Plans Being Readied For School Opening On September 3rd

Two Vacancies Still Exist on Teachers List At High School

Plans for opening Perquimans County's schools on Monday, September 3, are rapidly being formulated and all school buildings in the county are now undergoing a clean-up in preparation for the beginning of the next school term, F. T. Johnson, superintendent of schools, stated this week.

The major problem still facing the superintendent is locating two more teachers to fill vacancies which still exist on school faculties. One of these vacancies is the French position at the high school, and Mr. Johnson has stated that all attempts to fill this position to date has failed. He said he had driven hundreds of miles seeking teachers, but the severe shortage of teachers over the entire State is causing all schools trouble in locating a sufficient number of teachers.

Two of the county schools, the Central Grammar School and the Hertford colored schools are expected to be re-roofed some time before the opening of the school term. Both of these buildings need new roofs and they will be repaired as soon as the contractor can get to the projects.

E. C. Woodard, who was elected to serve as principal of the white schools, is expected to arrive in Hertford this week. He and Mr. Johnson will make a survey of all bus routes, but it is expected that the school bus routes will remain about the same as they were last year.

FSA Launches Safety Drive For Borrowers

Realization that more farm people were killed by accidents the first two years of the present war than the number of fighting men killed during that period in the war itself, has focused attention on the necessity for farm safety activities throughout the year, A. Houston Edwards, County FSA supervisor, has announced.

The FSA is conducting a vigorous campaign on an annual basis to prevent accidents on the farm and in the home of borrowers.

Both farm and home supervisors will make safety a part of their regular work toward the rehabilitation of farm families, Mr. Edwards said. On regular visits to borrowers supervisors will bring to their attention any evident hazards. Appropriate notations will be made regarding the type and seriousness of hazards and recommendations made for their elimination. On later visits supervisors will make further checks on progress in correction.

Supervisors can provide farm families with a simple but effective check list which enables them to discover many existing hazards. Farm operators will have additional ideas to supplement the list. Statistics show that deaths from farm work accidents amount to 25 per cent of all occupational deaths, and that the three greatest hazards existing on farms are dangers from fire, carelessness in handling livestock and in the operation of power-driven equipment.

Mr. Edwards said additional precautions on the safety check list are prevent falls, preventing accidents in the home, availability of first-aid materials and familiarity with their use. "Inspection points the way to protection," Mr. Edwards said, "the safe practice is to locate danger spots on the farm and in the home and get rid of them."

THIS WEEK'S HEADLINES

World-chattering news was released to the public this week when the report of the atomic bomb was made by President Truman. Scientists, for years, have been attempting to solve the secret of atomic power, and that this secret has been uncovered in America and put to war use means that the Allies now have the most powerful weapon the world has ever known. The first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan, at a military base, on Sunday and reports indicate the destruction was so great the entire city was wiped from the earth. It is believed that a new ultimatum will now be handed the Japanese nation to surrender or face the prospects of having their country blown to bits. Washington officials say the solving of the atomic power has cost two billion dollars and that the production of the bomb has been going on for three years. A sufficient number of the bombs are reported ready for use against the Japanese.

Reports from Tokyo state the Jap cabinet held emergency sessions on Monday and Tuesday, but no news was released regarding the destruction by the atomic bomb which hit Japan Sunday. The Japs have called the bomb a diabolical weapon and admitted great damage. Across the world, in London, Prime Minister Attlee also called his cabinet into session, probably to outline the powerful new weapon at the disposal of the Allies.

President Truman arrived back in this country Monday from the meeting of the Big Three at Potsdam. He is now back at Washington and is expected to make a radio address to the nation, giving details of the Potsdam conference. A large list of domestic and international problems will claim the attention of the President for the next several days. Included in the problems are reconversion, release of critically needed men from the Army and possibly reduction of the size of the army.

Senator Hiram Johnson, one of the leading isolationists in the Senate for 28 years, died in Washington this week. Johnson represented the State of California and was one of the leaders who fought U. S. entry into the League of Nations.

American carrier planes continued to tighten the blockade of the Japanese mainland this week, striking along the China coast at Jap shipping while other warplanes carried out attacks at enemy targets in the Pacific. The Chinese land forces have also continued their attack at Jap positions. Chinese troops are now driving toward Canton and have captured two more objectives from the Japs.

The board reappointed C. B. White as superintendent of the County Home for a period of one year. Following the adjournment of the meeting, members of the official county family, including the commissioners and other officials, gathered at the county home for a delicious dinner tendered the officials by Mr. and Mrs. White.

Manslaughter Case Continued To Oct. Term Lower Court

Varied Docket Consumes Little Time Tuesday Morning

Harold Kiky, former Harvey Point sailor, will be given a preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter in the Perquimans Recorder's Court October 23. The case was continued on agreement of the State and defendant's attorney, due to the defendant's physical condition. Kiky was riding a motorcycle on route 17, near Wadville early in July when the motorcycle swerved from the road and struck two Negroes, one of them, Clyde Seymour, died from injuries received in the accident. Since the accident, Kiky has been under the care of the Naval doctors.

A varied docket of minor cases consumed little of the Recorder's Court's time at the session here Tuesday morning. Besides continuing the Kiky case, Judge Johnson passed judgement on seven other defendants.

Court costs were assessed against the prosecuting witness in the case charging Robert Key, Negro, with assault.

Jim Williams, Negro, plead guilty to being drunk and paid the costs of court.

