

THIS MONTH ON THE FARM

Here are suggestions for the busy month of May from State College specialists:

Enos Blair, Extension Service agronomist, says corn should be planted in the Piedmont and Mountain sections between May 1 and May 15. Coastal Plain growers should finish planting their corn by May 15 if possible.

He also pointed out that May is the best time to plant soybeans, since they will grow better and make larger yields than if the seeding is delayed until June or July. The same is true to some extent of cowpeas, although these should not be planted until the latter half of the month. Velvet beans, on the other hand, should be planted as early in the month as possible. Crotalaria, too, should be planted around the first of the month.

Paul Kime, Experiment Station agronomist, says a weeder and spike-tooth harrow are excellent implements for destroying young grass. They also put the land in better shape for the cultivators. If the weeder is used one or more times on cotton before it is chopped, the cost of hoe labor will be reduced.

Cotton should be chopped as early as is reasonably safe. If the plants grow tall and slender before chopping, they will fall down badly and will not grow off rapidly. On the other hand, it is not advisable to chop during cold, damp weather or while the plants are dying badly.

Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist, warns against planting watermelons, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, tobacco, cotton, and other crops on the same land where wilt diseases caused serious losses the year before. The organisms causing wilt have lived over in the soil and have multiplied tremendously.

May is also a busy time for livestock producers, since it is the time of year when many changes in feed and management are necessary, says Professor Earl Hostetler. For example, permanent pastures are ready to graze throughout the State. However, although this means less labor and no feed, except grass, regular inspections and salting should not be overlooked. Then, too, the bull should be turned with the herd the first day of May so that next year's calf crop will be early and uniform.

C. L. Sams, extension apiarist, advises beekeepers to examine their colonies carefully during May. If it is found that the food supply has fallen below 15 pounds of honey, the colony should be fed 15 to 20 pounds of sugar syrup. Queenless colonies should be united with those having good queens.

FOOTBALL PLAYER A HERO

Kirkville, Mo. — As Carol Dean Adams, football player, passed the house of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Still, he heard Mrs. Still scream—she had found her 18-months-old baby son, Leo, floating in the well. Adams slid down a 12-foot pipe to the water's surface, held the child above the water until they both could be pulled from the well. Artificial respiration revived the baby.

Did Isaac Walton Wear a Sweater?
—Frankly we don't know—it's not in the record. However, fishermen of the 1939 variety are sticklers for clothes. Whether mid-stream or at the surf, the wise ones insist on apparel that is both comfortable and good-looking. Coat sweaters fit the bill nicely on that score. Excellent if you want a practical body garment on your fishing trips. . . . And don't forget a muffler for chilly mornings!

For That September Swim—One news highlight in sportswear this summer was the rage for bold shades in swim trunks. Indeed, gay colors and good tailoring combined to give new life to swimming togs. We saw some smart lines lately. . . . swim trunks made of Crown-Tested rayon satin and elastic textile yarn. Good-looking garments, all right. The new colors add zest, while the tailoring gives an athletic prowess to one's beach appearance.

Corduroy Sports Coats—Corduroy is becoming popular as a fabric for men's sports coats. . . . and signs are that this latest addition to the sports coat family will be actively sponsored at autumn resorts. The corduroy fabric used for these coats is comparatively lightweight but sturdy enough to stand rough usage. It is worn with matching or contrasting slacks.

Knit Elastic Braces—You just can't stop that craving for elastic apparel. Now we have a new one—men's suspenders, made of knit elastic fabric. This unit has a double elasticity—in the yarn, and in the knitting. And they tell us it does away with that tug at the shoulder so characteristic of the old-type suspenders.

EXTENSION NOTES

By FRANCES MANESS
Home Demonstration Agent

During the month of April, all Home Demonstration Clubs have been very busy with our Better Homes Campaign and Cancer Control drive.

As you will see from the posters on display in the different store windows, the teachers and pupils of all schools in the county have been working with us. A poster contest was sponsored in each grammar school and an essay contest in the high school. We greatly appreciate the splendid cooperation we have received in this campaign.

Our next 4-H Club broadcast will be Saturday morning, April 27th, at 10:15 o'clock. Four club members from the New Hope grammar school will discuss "Health." We hope you are listening to these programs each Saturday.

