

FILM FORECAST AT STATE THEATRE HERTFORD, N. C.

Monday Only—Robert Young, Lew Ayres, Ruth Hussey head cast of "Rich Man, Poor Girl"—

In a world full of women who couldn't say "Yes" fast enough if given an opportunity to marry a millionaire, the story of one who said "No" proves hilariously entertaining in the new comedy, "Rich Man, Poor Girl," which opens Monday at the State Theatre.

Featuring Robert Young in a tailor-made comedy role of a wealthy socialite bent on marrying his secretary, as played by Ruth Hussey, the cast also features Lew Ayres, Guy Kibbee, Rita Johnson and Lana Turner.

The plot concerns Young who, upon being refused the hand of the lovely Miss Hussey, moves in on her family to prove that he's an all right guy. The fun begins as Young comes in conflict with Ayres who deems all wealthy people his natural enemies. Finally, in desperation, Young threatens to give away all his money which immediately brings the family to terms because, after all, if their daughter is going to marry the man, he might just as well have a million dollars as not.

It is a story of mirthful situations and delightful romance, culminating in a riotous comedy scene where the Thayer family goes out to prevent the hero from throwing away his wad. The comedy was filmed by the noted European director, Reinhold Schunzel. It is based on the Broadway play hit, "White Collars," authored by Edith Ellis.

MRS. PHTHISIC HONORED

Mrs. Nurney Chappell delightfully entertained at her home near Belvidere on Monday evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. McCoy Phthisic, who before her marriage was Miss Beulah Chappell.

The home was attractively decorated with Christmas decorations.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Herbert Lane in the games and contests. Mrs. Purvis Chappell, Miss Mary Sue Lamb, Miss Marjorie Perry and Miss Agnes Ward were prize winners in the amusing Alphabetical and Penny contests, and they graciously presented the prizes to the honoree. In the peanut contest, which afforded much fun and merriment, Miss Sybil Rogerson was winner of the prize.

The hostess served a delicious ice course.

The honoree was the recipient of an assortment of useful gifts.

Those present and sending gifts were: Mrs. McCoy Phthisic, Mrs. C. T. Rogerson, Sr., Mrs. Wilbur Phthisic, Mrs. H. P. White, Mrs. R. R. White, Mrs. N. W. Chappell, Mrs. V. C. Winslow, Mrs. H. E.
