THIS WEEK'S BIBLE THOUGHT

NEW EVERY MORNING: It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because His compassions fail not. They are new every morning; great is thy faithfulness.—Lamentations 3:22, 23.

BACK 'EM UP!

Does a football team represent the town whose name it uses—or does it represent only the school which the players attend?

If the football team is a lone wolf, representing nothing more than a football team, then Hertford need feel no shame for the shabby lot of uniforms worn by the local boys against Columbia Friday.

On the other hand if the Hertford boys are accepted by the towns they visit as delegates from this town then Hertford is allowing a miserably attired delegation to reflect the backing and support given it by the local people.

The battle-scarred uniforms, if they may be called uniforms, are seeing their sixth year of wear and tear and the ragged remnants are not ones to inspire a warrior to combat. On the contrary, the decrepit attire gives the opposition a handicap even before the game begins.

In short, The Perquimans Weekly thinks that when the local boys win a game, Hertford cannot, without misgivings, claim a victory. The credit belongs entirely to the boys who played and since they are given no support in any degree, either morally or financially, no glory can be reflected in Hertford because they won.
 There's one for "The Town Criers."

THE TOWN CRIERS

The membership of the newly formed organization, The Town Criers, has increased since the last meeting of the executive committee from 53 to about 80, and before the first meeting of the organization which is to be held on Friday night will in all probability number a hundred.

It is going to be interesting to follow the proceedings of The Town Criers. The membership includes some potential leaders and many who have ideas as to the manner in which our town can be improved. Moreover, this will be the first opportunity most of these men have had of putting across the ideas they have for the betterment of the community. The heartening thing is that there are so many of the young men of the town in the group.

The editor of The Perquimans Weekly is proud of the position of secretary to the Town Criers. It is going to be a pleasure to record the efforts of a band of men, a hundred strong, who are organized for the sole purpose of making the home town a better place in which to live.

A PICTURE ALL SHOULD SEE

The Perquimans Weekly does not attempt to review or preview motion pictures, but if it were called upon to pick the most powerful and compelling release of the year, that picture would be "The Devil Is Driving," shown at the State Theatre in Hertford last week.

Those lights flashing on the map in the office of the district attorney every few seconds and signifying a major auto smashup with every flash, brought to us much clearer than thousands of words and figures a conception of the staggering death toll on the highways of America every day, the thousands of people marching—each one representing a life lost through traffic mishaps last year, the grief-stricken husband and father whose wife was killed and whose daughter was rendered an invalid for life—the result of a crash with a drunken driver.

Discounting the picture's plot in its entirety, "The Devil Is Driving" might be said to be a campaign against traffic deaths in itself. It would be well if law enforcement agencies made use of this film in their efforts to control a situation which becomes more grave each day.
 To require each convicted law violator and each applicant for a driver's permit to see this picture, might be effective to some extent in reducing the hazards of the highway.

Richard Turner of Tennessee has become impatient over his wife's delay in returning home from a visit, and has used for divorce. Mrs. Turner left 25 years ago to spend a few months with relatives in Norway and has not come back.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
 MIRROR PICTURES

HAVE you ever taken mirror pictures; that is, for example, a picture of sister or the "girl friend" standing in front of a mirror perhaps "dolling up" a bit or maybe just admiring herself?

It is the unusual that attracts attention but it is necessary to use your eyes and a little imagination and ingenuity to ferret out the exceptional and get pictures that show individuality.

When making mirror pictures and focusing for reflected images only, it is necessary to add the distance from the mirror to the subject, to the distance from the mirror to the lens of the camera and then set the focus accordingly.

If it is desired to include the subject in the picture with the reflected image the focus should be set for the distance from the mirror to the lens. The smaller the lens opening the greater the depth of field, and the sharper will be both images. Of course, the nearer the subject is to the mirror the less is required in the matter of "depth".

Let us suppose that sister Mary is two feet and the camera six feet from the mirror. If you want to include sister, as well as her reflected image, in the picture, set the focus at six feet. A photoflash lamp simplifies your exposure problem and permits a small enough lens opening to gain a sufficient range of sharpness.

After locating your subject in the finder and setting the focus of your camera at the proper distance, set the shutter for "time", place a photoflash bulb in an ordinary floor lamp within reaching distance from the camera, tilting the shade slightly upward and toward the subject. If you cannot tilt the shade, remove it from the lamp. It is best not to have any bright lights burning near the lens of the camera. Set your lens opening according to the table on the photoflash lamp container. Take your position at the camera, press the cable release to open your shutter and immediately turn on the photoflash and then quickly close the shutter—and the picture has been taken. Simple, isn't it? For this type of picture a No. 10 photoflash bulb will furnish enough light.

In amateur photography, experimenting becomes the spice of life and you will be surprised at the interesting effects you will get in working out "stunt" pictures on gloomy, rainy days when outdoor activities are taboo. Results, in some instances, may be rather grotesque but you will have a lot of inexpensive amusement and pictures that show individuality. Anyone can take the ordinary run of pictures but it requires a little ingenuity to get the unusual. That is what you should "shoot" for, and the resulting pictures will be far more interesting than ordinary record pictures and breathe life itself into your photograph album.

TOUCH-DOWN TACTICS

 by
 Carl G. Snavely
 Head Football Coach

This is the first in a series of nine outstanding diagram plays by nine leading college coaches from Grantland Rice's Cities Service Football Guide.

WE work the above play from the unorthodox short punt formation which we use regularly. In the first place, we have a number of long passes which we use frequently from the same formation and also the quick kick, a line buck and an off tackle play. As a result the opposing safety man usually plays deeper on this formation. On the play diagrammed, No. 10 hits into the line just as he would on the line play, but he gives the ball to No. 9. No. 11 starts for the off tackle, opening just as he would on the off tackle play, but turns outward slightly and blocks the end. No. 7 goes deep down the field as he would on a long forward pass for the purpose of deceiving the safety man out of position. If No. 7 is successful in doing this and if No. 10 and No. 11 make effective fakes at the line, so that the defensive center and fullback are held close or drawn into the line, the pass receiver usually is able to get open over the center. As the diagram shows, the guards No. 3 and No. 5 pull out and block the opposing right end and left tackle, respectively. The fullback, after handing the ball to No. 9, blocks the tackle, and the passer has ample time to set himself and throw the ball carefully.