Our second meeting of the County Council will be held in the Agriculture Building Saturday afternoon, April 27th, at 2:30 o'clock. We would like to have each Club represented 100 percent.

Rabies Inspector Says Dogs Not Being Treated

According to the county rabies inspector, A. A. Noble, not more than 200 of the county's approximate 1,600 canine population has been brought forward for inoculation.

For the purpose of treating "man's best friend," the inspector will be at T. R. Winslow's Store in Hertford each Saturday from now until May 11th. Dogs from anywhere in the county may be brought there for inoculation.

He will be at Woodville today (Friday) from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. On Wednesday, May 1st, he will be at New Hope from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Lamb Shipping Season In State Starts Soon

It's almost time to start shipping spring lambs, and L. I. Case, Extension animal husbandman of N. C. State College, says that the next few weeks will be the period when the wise farmer increases his income by fattening and finishing his lambs well. He will do it with an adequate and balanced feed program.

"Of first importance in feeding lambs," Case said, "is milk and plenty of it. See that the ewes are fed for milk production. A bountiful supply of green winter cover crops, preferably crimson clover, supplemented by a mixture of corn and oats should take care of this.

"Creep feeding the lambs usually pays well. Partition of a bright corner of the barn or shed and leave a small opening or two that will exclude the ewes but admit the lambs. A good ration to use in the creep is:

  9. About 2,000,000.
  10. Washington 1922 and London 1930.

Seven parts of ground corn, two parts of wheat bran, and one part of either cottonseed meal or soybean meal. In addition to the grain, a small rack full of choice hay should be kept where the lambs can nibble it as they please."

Last year the State-College Extension Service cooperated in conducting lamb pools which netted farmers $26,082.61 for 4,373 animals, weighing 178,950 pounds. Sase estimates that these lambs brought fully one cent per pound more through grading and cooperative selling than they would have brought under the usual method of selling.

"This means," the specialist declared, "a total of $3,179.50 increased returns to the producers. Further, it is logical that other lambs sold in the territory where cooperative marketing was done brought a higher price than they would have otherwise."

The lamb pools will be continued this year.

B—That's nothing. I bought her a home and I can't keep her in that, either.

"Gone With The Wind"—In Brief

For the benefit of our readers who have not gotten around to seeing the motion picture "Gone With the Wind", we present the following excellent summary of the picture written by Jack Tarver and published in the Toombs County Democrat of Lyons, Georgia:

Ladies and Gentlemen, meet Mr. Tarver:

Katherine Scarlett O'Hara was our shero, a winsome wench with a figure like a marble statue and a head as hard. Gerald O'Hara was her Pa. By nature he was most animal-like. Proud as a peacock, he roared like a lion and rode like a dog and pony show. After Sherman came he was as crazy as a bedbug. Anyhow Scarlett was in love with Ashley, who was in love with his Cousin Melanie, who was in love with Ashley, and so they were married. Ashley and Melanie, in case you have become confused by this time. This irritated Scarlett no end; and so in quick succession she was married for spite and each, respectively, a couple of fellows, whose names I didn't get; but then, neither did Scarlett for long.

The other major characters were Rhett Butler, Belle Watling and a "colored lady" exactly like the one on the flap-jack box. Rhett, who was strangely reminiscent of Clark Gable, was a cross between Jesse James and Little Boy Blue. If Rhett had joined the Lost Cause in the second reel instead of after intermission, the Confederacy would have won the war and Belle. You'd have loved Belle, everybody did. During the siege of Atlanta only three things were running: Belle's Place, Prissy's nose and the laundry that keeps Rhett's white shirts snow-white.

Melanie's baby arrived about the same time Sherman did; both were equally welcome to Scarlett. It was so far as our painstaking research revealed, the first baby to ever be born in technicolor.

Anyway the South lost the war again in the picture (what could you expect with a lot of Yankee producers?) and Scarlett married Rhett to get even with him. Their married life was just like sitting in hell-fire and listening to the heavenly choir. Finally, after Melanie died, Scarlett realized that she didn't love Ashley, but Rhett—Scarlett was as changeable as a baby's underwear. However, Rhett had enough of her foolishness, and when she told him he said, "Frankly, I don't give a damn." Neither by this time did the audience. They were glad to see the end, their own having become number one than somewhat.
