Effect of Beauty In The Home

MAMIE.N. WHISNANT istant Extension Specialist, Home

With the coming of spring time in all of its freshness and new life, I wonder, as I stop to drink in the beauty of the bright greens, browns, yellows, and reds if there really are people in the world who fail to see or feel this beauty.

Do yed think people really feel beauty? I do. I had a friend who aring very beautiful music made this remark, "It's so beautiful Surely there can't be many people who do not enjoy beauty in their surroundings whether seen or felt. For beauty's sake, people are willing to pay more for going to the most attractive eating places rather than those with ordinary surroundings. They feel there is enjoyment added to their meal. Even though they do not actually look at their surroundings much, they are conscious of its attractiveness.

Some people can't sing a tune but appreciate fine music as well as those who do sing. The opposite may be true. There are different degrees of appreciation of beauty as well as music. Children may be taught to love beauty by a person who really appreciates it and who is always noticing beautiful things and calling the child's attention to it, whether it be a tree, a sunset, a picture, a flower arrangement, or anything that is really beautiful. It is the same as learning to like certain foods by constant tasting or learning to like poetry or the writings of certain which we are accustomed, whether they are beautiful words, beautiful music, or beauty in our homes. As we grow up with beauty, it enriches

Often I have heard mothers make this remark, "Our rugs and furniture are bad looking but will do while the children are growing up. Then, we will get better furniture and things

Mothers, the most worthwhile time in life, both for you and your children is while your abiliant children is while time in the property of the dren, is while your children are bert Williams, George Winslow, Mary growing up and still at home with Thad Chappell, Doris Lane, Julia you. It is during the growing period Broughton, Celia Blanche Dail, Zach that the home influence is the strongest it will ever be for teaching children to appreciate lovely things about them and also to respect and care for Brown, Marjorie Perry, them. Beauty appreciation taught at this time will remain with them

There should be beautiful satisfying things in and about the home while children in that home are in training for their future life work, of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. life habits and happiness.

Homemakers of North Carolina have a wonderful opportunity to teach beauty appreciation because of their Koonce, Virginia White, Margaret closeness to things in nature: grain Broughton, Julia Broughton, Mary fields, hills, trees in continual color Thad Chappell, Anne Penelope Tuckthings and then talk about it to oth- Blanche Moore Berry, Ellie May ers who may not recognize the beauty. There is a little verse of six lines that expresses exactly the state of Watt Winslow, Charles Harrell, mind due to overwork that sometimes Charles White, James Divers, Buddy causes us to miss beauty about us. Here it is:

If you put your nose to the grindstone rough, And hold it down there long enough, Some day you will find there is no such thing As brooks that babble and birds that Durn'd Old Nose. People all differ in beauty appreciation. One may see beauty in a beautiful young horse, and wish to with each other against a beautiful remembrance gifts and presented background. There was once a man them to Miss Britt. who took the curtains down from a window and put picture molding around the window in place of the curtains. He enjoyed the beautiful liked the curtains. . Order is one of the chief essentials of beauty. It is in every beautiful picture and no home is beautiful without order. There is an old sayng, "Order is Heaven's First Law." It is something we can all have at very little cost. The more we study and work out beautiful units in color, order, or balance, the better we will be able to do it and the more joy we will get out of it. Disorder in the will get out of it. Disorder in the home makes people nervous and irritable and family harmony almost impossible. The home is so much more happy and interesting when every family member in that home sees beauty in and about it. It may be the new arrangement in the living room where each member has a certain seet or place off of his own, or it. tain seat or place off of his own, or it may be little courtesies shown each other or even facial expressions. This auty in character and is surely nost worthwhile beauty in the erse. Let us all, as individuals, Seventh Graders The Seventh Grade of the Perquimans County Central Grammar School was delightfully entertained at a banquet given by the P. T. A. of the school on Wednesday night at eight o'clock. Other guests included the ten teachers of the school, Miss Kate Blanchard, Superintendent of Education F. T. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson. The banquet was prepared and served by the grade mothers. Over thirty grade mothers were present.

The guests were seated at four long tables on the stage, which was decorated with a profusion of spring flowers. Robert Morgan acted as toast master and the following program was given:

Toast to Mr. Johnson, by Robert Louis Stevenson.

Solo by Richard Sawyer. Toast to Mr. Ainsley by Janet Quartet, Lois Asbell, Ola Bogue

Whedbee, Mildred Bogue and Billie White. Toast to the Parents by Agnes

The vegetable marrows make a delectable dish for the gardener who grows them. They are best cooked when very young. Pick them when the skin is so tender it breaks with a slight pressure of the thumb. They like a rich soil, good cultivation and plenty of moisture during dry spells. Destroy bugs as you would on squash or cucumbers. The bush type marrow should be picked when only 2 inches long. Start indoors for early crop, and sutdoors for late summer crop. The vegetable marrows make
