

FILM FORECAST AT STATE THEATRE

HERTFORD, N. C.

Monday—Only—
Former Yale star appears in "Hold That Co-ed."

George Murphy, Marjorie Weaver and John Barrymore

George Murphy is momentarily following in his father's footsteps—but never in his life could the famous "Mike" Murphy, Olympics coach and University of Pennsylvania sports mentor, have followed in his son's.

George, one of Hollywood's most nimble-footed dancers, plays a young football coach in the new 20th Century-Fox comedy, "Hold That Co-ed," opening Monday at the State Theatre with John Barrymore, Marjorie Weaver, Joan Davis and Jack Haley co-featured in the cast. George fashions a national championship team by the high-pressure politics of a vote-chasing governor, played by Barrymore.

Peculiarly fitted for his current role, young Murphy was raised in an atmosphere of athletics and rigid training. He was a first-rate man on the track and ranked high as a football, basketball and basketball player in prep school. He was an outstanding member of one of Yale's famous "wonder teams".

"Keep your feet on the ground," was the paradoxical advice given by "Mike" Murphy to his aspiring dancer-son. "Remember, a dancer doesn't take up much room on a stage, but an artist does." George remembered, and "Hold That Co-ed" marks a step forward on his new dramatic career.

The film is one of the Movie Quiz $250,000 contest pictures.

Thursday—Only—"Give Me A Sailor"

The Comic-romantic team of "College Swing," Martha Raye and Bob Hope, are back in town in a riotous story about the men who run our navy and the girls who run the men who run our navy! It's "Give Me A Sailor".

Miss Raye has a role which should mark a turning-point in her tempestuous screen career. After going through half the picture as a meek household patsy, who comes out of the kitchen only to serve the food she has cooked, she suddenly turns into a glamour girl of the first rank, the winner of a national beautiful legs contest and the pampered darling of the press and radio. Hope, who has wise-cracked his way through two big pictures this year, will be seen as the romantic glib who pilots with Miss Raye to get her married off to his brother, but engineers a match he does not expect. Blonde Betty Gable, of the famous figure, plays the sister of the Cinderella-girl.

While "Give Me A Sailor" is essentially a comedy, romance plays a large part in moving its plot. Although Hope's brother, Jack Whiting, has always ignored the "ugly duckling" who is in love with him, her sudden fame makes her appear in a quite different light to both young men, and in the end she has her choice between them.

The action of the picture is punctuated by four hit songs from the pen of Robin and Rainer, who did the music for "Big Broadcast of 1938."

Interesting Meeting Helen Gaither Club

The Helen Gaither Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Harrell Thatch on November 17th. In the absence of the president and vice president, Miss Pattie Rogerson presided. The meeting opened with an interesting Thanksgiving program. The entire group sang "The Old North State." Mrs. Ben Thatch, Sr., had charge of the devotional, reading the Hundredth Psalm of Thanksgiving. Mrs. Corp Reed offered prayer. A short historical story on "How Thanksgiving Came," was read by Miss Pattie Rogerson. Mrs. Joshua White read a poem, "Golden Harvest." "A Country Woman's Thanksgiving" was recited by Mrs. C. L. Dail. Miss Hamrick contributed to the program an interesting article entitled "Something To Be Thankful For," and following that a lovely poem, "Be the Best of Whatever You Are." Miss Hamrick then demonstrated with colors the stylish fall fashions in hosiery, also giving pamphlets on the subject. To conclude the program, Miss Pattie Rogerson recited one of James Whitcomb Riley's well-known poems, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin."

The business session was of short duration, with the December meeting to be held with Mrs. C. P. Morris. During the recreation period several contests were enjoyed, with Mrs. T. E. Monds, Mrs. James Sawyer and Mrs. Milton Dail winning prizes respectively.

The social hour began when Mrs. Harrell Thatch invited the guests into the spacious dining room, where a bountiful table awaited them. The table was beautiful with autumn's floral offerings, and an ecru lace cloth. Silver and china service awaited the serving in buffet style, the delicious pumpkin pie, fudge, salted pecans and coffee or tea.

Those enjoying Mrs. Thatch's hospitality were: Mrs. C. L. Dail, Mrs. W. L. Madre, Mrs. Ben Thatch, Sr., Mrs. Lupton, Mrs. C. P. Morris, Mrs. E. Y. Berry, Mrs. John Lane, Mr. Lucy H. Perry, Mrs. Corp Reed, Mrs. Joshua White, Mrs. T. E. Madre, Mrs. W. A. Russell, Mrs. James Sawyer, Mrs. Milton Dail, Mrs. W. F. Madre, Jr., Miss Gladys Hamrick, Miss Addie Reed and Miss Pattie Rogerson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

International Sunday School Lesson
for November 27, 1938

Golden Text: "Thou shalt not steal."—Exodus 20:15.

