

Saving Bonds Sales In Perquimans Hit $178,941 For 1946

Sales of United Savings Bonds, Series E and G, in Perquimans County during the 12-month period ending December 31, 1946, totaled $178,941.80. Broken down by series the year's sales, at issue price, were as follows: E bonds, $148,641.80; G bonds, $30,300.00.

This information was contained in an annual report on U. S. Savings Bonds sales issued this week to R. M. Riddick, Jr., Perquimans County Savings Bonds chairman, by Allison James, State Savings Bonds Director, in Greensboro.

Mr. Riddick announced, that according to the report, sales of Savings Bonds for the entire State for the same period were: E bonds, $61,661,390.88, F bonds $6,522,866.00, G bonds $30,008,800.00.

"Despite price increases and disruptions of production in the first full year of peace since 1941, Savings Bonds in both the county and state have exceeded all expectations," Mr. Riddick stated. "This huge backlog of savings, together with the wartime bond savings, of which 70 per cent is still in the hands of the purchasers, will go a long way toward maintaining a stable economy and in avoiding a depression in Perquimans County and in our state," Mr. Riddick said.

"The continued high volume of Savings Bonds sales is a tribute to the thrift and financial good sense of the people of our county and state," he continued, "and also is a tribute to the splendid support of our banks, savings and loan associations, newspapers and radio stations, as well as many other volunteers and volunteer organizations that are carrying on in this important peace-time Treasury thrift program."

In conclusion, Mr. Riddick said that we must keep right on saving and building for the future with Savings Bonds. "A dollar saved is better than a dollar earned these days," he said.

Log Measure Is Adopted By Grange

The North Carolina Grange has requested the General Assembly to establish the International log rule "and no other" as the standard scale for measuring logs and timber in the State.

The decision followed a controversial hearing conducted by the Grange executive committee on whether the International rule or the Doyle rule, now used, is the fairer and more practicable method for determining the board feet of timber.

The Grange claimed a 16-foot log, 10 inches in diameter, measures only 36 board feet by the Doyle rule, compared to 64 board feet if measured by the International rule.

Use of the Doyle rule, as now practiced in the State, prevents the farmer from obtaining full value for his timber, the Grange contended.

Close Second

It may be true that there is no fool like an old fool. But from our observation, the young fool runs the old one a pretty close second.—Grit.

A Daniel Come To Judgment

Just after a new tax assessor had taken office, a citizen of a certain municipality was astonished and dismayed by the receipt of a notice that under "personal property," he was taxed $24 as the possessor of one goat.

He visited the new tax assessor and demanded an explanation.

"Why, I had to obey the law," was the calm rejoinder.

"Law? What law?" snapped the man with the tax bill.

"Just this," replied the assessor, pointing to a passage in his law book. "It says right here, 'For all property bounding and abutting on the highway, $12 a foot.'"
