

Indians Lose Two; Squaws Break Even

Two well-played, hard-fought basketball games were witnessed at the High School auditorium on last Thursday and Friday when the Perquimans boys and girls' teams met the teams from Hobbsville and Williamston.

Hobbsville visited here on Thursday and split the double header with the locals when the Indian Squaws downed the Hobbsville girls by a 29-21 count.

The Squaws were off to a good start and had a comfortable lead on the visitors but this lead was gradually cut down by the Hobbsville team. Mayes, Gault and Harris did the scoring for Hertford.

In the boys' game, the Hertford team lost a one point verdict to the Hobbsville team after a rough game during which three players left the game through the foul route. Final score of the boys' game was 28-27.

Williamston Wins

Coming back on Friday, both the Perquimans teams met the strong teams of the Williamston High School. During the girls' game which ended in a victory for Williamston, the local team seemingly could not cope with the faster passing Williamston team. Most of the Perquimans girls saw action during this game and gave a good account of themselves, but they could not tally the points to overcome Williamston's early lead.

The game between the Indians and Williamston boys was an exciting thirty-two minutes of basketball. Williamston gained an early lead of ten to four, but doggedly the Indians kept after the ball and lost the verdict three points. Final score was 16-13.

U. S. Senators Debate Taxing Securities Now Exempt From Taxation

Shall Federal and State securities now exempt from taxation be taxed in the future? U. S. Senators Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan, and Warren R. Austin, Vermont, transfer their debate from the floor of the Senate to the columns of the February issue of The Rotarian magazine, as its current debate-of-the-month. Brown was author of the "Brown Amendment," which would have taxed such securities, and Austin led the opposition in committee and on the floor.

"The Government is losing substantial revenue," claims Senator Brown. "Until we eliminate tax exemption, we will not approximate tax justice. The man of moderate income obtains no tax advantages whatsoever from the ownership of a 3 percent municipal bond. To a man of exceedingly large income, the municipal bond is of great value because of its tax-exempt privilege. The elimination of the tax-exempt privilege would add over the years substantially to the Government income and will tend toward tax justice."

To which Senator Austin replies: "If these contentions were true, and if I were blind to the fundamental defects of the proposal, I could easily find myself persuaded to favor the idea. But, alas, I can find no evidence to support these claims. To be able to collect income taxes on 2½ million dollars, the Government has pledged itself to pay out half that much in increased interest. Relatively few of these tax-exempt securities are to be found in the estates of the rich. But the fundamental fallacy of the proposal is: should we destroy the immunity of taxation of either one of our dual governments, we slip one notch nearer the sea of national socialism."

MARGARET TOWE CLASS MEETS

The Margaret Towe Bible Class of Oak Grove Church held its monthly meeting Thursday evening at the home of Miss Pauline Bundy. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Emmett Stallings, and "Faith Of Our Fathers" was sung. A short devotional was conducted by Miss Alice Ferrell, after which "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was sung. The business session was followed by the minutes of the previous meeting. The class voted to donate $2 to the local Infantile Paralysis Fund.

The class accepted an invitation to meet with Mrs. Otis Lane in February. The meeting closed with the hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross."

During the social hour Mrs. Geo. W. Jackson and Mrs. Stallings, recreational leaders, conducted several interesting contests with Misses Bernice Ownley, Pauline Bundy and Doris Lewis winning prizes.

The hostess served delicious ice cream, cake and mint to the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Bundy, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Lane, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Bundy, Mrs. Emmett Stallings, Mrs. Henry Ownley, Mrs. Tim Stallings, Misses Alice Ferrell, Gracie Ferrell, Bernice Ownley, Dorothy Bundy, Doris Lewis, Sadie Bundy, and Pauline Bundy.

Accidents Costly To North Carolinians

Traffic accidents cost North Carolinians more money each year than it costs to operate the entire State-supported school system, Ronald Hocutt, director of the Highway Safety Division, stated this week.

"We are inclined to look upon the cost of highway accidents only in terms of human suffering, twisted limbs and horrible death, while overlooking the economic aspect of the accident picture," he said. "Last year, for example, the cost of traffic accidents in North Carolina reached upwards of $25,000,000. This sum included all costs of hospitalization, doctors' bills, repairs and replacement of damaged vehicles, working time lost by accident victims, and an estimated valuation of $5,000 placed on each life lost."

Traffic accidents cost North Carolina industries a pretty penny, too. Hocutt said, pointing out that the average compensation costs paid to industrial workers involved in traffic accidents in connection with their work is higher than that in any other type of accident in industry, and that the average number of days lost as a result of traffic accidents in industry is greater than that in any other type of accident.

"Yes, highway accidents cost more than human suffering, tears and anguish," the safety director stated. "Accidents cost North Carolinians many millions of dollars each year. And while it may be true that much of this cost is borne by insurance companies, we all know that these companies are not in business for their health, and the cost of these accidents ultimately must be borne by all policy-holders."

Hocutt said that if North Carolina drivers are not concerned over their safety, consideration for their pocketbooks ought to prompt them to drive more carefully.

Early-Hatched Pullets Will Need Extra Care

Egg prices usually start to rise in July, and the summer and fall eggs top the market. For that reason, many farmers and poultrymen are now buying chicks to take advantage of this favorable price situation when the early-hatched pullets start laying in the summer.

C. R. Parrish, Extension poultry specialist of N. C. State College, says this is all well and good, but he warns that extra care is required for early-hatched chicks. "Without extra care," he says, "the early-hatched birds will go into molt next fall or winter and all the advantage of the summer price situation will be lost."

This extra care includes the use of lights to lengthen the laying day of the hens and to stimulate feed consumption. It also entails the feeding of wet mash around noon each day. "If you do not plan to follow such practices, you'd better not buy your chicks too early," Parrish declared.

Another angle to baby chick buying is discussed by the Extension specialist, as follows: "Don't just buy chicks on the price basis alone. Investigate the hatchery's breeding program."

"For instance, if you are buying chicks primarily for broilers, you should be sure the hatchery or breeder you order from is taking broiler qualities into consideration in his breeding program. Likewise, if the chicks are to be raised primarily for the purpose of egg production, the breeder or hatchery you buy from should be breeding for high egg production, for egg quality, and good pullet livability as well as for satisfactory broiler qualities."

Parrish says a farmer can usually tell by conversation or from the advertising material just what kind of a job the hatchery is doing in the way of breed improvement.
