Selznick Has Another Hit In "The Prisoner Of Zenda"

Ronald Colman, Madeleine Carroll, Fairbanks, Jr. Score In Magnificent Entertainment

STATE THEATRE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Right on the heels of his sensational hit, "A Star Is Born," David O. Selznick has ushered in another magnificent piece of entertainment.

The picture is "The Prisoner of Zenda," Anthony Hope's swashbuckling tale of love, intrigue and adventure in the courts of Europe, with Ronald Colman, Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the leading roles.

Colman is at his charming best in the difficult dual role of the adventurous Rudolf Rassendyll and as the roistering King Rudolf V, whom he resembled so closely.

When the agents of the King's brother, Black Michael (Raymond Massey), who is plotting to seize the throne, render the King incapable of attending his own Coronation by drugging his drinks, Colonel Zapt, (C. Aubrey Smith) and young Captain von Tarnheim (David Niven) enlist Rassendyll to impersonate the King at the Coronation.

Clever Deception Rassendyll does so well that he even deceives the lovely Princess Flavia (Madeleine Carroll) betrothed of the King, who proceeds to fall madly in love with him. Rassendyll loves her, too, and is about to reveal the deception when it is discovered that the King has been kidnapped by Black Michael and his henchman, the dashing Rupert of Hentzau (Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.) and imprisoned in Zenda Castle. It thus becomes necessary to keep Rassendyll on the throne.

The beautiful Antoinette de Mauban, (Mary Astor) jealous sweetheart of Black Michael, goes to Rassendyll and offers to help him rescue the King. She lures Rupert to her room to get him out of the way. Black Michael discovers her in Rupert's arms and Rupert kills him.

Rassendyll invades the castle single-handed and opens the way for the attacking party. In one of the most thrilling duals in the memory of this reviewer, Rupert is bested. The King is rescued and restored to the throne. And, as for the lovers, Flavia realizes her duty as a Princess and sends Rassendyll away.

Lavishly mounted with some sixty-odd breath-taking sets, including a cathedral, a castle and the sumptuous castle ballroom, designed by Lyle Wheeler, "The Prisoner of Zenda" offers some of the most impressive and beautiful scenes ever filmed, notably the Coronation ceremony and the Coronation ball.

John L. Balderston and Wells Root have made a grand screen play, based on Edward Rose's dramatization of the Anthony Hope novel, and all the members of the imposing cast turn in uniformly fine performances under the expert direction of John Cromwell.

The eye-filling costumes were designed by Ernest Dryden and the splendid photography is credited to James Wong Howe.
