

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

International Sunday School Lesson for January 24, 1943.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Wouldst thou be made whole?"—John 5:6.

(Lesson Text: John 5:2-17)

After his talk with the Samaritan woman and a two-day stay in Sychar, Jesus and his disciples went on to Galilee and from there to Cana, where he had performed his first miracle. There he was besought by a certain nobleman, from Capernaum, to heal his sick son. After receiving evidence of the man's faith in his healing power, Jesus performed his second miracle, healed the boy and told the father that his boy would live. The father believed, went home and found that the boy had begun to get well the very hour that Jesus had told him that his son was healed.

This brings John's account of the actions of Jesus down to this Sunday's lesson which tells of two other miracles which Jesus performed. Going down to Jerusalem to observe a feast of the Jews, Jesus passed a pool by the sheep market. Because of certain healing qualities in the waters of the pool, great multitudes of sick people—the blind, the halt, and the withered—gathered there that they might dip themselves in the waters and be healed.

Jesus beheld a man who had been sick for 38 years and who had become almost hopeless because he was unable to dip himself in the pool alone and no one offered to help him. Yet the mere fact of his being there testified to the desire that he wanted to be well again. In order to make him conscious of his own hope and faith, Jesus asked him, "Wilt thou be made whole?" The man then called Jesus' attention to the fact that no one was interested enough in him to assist him into the water.

Jesus told the man to help himself when he commanded: "Rise! take up thy bed and walk." The man, without hesitation or doubt as to his ability to do so, immediately arose, took up his bed and walked. Jesus passed through the crowd and entered the temple.

It so happened that this miracle of healing was performed on the Sabbath day, and when the Jews saw the man walking with his bed, or roll, under his arm, they informed him that he was breaking the Sabbath. The man answered that he who had healed him had commanded him to take up his bed, but he admitted that he did not know who it was who had healed him. Later, when Jesus saw the man in the temple, he reminded him that he was now physically whole and to sin no more, lest a worse thing come upon him. The man then knew that it was Jesus who had healed him and told the Jews this. Angered, the Jews sought to slay Jesus because he had done those things on the Sabbath day.

Making matters still worse, Jesus angered the Jews still further by stating that he was doing the work of "My Father." This infuriated them so they sought even more desperately because he had not only broken the Sabbath but had also claimed that God was his father, thus making himself equal with God. Jesus enters into a discourse with the Jews in which he points out the grounds upon which he bases his Messiahship, although he realizes that the Jews do not believe him and will not accept him. He ends by calling attention to the fact that Moses, whom they accept and trust, had testified of him and had written of him, but evidently they did not believe Moses, because they would not accept and believe him.

Jesus then left Jerusalem and crossed over the Sea of Galilee, probably seeking rest.

N. C. Weekly War Roundup

NO LANTERN CUT—North Carolina farmers will be able to keep buying liquid fuel oil lamps and lanterns. While a large number of other articles made of steel for war use have been stopped for the duration . . . there will continue to be lanterns for use around the house and barn.

CELOPHANE GOES TO WAR—Housewives will see less and less articles wrapped in cellophane from now until the war is over. Reason is that cellophane is needed for gas capes for the United States Army.

OPA CRACKS DOWN—The State Office of Price Administration this week cracked down on three violations of OPA regulations. A Raleigh cafe operator was charged with making a false coffee inventory report on his application . . . he said he had 30 pounds of coffee on hand on November 23, but OPA says he had 412 pounds on November 27. In Rocky Mount a filling station operator was charged with selling gasoline without accepting coupons from 50 cents to $1.00 per gallon, and another Rocky Mount man was charged with selling 100-gallon bulk gas coupons for $5.00 each.

PLEASURE DRIVING—State OPA Director T. S. Johnson said this week that county, municipal, state and OPA officers will keep on checking cars for pleasure driving. Already almost 360 North Carolina drivers have been "tagged" for pleasure driving and will have to appear before their local rationing boards to explain why their gasoline should not be taken away.

SHARE YOUR CAR—The North Carolina Office of Civilian Defense this week will push car-sharing in all sections of the state through block and community leaders. OCD says that car-sharing is "all important" in the present gasoline and rubber crisis and every effort should be made to share as many rides as possible.

FUEL TIPS—If your fuel oil ration is 200 gallons or less a year . . . an amount most common among those who heat by stoves . . . you will now receive OPA ration coupons redeemable any time during the year rather than coupons segregated into "heating periods." From now on, householders will receive coupons of definite gallonage value whose use is not restricted by heating periods.

