Swing High Swing Low," is a musical comedy starring Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray. The setting for the picture is laid in Panama City, Miss Lombard takes the part of Maggie King, a nightclub singer and MacMurray a happy-go-lucky ex-soldier. These two nitwit lovers are good without a great supporting cast but with Charles
