SOIL CONSERVATION NOTES

H. L. Williams of the Whiteston community and M. C. Boyce of the Chapanoke community have seeded some Crotalaria for summer cover crops this year. The Crotalaria was seeded in corn fields, two rows being planted to corn and every third row planted to Crotalaria. If a good crop of seed is produced on these fields this year they will not have to be seeded again for several years, as the vitality of Crotalaria seed is seven years. If the crops which are planted on these fields during the next few years are laid by fairly early, Crotalaria will come up and make a good growth before frost. Crotalaria is not good for livestock to eat, but is one of the best summer legumes for poor light sandy soils. The Croalaria seed were furnished by the Albemarle Soil Conservation District. Elissa Gennette in the Bethel community is cleaning out the lead ditch on his farm. This ditch was surveyed and staked out to proper grade by the Albemarle Soil Conservation District.

HOW MUCH TO MOVE A WAR?

AS SOON as we can, we'll bring to bear on the Japs all the additional might we've been using against Germany.

What will it cost, this Moving Day of War?

Estimate it in these terms: The job of moving millions of men from one front to another. Thousands of ships to carry the supplies of battle. Swarms of new-type aircraft to blast the path into enemy territory.

You can get an idea of the cost from the fact that Uncle Sam needs 7 billions from us in the mighty Seventh War Loan—now!

The Seventh War Loan will call for the greatest bond-buying we have ever done.

If you have an income—whether from work, land or capital—you have a quota in the 7th War Loan.

FIND YOUR QUOTA . . . AND MAKE IT!

SO YOU THINK THE War Is Over DO YOU?

LET'S SEE YOU TRY TO TELL THAT TO THE MEN ON OKINAWA, LUZON, MINDANO, GUAM, SAIPAN, TINIAN, IWO JIMA; IN BORNEO, BURMA, CHINA. YEAH; AND YOU MIGHT ALSO—

TELL IT TO THE JAPS

It's funny about those people. Those who live in Tokyo don't believe a word about the war being over. They don't shoot like it, either.

Sure, Germany has surrendered unconditionally. Now all we have to do is to transport the men and materials in Germany 14,000 miles to the Pacific and start on the second half of this war.

All this will take a bit of doing . . . and more than a bit of money, too. That's where we come in. The mighty Seventh War Loan is now in progress. It's dedicated to the licking of Japan. Our goal is the biggest ever . . . so we urge you to join the $800 Club by purchasing a $100 E Bond today.

Sign up every member in your family for this $800 Club to help keep Perquimans at the top of the list in meeting its War Loan quotas. Membership is open to every person who buys a $100 E bond.

Immediately upon the news that Germany had surrendered, there were demands in this country for the speedy return of fighting men, but, so far as we have noted, little discussion of the economic situation that will confront men released from active service. The figures given by Judge Vinson indicate that returning veterans will not step from the ranks into waiting jobs and that in the shuffle for employment, some of them may not find immediate opportunity.

This is a tragic spectacle, regardless of the reasons assigned. Thousands of men who have faced the enemy in battle and risked their lives for the nation will soon arrive in this country. They will be anxious to gather again the lost threads of their peace-time existence and eager to find for themselves a place in the economic arrangement by which men seek to earn a living for themselves and their families.

Every community and business enterprise in the nation is indebted to these fighting men for continued existence and relative safety. Out of the emergency of the war, the nation as a whole and business enterprises as separate entities have reaped benefits in the way of definite financial rewards.

It is obvious, therefore, that strenuous efforts should be made to provide employment for returning service men. The problem cannot be solved by leaving it to industrial centers and to big business generally, or to the Government. It must be attacked everywhere.

Every business should definitely attempt to provide employment for veterans. Executive management, which is supposed to be the brains of economic enterprise, must use its intelligence and be prepared, if necessary, to take some risks in the way of expansion in order to provide the jobs necessary.

Perquimans County has seen hundreds of her sons go forth to war. They have departed with the thought in mind that, some day, they would come back home to live the life they planned before the war began. Military service broke into their existing arrangements, other people have occupied their places of employment and they now face, upon their return home, some anxiety as to their economic status.

Throughout the United States there are countless organizations of business men seeking to attract outside capital and new industries for the purpose of providing jobs and payrolls. Many of us overlook the asset that Perquimans County has in her sons and the tremendous economic gains that will be made if they can be persuaded to cast their future lots in their former places of abode.

It is time for some specific action designed to make it possible and profitable for returning service men to resume their permanent residence here. What, if anything, is Hertford going to do?
