Congratulating Our Graduates

The schools of the nation are closing their doors once again and the advent of commencement brings many young men and women to the threshold of the great venture of living.

For a number of years they have pursued the paths of learning, picking up information and experience through various school years, and now, at last, they receive their diplomas and step into the world of grown-ups.

They will find it vastly different from the environment in which they have been nurtured. There will be no assignment of particular tasks, with success surely crowning the efforts of those who think and do well. In life, unlike in school, meritorious performance is not always crowned with success and laurels.

The high school of Perquimans County is graduating a fine crop of young men and women. Many of them will continue their education at college but some will not have that privilege. They will go forth immediately to seek their economic fortunes in business endeavor, battling the various forces that operate in the struggle for profits.

Those of our graduates who have the opportunity of attending college are fortunate only if they make use of the additional education advantages that come to them. Certainly the training that college life affords is worth what it costs, in time and money, but these benefits do not flow automatically into the being of the student. They must be earned.

The graduates who have no chance to continue their studies in colleges or special schools need not accept any inferiority complex in regard to their classmates who study longer. While it is not to be denied that some advantage accrues to college-trained individuals, this is not conclusive in the struggle that engages adults in the fullness of their existence.

The Weekly wishes to congratulate the students of our high school who complete their courses this year and, at the same time to extend felicitations to those of this county who complete their college careers. May all of them play the game of life fairly, earning just rewards and rejoicing in the similar success of their fellowmen.

Autos Continue Scarce

There are enough orders on the books of automobile makers to keep their plants going for two years, with a demand for new cars greater than when the war ended. This is the conclusion of M. E. Coyle, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, who points out that the public is bidding from $800 in the low-priced field to more than $3,000 in the high-priced field above the prices recommended by factories.

He points out that used cars, of recent vintage, are selling above the recommended 1948 new car prices. Mr. Coyle admits that the automobile industry is not accustomed to such conditions and may not be handling the situation too well. While automobile makers have often wished to see a year when the product was in such demand that "we could sell all we could make regardless of price, or product appeal," the gentleman admits that "we got our wish and we do not like it."

Cotton Growers Offered Classification Service

Arrangements have been made for North Carolina cotton growers to take advantage of the free classification and market news services offered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. I. C. Yagel, Perquimans county agent for the State College Extension Service, announced this week.

The services are furnished without charge to organized cotton improvement groups. In North Carolina, all applications are being submitted by county agents.

Time still remains for producers who are not members of cotton improvement groups to join existing groups, or to organize new groups. Producers are eligible for free cotton classification and market news services this year if they organize, adopt a variety of cotton, and make arrangements for sampling, Mr. Yagel explained. The county agent's office, he said, is prepared to help producers organize new groups or to put producers in touch with groups already established.

The farm agent said that official classing of cotton by the U. S. Department of Agriculture enables the grower to know the exact grade and staple length of each bale he produces. "With such information and by checking current price quotations," he asserted, "the grower can figure what his cotton should bring."

Applications for the free service must be filed by North Carolina groups on or before August 15.

When Your Back Hurts -
And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.
