

Colored High School Grid Team Lost Game

The football team of the Colored Hertford High School lost its opening football game to Elizabeth City in a game played recently on the Elizabeth City gridiron. The final score was 25-0.

The Hertford squad showed a burst of speed and good ball handling in the opening quarter but were out-classed and overpowered during the last three periods of the game.

While showing need for additional practice, the Hertford team showed promise of developing into a hard driving outfit which will provide plenty of trouble for their next opponent, Edenton, in a game to be played soon.

CIRCLE NO. 4 MEETS.

Circle No. 4 of the Hertford Baptist Church met Monday night with Miss Mamie Stallings. Mrs. Tom Mardro presided.

The meeting opened with a hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Prayer by Mrs. J. E. Everett. Roll was called with 11 members present. A new member, Mrs. J. H. Bagley, was enrolled. Mrs. Lena Gregory, who was program chairman for the evening, gave the Scripture lesson. Prayer by Mrs. Robert White.

Mrs. Young Berry gave a very interesting reading "Honest and Dishonest" and Mrs. Everett a reading "The Test of Tithes." The meeting was closed with a prayer, after which the hostess served refreshments.

HUNAN PROVINCE, CHINA. With animal power and manpower depleted during the war, the women of famine-ridden Hunan Province pull the plows in the rice paddies, working against time to plant next season's crop. Because of undernourishment, the three daughters of this farmer are only able to work a few hours each day. Their water buffalo was killed by the Japanese.

SOIL CONSERVATION NOTES

A number of Perquimans County farmers are seeding winter cover crops this year. Some of the advantages of this practice are:

1. Adding organic matter to the soil.
2. Preventing leaching of plant food.
3. Legumes used for winter cover also add nitrogen.
4. Tends to loosen up sub-soil and bring minerals to surface.
5. Controls erosion during heavy winter rains.
6. When turned at proper time makes land easy to cultivate.
7. May provide late fall, winter and early spring grazing.

A. H. Edwards has a good stand of crimson clover in his corn field. This clover was seeded with a seed sower and was not covered.

Soil Conservation plans were completed during the month of September for C. M. Long, O. J. Lane, Thad C. Chappell, C. S. Jackson and Willie Price.

Store Canned Goods In Cool, Dry Place

Canning is hard work, as any of the home demonstration club canning champions will testify. That's why the food preservation specialists with the State College Extension Service urge the club women to store their canned goods carefully.

Jars of fruit and vegetables should be stored where it is cool, dark and dry, the specialists say. They rule out closets and shelves behind which run furnace pipes. The pipes may make it too hot for the canned goods when fires are started.

As for placing the jars where they are apt to freeze, the specialists point out that freezing in itself does not spoil canned foods, but it may crack a glass jar or break the seal and cause spoilage.

Dampness is also hard on metal caps, as it will cause some types of cap to rust. The jars should also be stored away from the light because it is inclined to fade the food exposed to it, and in some cases, lower the nutritional value of the food. Therefore, the specialists recommend wrapping jars in strips of brown paper if they must be stored on open shelves.

At the same time, they suggest that jars of food left over from other years be eaten first, and that the wise homemaker check the reasons for left-overs. If she finds that her family doesn't like the product, she can cut down on the amount she cans another year.

IN MEMORIAM

On Monday morning, September 16, at 10 o'clock, the Angel of Death came and claimed the spirit of my dear father, J. E. Perry.

Father, dear, you are sleeping free from all pain,
O! wake not his sweet spirit to suffer again,
He slumbers so sweetly; oh, let him sleep on.
His sickness all ended, his troubles all gone.
In the graveyard softly sleeping, where the boughs gently wave,
Lies my father I loved so dearly, in the cold and silent grave.
Once my life was bright and happy, oh, how sad and lone today.
For my faithful loving father has forever passed away.
Sleep on, dear father, sleep on in that bright and happy land,
I hope some day to meet you, and clasp your dear, dear hand.
—Your devoted daughter, Minnie.
