Young Democrats Meet Sept. 18 To 20 In Winston-Salem

The largest convention ever held by Young Democrats of North Carolina, and perhaps in the United States, according to the prediction of Y. D. C. President Ralph Gardner, is to be held in Winston-Salem Sept. 18, 19 and 20.

Realizing that hundreds of the members are facing service in the army, the Winston-Salem club, host to the State Convention, is planning a stream-lined Convention. There will be a minimum of oratory, a maximum of entertainment and relaxation.

General Chairman Bill Davis has announced that the highlight of the convention will be a picnic and dance given the delegates by Mayor Dick Reynolds, who is also national treasurer of the Democratic party. Held at Reynolds Park, which the Reynolds family gave to Winston-Salem, this party will include a dance by a nationally-known band. The convention committee estimates that this party alone will cost the host around $10,000. The band later will play for a dance on the roof garden of the Robert E. Lee Hotel.

For the park party, the large municipal amusement area will be turned over all day entirely to Young Democrats. They will be given a magnificent swimming pool, a golf course, bowling alleys, ferris wheels, merry-go-rounds, a skating rink, picnic areas, driving range and all other facilities. For that one day, the city's new park will be reserved exclusively for Young Democrats. Senator Josiah Bailey and Governor Broughton will be convention speakers. From 1,500 to 2,000 Young Democrats are expected to attend.