Addie Mae Jones and Laura Umphlett, both colored, were charged with assault and assault with a deadly weapon. Court costs were charged to the prosecuting witnesses.

Ross Hampton was ordered to pay the costs of court on a charge of speeding.

Clarence Roughton was fined $10 and ordered to pay the costs after pleading guilty to a charge of speeding.

Roy Hodges was taxed with the costs of court after pleading guilty to a charge of operating a car without a license.

Prior to entering the service with the Marine Corps in 1940, Mr. Oakey was connected with the legal department of the Federal Trade Commission in Washington. Before that he practiced law in Hertford and served as judge of the Perquimans recorder's court for about eight years.

Crop Report Shows Cotton, Peanuts Hurt

Outlook of crops in this county remains none too good, according to a weather-crop report issued this week by the State's USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

According to the report, at least two inches of rain fell in the county last week, and soils continue too wet for peanuts. Little progress has been made against grassy conditions and many farmers consider the crop laid by. Hot temperatures and rains have caused rapid cotton growth, with fruiting not up to expectation. Weevil infestation is causing anxiety among most farmers. The prospects for a good corn crop in the county still exist.

ARMY TASK FORCE BRIEF NEWS EDITORS ON PROBLEMS FACED IN JAPANESE WAR

RUSSIA AT WAR

Russia declared war on Japan, effective August 9, according to news released by officials in Moscow on Wednesday. The Jap ambassador was notified by Russian authorities that inasmuch as the Japanese failed to accept the Allied peace proposal, the Russian government felt its duty to join the war to hasten peace.

Following the handing of the declaration of war to the Japanese, Red troops attacked Jap installations along the Manchukuo border, and it was reported some Russian planes joined in the attack. The action of Russia now cuts Japan off from many resources and tightens the blockade placed by the Allies. Many officials in Washington believe the Russian entry into the war, along with the attack by the atomic bomb, will shorten the war considerably.

Hertford Seaman Cited For Saving Shipmate's Life

Julian H. Broughton, Coxswain, U. S. Naval Reserve, son of Mrs. Vera Broughton of Hertford, has been commended by James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, for conspicuous gallantry in rescuing a shipmate from death by drowning in San Pedro Bay, in the Philippine Islands, on February 9, 1945.

Coxswain Broughton, attached to the USS Lloyd, received the commendation and ribbon for his heroic work in saving the life of a buddy from Captain Hunter Wood, Jr., assistant director of enlisted performance division.

The commendation reads: "The Secretary of the Navy takes pleasure in commending Julian Harold Broughton, Coxswain, USNR, for action set forth in the following citation:

"For conspicuous gallantry in rescuing a shipmate from death by drowning in San Pedro Bay, Leyte, Philippine Islands, on the ninth of February, 1945. Broughton, serving aboard an APD, witnessed the accident when the coxswain of a boat which was being hoisted was thrown into the water, striking and severely bruising his leg on the rail of the ship. Knowing that his friend could not swim, he unhesitatingly went to his assistance, diving into the bay fully clothed and swimming through the choppy waters to his side, where he supported and aided him back to his ship. Broughton's courageous conduct and complete disregard for his personal safety in this emergency were in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States Navy service."

"A copy of the citation has been made a part of Broughton's official record and he is happily authorized to wear the Commendation Ribbon."

Broughton has a twin brother who served sometime aboard a ship in the South Pacific and was recently stationed in Washington.

Supplying Troops In Pacific Presents Tremendous Job

An army task force, comprised of four overseas veterans, outlined to newspaper editors, at a meeting held at Rocky Mount Sunday, the problems facing the United States in writing the end to the war with Japan.

The old bottleneck, logistics, which held up for two and one half years the show down battles with the Germans is again showing up in the plans drawn to defeat Japan. Logistics, as explained by Colonel Cyril Bassich, veteran of the North African and Italian campaigns, one of the speakers on the program, is the art of getting the right number of men with the right amount of materiel at the right place at the right time. Colonel Bassich outlined the tremendous problem facing the army in supplying the vast numbers of troops in the Pacific. He stated that by next year the Army will have more men fighting the Japs in the Pacific than were used in the European war. Service personnel are now being re-deployed to areas to set up huge warehousing spaces needed for the mountains of supplies to be shipped to the Pacific for the use of our army. In this matter the United States must prepare these areas from scratch. Unlike in Europe, where England was used as an arch or for one end of a conveyor belt and where huge supplies were stored up for the fight against the Nazis, there is now no such area in the Pacific and even though the Philippines no doubt will be used largely for this purpose, these islands are still 1,500 miles from Japan and supplies must be carried over the distance, which will require time and much of it in keeping troops supplied.

The Army expects to cut back orders on certain types of war materiel but on the other hand, orders have already been increased on many others. One such item increased is corda shoes. The Army estimated the need for five million of these for the next year, but this order has been increased to 15 million. War production of medium tanks, jeeps and other items will be cut down but other steel items such as ducks, used to transport supplies from ships to shore, mortar shells and incendiary bombs will be increased greatly.

Other speakers on the program were Major Harry Van Arman, a veteran of the Fourth Armored Division which participated in the breakthrough at St. Lo and in relieving the airborne troops at Bastogne; Sgt. William K. House, who just returned from Okinawa and also saw action on Leyte, and Captain James G. Tate, veteran of the Aleutian Islands campaign.

Sgt. House gave the newsmen an (Continued on Page Six)
