Woodmen Select | Winfall Minister Headed For Africa

Roy Chappell Is Again Mr. and Mrs. Townsley Reelected as Council | Take Up Missionary Work

SAILED SATURDAY

Of Winfall

The Woodmen of the World elected officers at their regular meeting on Thursday night and made plans for an oyster roast which they expect to give on the town lot on Thursday night, February 24.

A. A. Nobles, degree team captain, says that high WOW dignitaries and others from surrounding camps will be invited to take part in the festivities.

Mrs. Innman U. Townsley, who will be remembered by her many friends in Perquimans as Miss Pattie Dimmette, of Winfall, sailed with her husband, the Rev. Mr. Townsley, from New York on last Saturday, on the Road Star Liner, Pennland, for Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Townsley, who have for the past four and a half months be invited to take part in the festivities. Mrs. Innman U. Townsley, who will of Missions in Hartford, Conn., will spend the next four months in Bel-gium, after which they will go to Belgian Congo, Africa, to take up missionary work.

Mr. Townsley is a special worker of the Southern Methodist University, and a Lakeland Methodist Church, but Mrs. Townsley is sent out by the General Board of Missions of the M. E. Church, South, Nashville.

Mrs. Townsley father, the Rev. J. W. Dimmette, who was formerly pastor of the Perquimans Circuit, wrote to Winfall friends this week, giving them the new addr the new address of his daughter

The Townsleys were married last shortly after Mrs. Townsley finher work at Duke University.

Long Lost Wooden Says Anderson Wrench Brought To Light In Old Home

> Tricky Tool Was Patented In 1897 By E. McM. Newby

> > LOST 40 YEARS

Owner Easily Traced By Name Imprinted In Wood

Lost for nearly 40 years, E. McM. Newby recovered last week the wooden model of a wrench on which he secured patent rights in 1897.

The model, made of mahogany which was imprinted with the date of 1897, also bore the imprint of Mr. Newby's name, by which it was traced to its owner.

Mr. Newby, a resident of Hertford, and a member of one of the oldest families in Perquimans, was in the furniture business in Hertford as a young fellow. In selling furniture, ne traded in, as furniture dealers frequently do, some old furniture. Among this was an old mahogany bed, in bad repair, which, incidentally, came from the Newby family. This he used for making various articles from time to time. From a piece he modeled a wrench, a tricky little tool, an improved monkey wrench, with some advantages over the old model.

None of the wrenches were ever

Last week his cousin, Mrs. W. G. Wright, while preparing to move from the old McMullan home, found the little wooden wrench among some old things where it had been lost so less, and from the name knew it to be "Cousin Evert's."

Blanchard's Staging Feels Certain Machines John Deere Program For Benefit Farmers

Complete Line Will Be On Display on Lot Next To Store Tuesday

FREE LUNCH

All Day Affair Provides Many Interesting Features

The firm of J. C. Blanchard & Company is putting on a John Deere Day program in Hertford on Tuesday of next week for the farmers of this and neighboring communities, featuring free motion pictures in the way of entertainment, and serving a free barbecue lunch. Souvenirs will also be given.

The complete John Deere line, in which A. L. Skinner, head of this department feels every progressive farmer will take a keen interest, will be on display on the display lot next door to the store. These implements include not only tractors, harrows, and new type planters, but many items in horse-drawn equipment, as

A number of factory representatives and experts in farm machinery will be here to assist Mr. Skinner in demonstrating the line. There will also be here for the occasion a representative of the Farmers Cooperative Exchange of Raleigh, and a representative of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company.

The Perquimans Chapter of Young Tar Heel Farmers, as represented by the Vocational Agriculture Class of the Perquimans High School, with their teacher, G. C. Buck, will attend the affair in a body.

The motion picture "Friendly Val ley," which will be shown in the auditorium of the Agricultural Building at 10 o'clock in the morning, is an all-star Hollywood picture, and will be the main feature of the allday entertainment and educational meeting. Packed with human interest, good music and homely philoso to be a real treat for everyone. Ir the large cast of Hollywood entertainers are Frank Darien, Edward Keane, and many others.

Three other pictures will be shown in addition to the feature presentation. They include "School Days," an instructive and educational picture on tractor service and tractor design; "Champions on Parade," a comprehensive portrayal of the most modern farming methods; and a short news reel showing new developments in agricultural equipment.

Plans are being made to make this open house a big event, and farmers from the various communities will have an opportunity to get acquainted there and exchange ideas and experiences in their own farming oper-

It is the first affair of the kind ever planned for Hertford, but John Deere Day has been held at other points with much success.

J. C. Blanchard & Company is taking advantage of this special occasion to offer selected values in each department of the store.

Admission to the affair will be made by ticket and any farmer who has not received tickets can get them for the asking at J. C. Blanchard & Company's store.

Grocery Sales Company Robbed Of Cigarettes

Only cigarettes, some two hundred and fifty dollars worth, however, were taken by the theives who forced the locks on the front door of the Grocery Sales Company, Hertford's wholesale concern, on Wednesday night.

J. P. Perry, manager of the business, stopped in the store Wednesday night, after attending church service, locking up when he left, as usual. At opening time Thursday morning it was discovered that the steel staple of the padicick had been meatly cut in two, and also that the morticed lock had been ripped out.

The Grocery Sales Company carries a full stock of groceries, cigars, cigaratus, and tobacces, but the only that ution was the digarattee.

Are Used For Gambling Purposes

ORDERED OUT

Reverses Order Forbidding Confiscation By Officers

Out goes the "One-Armed Bandit." Federal District Judge Isaac M. Meekins has dissolved an injunction which had forbidden law enforcement officers to confiscate the "silent salesman" slot machines, which replaced the gambling device formerly so much in evidence known as the slot machine.

Judge fleekins on Tuesday overruled his previous order which was directed against law enforcement officers at Elizabeth City and which had been used to protect operators of the machines in other cities, ordering removal by February 25 of all slot machines covered in the injunction. In the meantime, he said, the machines may be operated simply as candy vendors, without use of the "tokens" employed when the devices allegedly were used for gambling.

Attorney General A. E. F. Seawell and Solicitor James A. Powers asked Judge Meekins in a hearing on January 28, at Washington, N. C., to discard the injunction on the ground that it prevented police from obeying North Carelina's Flanagan against gambling devices.

The Supreme Court of North Carolina ruled on the constitutionality of the Flanagan law against gambling devices before the slot ma ests introduced the new "silent salesman" type of device. Distributors of this type of device contended their product was not a gambling device because it returned candy every time a coin was inserted. An indicator on the machine showed how many "tokens" would come out in addition to the candy on the next play. A plate attached to the device warned against use of the machine for gambling.

The new machine has never proven so popular in Perquimans as were the outlawed slot machines. However, lots of nickels found their way into the hopper.

Judge Meekins is quoted as saying that his investigation had convinced that the "silent salesma phy, this all-talking picture promises gambling machine as defined by the Flanagan statute, and therefore cannot be operated. The machine was built, he added, in such a way that it "appealed to the gambling instinct," although the manufacturer "sought to obscure the mischief through the warning set out in the copyrighted plate attached to the mechanism.'

The jurist is further quoted as saying "if the machine was without guile, the plate would be unnecessary. There can be no question for the latent, not to say obvious, lure of chance in the machine. Set up the silent salesman to vend candy mints, stripped of any opportunity to win tokens, and the result would be as stale, at and unprofitable as fishing with a bare hook."