CORN PRICES—In a move designated to halt further sharp advances in the price of corn, the State Office of Price Administration has frozen prices on all exchanges and in every cash and local market over the State at the highest levels at which sales were made on Monday, January 11. OPA's action means that there definitely will be no increase in the general level of corn prices.

TIRE TALK—Because North Carolina motorists are taking better care of their tires than ever before, the OPA has relaxed its rules on tire inspection. All holders of A cards will now have until March 31 for their initial tire inspection, and subsequently will have their tires inspected

THIS BUSINESS OF Living

FREEDOM OF CHOICE

"Oh dear, oh dear," I complained to great Aunt Matilda, "look at this. Eight thousand different articles to be simplified. You know what that means, don't you?"

"Yes, they're going to cut down on styles and colors and folderols until the war is over."

"And make us all look and eat and fix our houses just alike. Why I've always been able to find something different for my table by keeping my eyes open and looking around."

The old lady who had kept house in a much simpler day nodded her wise head and said, "Yes . . . the manufacturers of this country have catered to everybody's tastes pretty successfully. They've turned out an amazing variety of merchandise all right. Why even a queen a century ago hadn't the choice that women like you have had all of your lives. Now for a while you're going to have to get along with just necessities, I guess. And incidentally, they would have been luxuries in my day. But you mustn't complain, you know."

"I mustn't. It's a war measure and they say by simplifying just these 8,000 articles millions of men will be freed for essential war activity in factories, on farms, and in the armed services. So I guess we'll just have to get along with one kind of paint, and one shape of glass container, and one kind of photograph equipment, and one kind of pie plates and wrenches. Those are some of the things to be simplified."

"Until after the war is won. Then you must see that the manufacturers have the chance to expand again and use all their ingenuity and skill to please all of their customers by producing a variety of articles. Freedom of choice has always been your right. It's part of the American way of doing things. See that you get it back again just as soon as Industry stops working on planes and ships and tanks and guns which are all that matter just now."

"I've lived a long time, and I've seen our standard of living go up and up and women's lives get more interesting and worthwhile. One reason for this has been an ever-widening freedom of choice. After the victory insist on it as well as on those other great freedoms of speech and religion and the ballot on which America is founded."

CURB MARKET SALES ESTABLISH RECORD

(Continued from Page Three) The home demonstration curb market serves as a retail agency and provides farm women with a direct outlet to nearby consumers for such produce as vegetables, meat, butter, eggs, poultry, milk products, cakes, bread, flowers, and canned goods.

The second type of market for farm women is furnished by merchants, individuals, institutions, hotels, and similar large buyers. Women either sell individually or group themselves together in selling produce to these buyers. Curb market sales during the year just closed amounted to $570,643.87, and sales to hotels, institutions, and other large buyers to $629,012.79.

The Durham County home demonstration market jumped into the lead in 1942, selling products valued at $45,500.34. Nash was second, followed by Wayne.

every six months, instead of every four months as first stated. Motorists with B or C cards must have their tires inspected by the end of February. After that, inspections for B holders will be held every four months, and for C holders bulk coupon holders once every three months.

The Office of Defense Transportation has also postponed the deadline date for initial commercial motor vehicle tire inspection from January 15 to February 28.

BICYCLES—All the North Carolinians who have been wishing they had bought bicycles before rationing began are going to have their hearts made glad by a new OPA ruling relaxing the eligibility rules for the purchase of bikes. From now on, anyone gainfully employed or doing volunteer work essential to the war program or public welfare, or students who need bicycles for getting to and from school, will be eligible to receive a rationing certificate if he or she can show need for a bicycle at least four days a week. Applications for rationing certificates must be made at the local War Price and Rationing Boards, W. Hance Hoffer, State OPA ration officer, said.

Loosens Up Thick Choking Phlegm of BRONCHIAL ASTHMA!

Spend 45c today at any good drug store for a bottle of Buckley's CANADIOL Mixture (triple action). Pour yourself a teaspoonful, let it lie on your tongue a moment then swallow slowly. Feel its instant powerful effective action spread through throat, head and bronchial tubes. Starts at once to loosen thick choking phlegm making breathing easier. No claim is made that Buckley's is a cure for Chronic Bronchitis or Asthma but sufferers often find Buckley's CANADIOL Mixture (the largest selling cough medicine in all Canada) eases coughing spasms and loosens up that choking phlegm which seems to clog the tubes and makes breathing difficult. Many get better night's rest.
