

Executive Committee Concludes Program On Christian Education

During the month of October and through the first part of November, the Executive Committee of N. C. Yearly Meeting of Friends put on a cooperative program of Christian Education for its churches throughout the State.

Each Sunday afternoon and evening, alternating at the two Friends churches in the county, the various phases of the work were discussed by the pastors and others.

Sunday, the 9th, the afternoon and evening services at Piney Woods Church closed the series of programs.

B. L. White, principal of Sunbury High School, gave a stirring address on the place of Religion in the life of a community.

Mrs. L. Jay Winalow stressed the value and influence of good books and reading, and pointed out the fact that every church school should have a library of reading material suitable for its group of workers, and for the community at large.

Charles Hendricks, of High Point, representing the Youth of the Y. M., in a clear and forceful manner, told of the program of activities of the young people throughout the State.

The inspiring devotionals preceding each session contributed largely to the programs.

On the whole, the inspiration and information gained proved very beneficial.

NEW COMEDIES IN "RELUCTANT DRAGON"

Because of mounting requests to know exactly what his studio is like,

Walt Disney has used his new, streamlined Hollywood plant as the background of action in his current full-length production, "The Reluctant Dragon," coming to the State Theatre.

The picture brings something new to screen entertainment combining, as it does, two great mediums; actual motion picture photography and animation. Robert Benchley is featured in the hilarious new-type of film comedy. Benchley, playing himself, is seen as a henpecked husband whose wife sends him to Walt Disney to sell the cartoon master on an idea for a story.

Self-Deceived

A boy was strolling through a cemetery reading the inscriptions on the tombstones. He came to one which ran: "Not dead, but sleeping." (Scratching his head, he remarked: "He ain't foolin' nobody but himself.")

IN MEMORIAM
