A VOICE FROM HEAVEN: And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me: Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them.—Revelations.

LET'S GO!

With the Mayor asking the cooperation of the women of the Hertford Woman's Club in beautifying the town, we ought to get somewhere.

Mayor Silas M. Whedbee is interested in improving the appearance of the town which has so many natural advantages. Something of a horticulturist himself, the Mayor is particularly interested in planting on the streets those decorative shrubs which thrive so well in our climate.

Miss Mae Wood Winslow, who despite other wide interests, also gives a good deal of attention to the growing of flowers, shrubs and trees, and whose name at the head of any committee insures action, has been named chairman of a committee from the club to work with the Mayor.

They laid out the town on the loveliest spot which could be found, a hundred and seventy-five years ago. That the people who inherited this advantage haven't in the past been aware of the possibilities or shown much appreciation is to be deplored.

As a matter of fact, a small group of women representing the woman's club have in recent years sought to make some improvements. As a rule the men haven't taken any stock in the idea of making improvements for beauty's sake. To his credit be it said, however, that former Mayor E. L. Reed did take a good step forward along this line when he provided dogwood trees and planted them during his term of office, at the request of the women of the Woman's Club.

So something has been done. There is yet a great deal which may be done. With the Mayor taking the initiative in the matter, the women must rally to his aid.

GRAPE HULLS AGAIN

The Town Council didn't take any action as to the grape hull situation on Monday night.

The Mayor and commissioners are conscientious in their attitude that to enforce an ordinance against throwing grape hulls on the sidewalks would not be to the best interest of the town, and that such action might be construed as discourteous to the visitors who enjoy eating grapes or to the men who sell them.

In the humble opinion of the editor of the Perquimans Weekly, the Mayor and commissioners are mistaken.

The Town of Hertford is situated in the midst of a grape-growing section. The most delicious grapes are grown in Perquimans in great quantities. It has been the custom for many years for growers to bring grapes to town on Saturdays for sale, retailing them down town in small quantities, and folks stand about on the sidewalks eating the fruit and carelessly throw the hulls on the sidewalk.

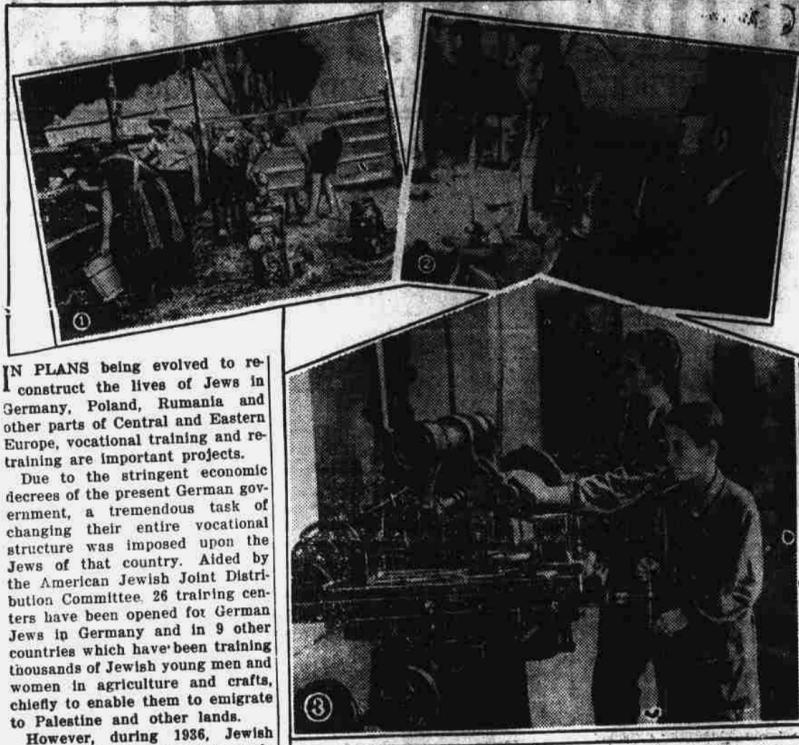

To reiterate what has been said, and said over and over again, in these columns, grape hulls on the sidewalks not only make an unsightly mess, they are dangerous to the pedestrian. Serious injury may result from a fall caused by slipping on a grape hull.

The members of the town council seem to have confused the matter in that they do not see how action could be taken to keep the hulls off of the sidewalks without stopping grapes from being bought and eaten.

Far be it from one who likes the delicious fruit quite as well as does the thoughtless person who throws the hulls on the sidewalk to deprive any one of the pleasure of eating grapes, or to deprive the man who sells the grapes of his small returns. Even the person who does not himself like grapes would not take this attitude.

The editor of the Perquimans Weekly still believes that grape hulls should not be thrown on the sidewalks, and that to continue to allow the situation to exist as it now exists may defeat the aim of the town council to show courtesy to our visitors. It is not unthinkable that visitors and shoppers in Hertford on Saturdays during the fall season may receive a distinctly opposite impression.

GETTING A NEW CHANCE AT LIFE

IN PLANS being evolved to reconstruct the lives of Jews in Germany, Poland, Rumania and other parts of Central and Eastern Europe, vocational training and re-training are important projects.

Due to the stringent economic decrees of the present German government, a tremendous task of changing their entire vocational structure was imposed upon the Jews of that country. Aided by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, 26 training centers have been opened for German Jews in Germany and in 9 other countries which have been training thousands of Jewish young men and women in agriculture and crafts, chiefly to enable them to emigrate to Palestine and other lands.

However, during 1936, Jewish youths of Polish nationality, seeking to prepare themselves for emigration, made up 20 per cent of the student body of the schools located outside of Germany.

In 1935 a total of 2,133 students had completed their courses or were enabled to emigrate. On December 31, 1935, there were 4,768 under training—3,363 in Germany and 1,131 in schools outside of Germany.

It is estimated that 84 per cent of the male students and 55 per cent of the female students in these schools are studying agriculture. The rest study manual trades and domestic work, respectively.

In Poland, Rumania, Lithuania, Latvia and other sections of Europe, in trade schools and agricultural training centers sustained by the Joint Distribution Committee, Jewish youths and adults are learning every type of occupation—farming, machinist's trades, carpentry, shoe-making and electrical work.

the training center at Neuendorf, Germany, where a group of young men and women are shown gaining practical experience in dairy farming; (2) an entire Jewish family in Poland, father, son and grandfather, learning how to operate a knitting machine as a first step toward their economic rehabilitation, and (3) Rumanian Jewish youths learning the machinists trade in a trade school, sustained by the J.D.C. in Bucharest.
