OUR AERIAL PROGRAM STUDY CANADA'S DEFENSES McNARY AND WALLACE PROBLEMS IN FAR EAST COMPLETE DEFENSE COSTLY OUR ARMED FORCES REGISTERING ALIENS WILLKIE'S FIRST TOUR ROOSEVELT'S STRATEGY

With 10,015 planes for the Army and Navy in production, on contract or being built under "letters of intention," the President last week indicated that airplane production is making as good progress as possible under the circumstances. The Chief Executive made it plain that what ever the program lacked in speed is due to delays by Congress in passing the $5,000,000,000 armaments appropriation bill, the excess profits tax bill and the selective service bill.

The President pointed out that the Government is especially interested in training pilots, which requires the production of many planes and in increasing the capacity of the country to build airplanes. Figures already published show that this country has the capacity of 10,000 planes a year; that this will be increased to 13,000 or 14,000 by January first, and reach 36,000 per year early in 1942. Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt said he could not order many planes until the appropriation bill, passed by the House and last week pending in the Senate, had been passed.

The Joint Permanent Defense Board, set up by the United States and Canada, last week sent representatives of the armed services on an airplane tour of the key defense points along the Canadian eastern coast. It is expected that a report of the commission will be available by the middle of this month but whether its contents will be made public remains doubtful. Apparently, the historic meeting at Ogdensburg, between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacKenzie-King is producing immediate results.

Senator Charles L. McNary formally accepted the Republican nomination for Vice-President last week at Salem, Oregon. He criticized the Administration's reciprocal trade treaty system, approved continued Federal development of hydro-electric power and discussed the farm problems in some detail. While critical of the Roosevelt Administration in many respects, the veteran Senator refused to condemn it in its entirety, saying credit should be given for certain social reforms which have "made the lot of the average man more secure."

Henry A. Wallace, former Secretary of Agriculture, "accepted" the Democratic nomination for Vice-President at Des Moines. His speech was largely an argument that the President is a symbol of democracy, whose defeat would "cause Hitler to rejoice." He feared that "if the Republicans come into power" powerful elements will "force us to make one economic concession after another to the totalitarian countries" in order to secure "profitable business with a German-controlled Europe." He linked the economic destinies of this nation with the defeat of Germany and insisted that President Roosevelt "understood the Hitler menace from the start."

While the United States continues to insist that Japan observe American rights in the Far East, the conversations between the two Governments have not resulted in any appreciable amelioration of the problems between them. That diplomatic relations are serious is clear from the Konoye Government's proclamation of totalitarianism at home and "a new order for Greater East Asia," and consequent reservations made by the United States in respect to her rights in China and the Far East. So far, there are no signs of any negotiation of a new commercial treaty to replace the Accord of 1911, which lapsed upon the initiative of the United States.

This business of complete national defense costs money. Actual registration of the 12,000,000 men between 21 and 31 years of age will cost about $25,000,000, with an additional $25 a man for expenses from the time he registers until he gets into a training camp. Estimates make the cost of each person drafted more than $1,500 per man per year. Inasmuch as it is expected to have more than 900,000 Guardsmen, Reserve officers and drafted men in service, it is easy to see where considerable money will be expended.

The present strength of the various armed services of the United States approximates a million men. These are divided, roughly, as follows: Navy, 154,516, with recruits coming in at about 9,000 a month; Marines, 31,379; Naval Reserves, 40,338; Marine Reserves, 15,076; Army, 300,000, with about 80,000 recruits being added each month; National Guard, 288,000; Army Reserve officers, 120,000; Army enlisted Reserves, 17,500. In addition, the Army proposes to draft 400,000 men this coming January 1st and another 400,000 in April, 1941.

3,600,000 people resident in the United States who are subject to the Alien Registration Act is now underway and will continue until December 26th, exclusive of Sundays and holidays. Registration is attended to at postoffices, which have about 10,000 forms and will conduct the matter as privately as possible. Earl D. Harrison, director of the registration requests "our foreign guests" not to swamp the postoffice registration offices, because, after all, it is a four months' job. All aliens in this country who expect to remain after December 26th are required to register and those who now arrive to remain for more than thirty days must also register.

Wendell Willkie's first campaign trip will begin about the middle of this month, with an address at Coffeyville, Kansas, on the 14th. The candidate will then visit the Southwest, the Pacific Coast, and come back to Detroit by the northern route. It is expected that seven major speeches will reveal in detail the views of the nominee on important issues and amplify the views indicated in his acceptance speech. Eighteen or more states will be included on the schedule. Afterwards, the candidate will make his temporary home in Rushville, Indiana, the birthplace of his wife.

President Roosevelt, meanwhile, continued his "non-political" role although making speeches at Chickamauga Dam and Newfound Gap, as part of dedicatory exercises on Labor Day. Just how much speaking the President will undertake before November remains uncertain, but his opinion, as reported at this time, is that events in Europe will have more to do with the results of the election this Fall than anything that he or his opponent can say in campaign speeches. Meanwhile, he will give his attention to the preparedness program and be identified as closely as possible with the defense measures now being taken in this country.

101 Beer Dealers Have Lost Licenses

The beer industry's "clean up or close up" campaign in North Carolina resulted in disciplinary action against 274 retail dealers during the 12-month period ended August 31.

Edgar H. Bain of Goldsboro, State director of the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee, announced today that the retail licenses of 101 dealers in 38 counties had been revoked, five dealers in four counties placed on probation, and 154 dealers warned to "clean up" before more drastic action was taken against them. Revocation petitions against 14 dealers in six counties are pending.

The campaign against undesirable beer outlets was begun with the organization of the committee in Charlotte on May 18, 1939, but the first revocation was not obtained until September. Since that time 101 dealers in the following counties have lost their licenses: Buncombe, Haywood, New Hanover, Columbus, Wake, Mecklenburg, Guilford, Henderson, Swain, Clay, Stanly, Yadkin, Cabarrus, Catawba, Iredell, Davie, Brunswick, Craven, Beaufort, Wayne, Wilson, Lenoir, Pasquotank, Martin, Alamance, Burke, Transylvania, Rutherford, Cleveland, Gaston, Rowan, Wilkes, Rockingham, Richmond, Edgecombe, Randolph and Davidson.

Five dealers in Forsyth, Bladen, Surry and Iredell counties were placed on probation during this period, and revocation petitions are pending against 14 dealers in Beaufort, New Hanover, Wilson, Burke, Iredell, New Hanover and Carteret.
