P. T. A. MEETS

The January meeting of the Hertford Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Josiah Elliott presided over the business session, during which times the various chairmen made reports. The treasurer reported $26.51 now in the bank. It was also reported that the association now has 101 members enrolled. Mrs. G. R. Tucker, chairman of the Study Group, will make an announcement later as to when the Study Group will be held. It was voted to hold the meetings for four consecutive afternoons instead of one afternoon each week for four weeks.

Miss Mary Sumner made a report of the lunch room. She reported that more than a hundred hot lunches are served each day. She also reported the arrival of new books for the library.

Mrs. L. C. Winslow had charge of the program. Mrs. J. R. Futrell led the devotional. In reading I Corinthians 13th chapter she substituted the word "Thoughtfulness" (or in other words, getting with people) for the word charity. She then gave a splendid recipe for "Getting Along With People."

Miss Ruth Elliott read the President's Message, and Rev. J. F. Stegall talked very interestingly on "Recreation."

Mrs. Josiah Elliott, Mrs. J. R. Futrell and Mrs. J. W. Zachary were appointed as a committee to meet with committees from various organizations in town to see what may be done to secure a recreation center for Hertford.

"Babes in Arms"

Mickey Rooney — Judy Garland Song and dance, pathos and drama, form the background for the first co-starring appearance of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Babes in Arms," which opens at the State Theatre Monday and Tuesday for a two-day run.

Based on the Broadway musical success of a couple of seasons ago, the story deals with the era when vaudeville passed out of the entertainment picture. When the old-time headliners were up against it, their kids came to the rescue, bringing with them a modern viewpoint and a talent that was inborn.

It is a natural structure for a picture which boasts the greatest collection of song, dance and acting performers since the memorable "Great Ziegfeld." In addition to the stellar Rooney-Garland team, the cast features Charles Winniger, Guy Kibbee, June Preisser, Grace Hayes, Betty Jaynes, Douglas McPhail, Rand Brooks, Leni Lynn, John Sheffield, remembered as "Tarzan, Jr.," in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" and some 200 supporting players.

Cast as the son of a famous "two-day" team in a period marked by the passing of vaudeville, Mickey leads the children of the despairing troupers in a fight to keep out of the county farm. Desperation and the amazing talents of the youngsters enable the kids to fight their way right to the very Broadway from which a fickle public has driven their dads and mothers. A puppy love romance between Judy and Mickey is threatened momentarily by June Preisser, playing a former screen baby star who has both the looks and the money needed to stage Mickey's show.

Invited guests included Mrs. Kelly White, Mrs. R. A. White, Mrs. G. A. White, Mrs. L. C. Winslow, Mrs. J. C. Blanchard, Mrs. R. H. Willis, Mrs. Tom Perry, Mrs. V. A.
