NEW LIFE OF CHRIST: If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: eld things are passed away; be-hold, all things are become new.—2 Corinthians 5-17.

HE SHOULD BE A LAWYER The matter of the appointment of a judge for Perquimans County's Reder's Court is in the lap of the gods. Nothing has been given out by the Commissioners as to who will be appointed.

One thing appears to be certain. The appointee, whoever he may be, will have to contest for the job in the June primary. He will have only a matter of a few months after his appointment, four to be exact, to demnstrate to the public the kind of ser-

There are indications that such a contest will not be confined to members of the bar. For it appears that, though generally speaking those who have any conception of the qualifications of a judge feel that to fill the position with any degree of efficiency man must needs be trained in the law, there are those among us who do not share this opinion.

In considering that the law does not require a judge of the Recorder's Court to be a lawyer, one is reminded that neither does the law require that a member of the Supreme Court of the United States be a lawyer. Incidentally, there never has been a member of that body who was not,

Probably not one of the commisment of a man to the Recorder's Court judgeship who had no legal training. It is reasonably certain that the man to be appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Oakey, which lasts until December,

Right in the beginning of this campaign it might be a good thing if Mr. Average Citizen stopped to do a little thinking for himself, considered the fitness of the office seeker for the inheas of the office seeser for the job he asks for. Jean Parker Douglass Montgomery

In the best tradition of the wacky romantic comedy school, "Life Begins With Love," the Columbia attraction which warms the heart and tickles the funny bone in one fell swoop. With Jean Parker, Douglass Montgomery and little Edith Fellows doing most of the required clowning, a good time seemed to be had by all.
It is the reckless tale of one William Addington Drake III, who, in a deliciously pickled moment, gets up on a soap box and promises the gentry he will divide his fortune among them. This is no laughing matter to ordinary people, who mill around his vice he will render before the end of home the next morning waiting for the contest. the millions to be tossed out. Bill's grandfather and fiancee are outraged. Not caring for all the fuss, Bill steals out of the mansion and starts wandering the streets.

A few days later he's pretty hun gry when he knocks on the door of a day nursery and asks for a handout. Dodie, a saucy miss, calls Carol, the manager, who is just about the nicest thing Bill has ever seen. Caro makes Bill work for his meal-and also, unintentionally, makes his heart cut the funniest capers. Bill takes a job as handy man in the nursery, and from then on it's anybody's fight.

Miss Parker, Montgomery and Miss Fellows act their roles for all they're worth, which is plenty. Leona Maricle, Lumsden Hare, Aubrey Mather and others of the supporting sioners would consider the appoint cast also do splendidly. It is, by the way, a distinct pleasure to have Miss Parker back with us; she was absent

While there is a tendency toward a return to formal beds of tulips, especially among those who wish a modern note in their gardens, most garden owners will probably prefer informal groups planted is contrasting colors.

The worst way to plant tulips is to set them in single rows. Instead of being enhanced by this arrangement their beauty suffers. Beds in the modern manner are planted is masses of a single color and are usually in angular shapes.

Where contrasting colors are planted in adjoining groups it is relatively easy to obtain vivid and harmonious effects. The Darwis and breeder tulips furnish excellent purple, orange, pink, rose and red varieties. The cottage tulips provide clear yellows, which are given added charm by their pointed petals.

given added charm by their pointsed petals.

A white and black combination is possible by using one of the dark purple Darwins and a white variety. A violet-purple is a striking picture in combination with a pink. The pale pink variety, Clara Butt, is set off very well with a pele lavender.

Working out such combinations is half the fun of tulip gardening.
