Plant Small Grains Early Expert Advises

Small grain crops should be planted early rather than late in the fall, if they are to be given the opportunity of making maximum yields, say Extension agronomists at State College.

Usually growers get busy with the marketing of tobacco and the harvesting of cotton and peanuts and let the proper time for small grain planting slip by, the agronomists report. The plants do not have a chance to build a good root system and get set for the winter freezes. Lower yields result.

In addition to planting early, the agronomists also advise an increased acreage and proper fertilization at planting because extra feed supplies are needed to help offset the existing shortage. Planting dates will vary in each section of the state. Hessian fly-free dates should be observed.

The agronomists also suggest the early planting of crops for hay and temporary grazing. In the Piedmont, for example, they advise the planting of alfalfa in the latter part of August and September. Also, barley, oats, and rye make good early grazing in this area, when planted in August and well fertilized.

A large number of crops can be planted in the mountain areas in August. Alfalfa leads the list followed by blue grass, bur clover, crimson clover, hop clover, orchard grass, redtop, hairy vetch, and white clover.

The agronomists report that North Carolina is blessed with opportunities for growing an exceptionally large number of feed crops and urge that they be planted at the proper time to insure good yields.

Perquimans Training School In Session

The Perquimans Training School at Winfall, which opened early as usual to allow for the agricultural holidays, is now closing at 1 o'clock each day to permit the students to work after school. The faculty hopes this assistance will alleviate conditions during cotton picking time.

The faculty at the school is the same as last year with the exception of one new teacher, Mrs. Whitehead, who is substituting until a successor for E. L. Fair can be obtained.

The New Farmers of America, an organization of the school, held their first meeting last week with Lorenzo Newby presiding as president and K. A. Williams as advisor.

Extra Storage Needed For Yams

Unless additional storage and curing facilities are provided for the coming sweet potato crop, estimated at 83 million bushels for the U. S., the market will be flooded and large quantities of this valuable food crop will be lost, say Extension Service officials at N. C. State College.

They point out that the effectiveness of any support price program depends on the farmers themselves. If potatoes are "dumped" on the market at one time, particularly those which have not been properly harvested and cured, support measures are bound to prove inadequate.

In order to take care of the bumper crop, the officials suggest that growers provide adequate curing and storage facilities, and market the crop in an orderly manner. They ask distributors to make plans for handling large supplies. To consumers, they suggest that increased amounts of this nutritious and tasty food be eaten as it comes to the market. Otherwise, waste will result.

The Extension Service urges North Carolina growers to make use of tobacco barns, vacant store buildings, and other places which may be converted into sweet potato storage plants. This is particularly important in the western section of the state where there has been an exceptionally large increase in acreage.

They suggest that growers with storage problems outline their facilities and ask help from the Agricultural Engineering Department at State College, Raleigh.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

Sam Abernethy always said: "Curiosity may kill a cat—but I'm no cat." Which is Sam's way of saying that when he's curious about something he goes out and gets the facts.

Seems our government feels the same way. After hearing rumors about our soldiers drinking too much—government people went after the facts. They got the evidence on what our boys drink... and don't drink.

The government found out our Army's the best behaved in history. More'n half 'em drink beer—nothing stronger. And the government found that selling 3.2 beer in Army camps is one reason why our Army is so temperate.

From where I sit, there isn't much cause to worry about our men in the Army. Looks like they can take care o' themselves—and take care o' the Nazis and the Japs, too.

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. As all druggists.
