WOOD-OWNLEY

Miss Myrtle Fearing Ownley became the bride of Graham Earl Wood, Wednesday, June 2nd, in the Scotland Neck Baptist Church, at high noon. Rev. C. W. Bazemore, former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony. Only a few intimate friends were in attendance.

Mrs. J. L. Byrd of Windsor, was at the piano, playing softly Engleman's Melody of Love, as the vows were spoken. The bride is the daughter of the late Curtis Ownley and Annie Boswell Ownley, of Pasquotank county; and for some time has been a teacher in the Windsor public schools. The groom is the son of the late George H. Wood and Josephine Pierce Wood of Perquimans county, and has farming and other business interests in that county, in the Woodville community near Hertford. The couple left for a motor trip through Virginia and other places, after which they will make their home near Hertford.

Better Pastures Mean More Income On Farm

By increasing his pasture production, Early Smith, Alleghany County farmer, has raised his farm income considerably, reports T. K. Jones, farm management analyst at State College.

Mr. Jones believes many other North Carolina farmers could obtain a greater return on their land by giving more attention to pastures and increasing their cattle and other livestock.

Since Mr. Smith was selected as a demonstration farmer in 1940, many changes have been made on his place. Gullies have been healed; briars and broom sedge have been replaced with a luxuriant growth of bluegrass and white clover. Crop yields have been doubled by heavy applications of TVA phosphate, lime, commercial fertilizer and manure. Last year Mr. Smith produced approximately 100 bushels of corn per acre on land which formerly averaged 40 bushels.

As production of feed and pastures has increased, the 12-cow dairy herd has grown into a 32-cow herd of good grades and purebreds. A pure-bred bull has been purchased, and Mr. Smith is raising his own replacements and continuing to enlarge his herd.

Increased income from milk sales has enabled Mr. Smith to make many improvements in farm and home living. A new Grade "A" dairy barn was added last year and a silo and spring house were built in 1943. Modern dairy equipment has been added, and a jeep purchased last year provides a cheap source of farm power.

A water system and bathroom have been installed in the home, and other improvements in home living are planned. Last year Mrs. Smith filled approximately 400 jars with fruits, vegetables and meats. No food is purchased which can be produced at home.

SOIL CONSERVATION NOTES

Soil Conservation Service Technicians working with the Albemarle Soil Conservation District assisted some farmers in this county in preparing conservation plans for their farms during the month of May. These farmers are: G. R. Riddick, E. S. Winslow, E. R. Winslow, Roundtree Bros., and F. C. White.

The plans were made to increase production on their farms by the use of conservation practices such as improved drainage, winter cover crops and improved permanent pastures.

Roy Chappell and Preston Nixon mowed their permanent pastures during May. Clipping when the principal weeds are in bloom but before they go to seed is a most effective practice. All space occupied by weeds will mean just that much soil fertility and moisture that will not be effective in producing pasturage.

L. W. Smith constructed a sloped ditch to drain a low area in his field. This ditch was constructed with a farm tractor and tiller plow.

Swine Disease In State Reported On Increase

Farmers who buy feeder pigs from unknown sources take a chance on getting animals which are not only inferior but also diseased, according to Dr. C. D. Grinnells, professor of veterinary science at State College.

"Swine disease is on the increase. Promiscuous buying of feeder pigs from unknown sources has been a large factor in scattering disease," Dr. Grinnells said. "A good hog man does not have time to roam the country marketing feeder pigs. He practices swine sanitation. Buy your pigs from him, even though you will have to look him up."

The farmer who buys pigs from an unknown source is likely to get an inferior product to begin with, he explained. In many cases the seller has not practiced good swine sanitation. By experience he has found that with his equipment and methods he can realize a greater return by selling small pigs. Often the animals carry parasites, and have low-grade infections and low resistance to disease.

These conditions, Dr. Grinnells continued, are aggravated by feed changes, lack of water, long hauls and unsanitary conditions. The pigs are yarded, transported, fed, watered and often sold with pigs from a number of other sources. The opportunities to spread and to take in infectious materials are numerous. Conditions for the spread of disease are good.

Under these conditions, there is no vaccine that will prevent development of disease. Vaccines recommended to protect against a large number of infections are generally worthless and should not be trusted until tested and proved.
