State Theatre News

By A. S. F. "The Slave Ship", playing today at the State, co-starring Warner Baxter and Wallace Beery, pictures the adventures of the last slaver as, with mutiny reddening the decks, it sails on its last desperate voyage. A honeymoon ship of horror, the slave ship also carries aboard its fury - racked hulk Elizabeth Allan, who boards the vessel for a honeymoon and finds, too late, that she is off on a trip that brings her constantly face to face with danger and death. Mickey Rooney is also aboard as a spunky cabin boy who boasts stoutly that he is a man in a man's world - and gets a chance to prove it. To Warner Baxter falls one of the most colorful roles of his career, as a romantic scourge of two oceans, defying the navies of all the world and fighting at last for love in the greatest adventure of all. Opposite him is Wallace Beery, in a role that dwarfs all of the famed actor's previous sea roles. As the villainous mate of the last slaver, Beery makes the big-fisted, bull-headed seaman a figure of continuous interest, genial and treacherous to his dying breath. On Saturday the ace of adventure writers spins a thrilling tale of fighting fury that breaks over the lawless west where no man is safer than his fastest draw! Charles Starrett in a romantic drama of the range, Columbia's "Trapped", is one of Peter B. Kyne's top-notch thrillers, with Sparrett out to avenge the untimely death of his brother at the hands of a ruthless and murderous gang! Playing opposite Sparrett is the pretty Peggy Stratford who aids the cowboy hero in uncovering the guilt of the cruel murderer. Everybody wonders who will get the five-dollars bills to be given away next Saturday night. Last week W. A. Arnold, of Hertford, and Mr. Chappell, of Tyner, were the lucky ones. A gay and lightsome Continental romance, luxurious as orchids on ermine, smart as the Rue de la Paix, merry as the third glass of champagne, romantic as moonlight on the Seine, "Cafe Metropole" is shown Monday and Tuesday with Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles. "Cafe Metropole" gets off to a lively start in the smart Parisian spot of that name, where, presiding suavely over his restaurant, Adolphe Menjou seems untroubled by the possibility that auditors will arrive in a few days and discover that the cafe accounts are short the 480,000 francs which he has borrowed. More interesting, to him, is the fact that a rich American patron, Charles Winninger, is arriving with his sister, Helen Westley, and his daughter, Loretta Young, and wishes a table reserved for every night. Thus, when Menjou wins enough at baccarat to cover his borrowings, and finds that his slim, handsome young opponent, Tyrone Power, has not the money to cover his losses, he can force Tyrone, upon threat of exposure to the police, to masquerade as His Highness, Prince Alexis Plainaieff in a scheme to win the affections of the lovely Loretta and a marriage settlement from her father. What follows will be the funniest, most mixed up affair you have ever seen and will please you immensely. Wednesday is Prize Night and a great show to boot, "Woman Chases Man", and we know that quite often they do. Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea take the lead in this comedy drama that will give us some tips on this man hunt business.