Lesson Text: Exodus 20:15; Matthew 19:16-22; Luke 19:1-10, 45, 46; Luke 20:9-16

The apparent utter disregard of the rights of others, both as to persons and property, is the basis for most of the criminality in the world today. There is a dire need for the teaching of and acceptance of the right of ownership. Individuals should be taught to respect the property of another.

Some years ago a well known economist, after much study, estimated that stealing through fraud, burglary, robbery, and thefts—cost the people of this country more than two and a half billion dollars each year. This staggering sum could be materially reduced if our people would put into practice this Eighth Commandment, "Thou shalt not steal."

Dr. G. S. Dobbins says, "There are many reasons why there must be a law against stealing. The two kinds of crime that have afflicted humanity most universally throughout the ages have been crimes against the person of others and crimes against property. Unless these two types of criminality are dealt with vigorously and successfully, there can be no secure social order."

"In a stable civilization, the sacredness of human life comes first, and then must be guaranteed the sacredness of property rights. If, without fear of punishment, men were allowed to take the property of others by theft or by force, there could be no orderly government or industry. Theft is an offense against God; hence it is in defiance of His moral law and is in contempt of His holy nature. A world made up of thieves would be an impossible world for human beings to live in."

Selfishness, for the most part, is the basic cause for stealing. The desire to possess something which belongs to another, the desire to get something without expending the necessary effort in time and physical energy, causes some to sink to the level of taking that certain thing, either by stealth, at the point of a gun or through fraudulent manipulations.

There are other forms of dishonesty, however, which are not outright stealing. Hypocrisy is absolute dishonesty—the pretense of being something when down in your heart you know you are not sincere. Jesus teaches how he dealt with a dishonest most severely. Honesty lives in one's soul and should be practiced in our everyday living.

Jesus dealing with Zaccheus illustrates how he dealt with a dishonest man. Instead of condemning one whom everyone knew to be crooked, he had fellowship with Zaccheus in his home and gave him the opportunity of appreciating the beauty and desirability of a pure and good life, with the result that Zaccheus caught the vision for himself and immediately to work to purify his life by attacking the most glaring sin of which he was conscious. The genuineness of his conversion is attested by the fact that he immediately declared his intention of giving half of his wealth to the poor and of restoring fourfold to those whom he had cheated.

Jesus used another method in dealing with dishonesty when he came to the temple and found men under the cloak of religion, tricking and robbing their fellowmen by selling animals for sacrifices at exorbitant prices and of bringing the business of the world into the sacred precincts of God's House. Taking a scourge, he drove these men out of the temple, exclaiming, "It is written, 'My House is a house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves.'"

Regardless of the exigencies of modern times, it still remains true, as Pope declared, "An honest man is the noblest work of God." The same truth that applies to individuals also applies to large business corporations and to nations. If all persons and all nations in the world were only reasonably honest in their dealings, how much more pleasant would be the relationships in the world. Nations and individuals need always to keep in mind the words of this Eighth Commandment of God, "Thou shalt not steal."

AAA Boosts Income For Tobacco Farmers

During the five years, 1934-38, under AAA programs, flue-cured tobacco farmers have received one-fourth more money for the leaf crop than in any other five-year period in history, says E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive officer at State College.

The average annual income from 1934 to 1938 for flue-cured tobacco was $167,000,000, and it is estimated that the 1938 crop will bring farmers around $175,000,000, the third highest income on record, Floyd stated.

"Over a period of years, with the program in effect, flue-cured tobacco growers can market about as much tobacco as they could without the program, and they can market it at a higher price level," the Triple-A official says. "Without the program, years of heavy production would be followed by years of small crops because growing tobacco would not be profitable to the producers."

"The marketing quota plan, a referendum on which will be held December 10, is an important part of the AAA program. Acreage allotments and soil-building practices are in the program every year, and if tobacco farmers plant within their acreage allotments, marketing quotas will not be necessary in most years. But whenever excess plantings or heavy yields cause the supply to reach a certain high level stated in the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the Secretary of Agriculture is required to announce a marketing quota for the next year," Floyd concluded.

Any person who grew flue-cured tobacco in 1938 can vote in the December 10 referendum. In order to become effective, flue-cured tobacco quotas must be approved by two-thirds of those voting.
