

Mussolini Ousted As Leader Of Italy

 nounced that Badoglio was conferring with Allied officials about peace terms, but according to Washington and London conditions had not yet reached this point.
 Mid-week dispatches indicated disorder in some places within Italy, but seemingly the Fascist government has been completely overthrown and the new system installed. It was reported by an Italian source that the Fascist Grand Council, itself, ousted Mussolini, forcing him to resign, after he had presented a plan to withdraw his armies from southern and middle Italy to a defense line in the north. Hitler had proposed this plan and Mussolini fell because he accepted the Nazi theory that Italy could not be defended.
 Unconfirmed reports state Badoglio has ordered Italian troops, stationed in the Balkans and in France to return to the homeland. It is estimated there is some twenty-two Italian divisions stationed in those points.
 Authoritative sources believe that unless King Victor and Badoglio can salvage the government and withdraw from the war, a general uprising within Italy will cause a new government to be formed which will sue for peace with the Allies.

To meet anticipated needs for library assistants in Federal agencies, the U. S. Civil Service Commission today opened a new examination. Persons qualifying may be appointed to positions paying $1,970 and $1,752 a year.

Replacements are needed frequently both in Federal departmental libraries, particularly in Washington, D. C., and in naval station libraries throughout the country. Library assistants in naval air and training stations will replace enlisted men going to sea. Libraries at these stations are for the use of enlisted men, and contain both technical and recreational reading matter.

Salaries given incorporate payment for the 8 hours of overtime included in the 48-hour Federal work-week. No specific experience or education is required to compete in the test, or to be eligible for appointment to the $1,725 positions; however, in order to be appointed to the $1,970 positions persons must meet certain experience or training requirements in addition to passing the test.

There are no age limits for library assistant positions. The written test will include both general questions and items on elementary library methods.
