BIBLE THOUGHT FOR WEEK

WAITING FOR GOD: For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, for him that waiteth for him.—Isaiah 64:4.

HERE'S TO THE RIVER

Never before was so much river craft seen on the Perquimans. Speed boats of various types, sail boats, row boats, launches, and even one beautiful yacht, all of which find harbor at the end of the day in Hertford, are seen daily now on the river.

Whether the present generation is more keenly aware of the possibilities of pleasure in boating, especially during the hot weather when it is always cool on the water, or whether their actions merely result from having more time for pleasure than their fathers had, the young people of today are certainly taking advantage of every opportunity to enjoy the river, this summer more than ever before.

Always there has been much passage of boats up and down the river. A great deal of freight comes to Hertford by boat, particularly gasoline and oil. Logs are towed regularly to the mill here by tug, have been for many, many years. The river has always been important. In fact, the first settlers traveled almost entirely by boat, as the Indians did before them, building their homes on the river front. Fishing was always carried on.

It has taken a long, long time, however, for our people to see the possibilities for pleasure on the river even to appreciate its beauty. True there were always some who did. Always there was the occasional sailing party, always there were a few boats on the water in the late evening. Not so long ago the river front did not attract the home builder in Hertford as it has done for the past twenty years or so.

The prettiest and the most imposing of the pleasure craft is the beautiful new yacht owned by Dr. C. A. Davenport. It is a fine little ship and is equipped with every gadget and contrivance for the convenience of the skipper and his guests, and the genial doctor and his charming wife frequently entertain their friends on the boat.

In addition to the yacht there is a pretty little runabout owned by Charles E. Johnson and Dr. John Zachery, a launch owned by the J. C. Blanchard family, one owned by Silas M. Whedbee and another by A. R. Winfall, a sailboat belonging to William Harcastle and one to Billy and Paul Tucker, and numerous others, to say nothing of the many rowboats.

Dr. T. P. Brinn has a jaunty little motor boat which is often seen on the river, too, frequently with Mrs. Brinn at the wheel, for not only the men enjoy the river sports, our women like them as well.

It is a great privilege to live on this beautiful stream and it is good that more of us are becoming aware of its beauty and of its possibilities for pleasure.

Here's to the River!
