Health and Beauty

By Dr. Sophia Brunson

THE SKIN

"Please tell me how to improve my looks. I am just starting in at college this year. My skin is muddy and full of freckles and blackheads. I do want to look my best, but I don't know how to go about it," so writes a distressed damsel.

Poor little maiden; no wonder that she is worried, for the condition which she describes places her at a disadvantage socially, and makes her unhappy.

First, you must remember that there is no royal road to beauty, no magic formulas that are put up in attractive jars that will transform the ugly duckling into a fairy princess of enchanting loveliness overnight. There are many factors that enter into the creation of a beautiful complexion.

Rational living is the greatest aid to beauty and no one who is sickly can possess the radiant charm that good health carries with it. It is not difficult to keep well, by continuing the habit of right living. It is a hard tedious job to restore the health once it has been damaged. All beauty has its inception in a healthy body and contented mind.

Blackheads are collections of grease and dirt which clog the pores of the skin. They are usually due to improper diet and failure to keep the skin clean. Heavy foods, such as large amounts of greasy fried meats, sugars, candies, pastry and meals of that kind, invite a sluggish liver and poor circulation, with its accompanying muddy, oily, blackhead choked skin.

Most articles that are written by so-called beauty specialists advise steaming the face. Steaming the face will ruin any complexion if persisted in long enough. The hot steam destroys the natural oils that nature gave us as a protection and will cause the skin to crinkle, wrinkle and yellow.

Remember that blackheads are composed of grease and dirt which have hardened in the pores. If the condition is very bad, wring cloths out of hot water and apply to your face, renewing them as fast as they cool. This softens the cuticle. Take a crash wash cloth, ivory soap, or one that is equally as bland, and scrub your face in luke warm water, using rotary movements. A complexion brush that is not injured by water is better than the cloth, for the fine bristles are more effective in cleansing the pores.

After the face has been thoroughly gone over, and is glowing from the massage of the brush, then rinse thoroughly in cold water. This acts as a tonic to the skin. Dry gently and well, then apply your astringent or some good lotion or cream.

If you eat properly, drink plenty of water and see that the colon empties itself thoroughly each day, the above treatment, if persisted in, will cause your blackheads to disappear.

of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment.

Schools Need Federal Aid

We think the people of the United States are in general agreement that the educational program of the nation is sagging far behind the needs of the children of this country.

The question that presents itself involves a method of financing an expansion of the educational plant of the nation. Obviously, the states, in most cases, are without adequate funds to finance an adequate school building program and an adequate scale of compensation to secure and retain competent teachers.

It has been axiomatic for many years that the Federal Government, with its great taxing powers, manages to get the money for what it wants. Obviously, the states cannot, or do not, levy the taxes to put them in the same healthy condition.

For this reason, many people have concluded that the Federal Government must devise some method of extending financial assistance to the schools and that it must be based upon the need of the various states for educational purposes. Of course, the prime consideration is the number of pupils going to school.

While the Government of the United States has been interested in many things on the basis of the national welfare, for some reason there has been some reluctance to permit the Federal Government to finance education. Despite the needs, prominent education officials have feared that a bureaucracy would be established in Washington and that the grants of money would be accompanied by a rigorous regimentation of the educational processes throughout the nation.

This danger, which admittedly exists, can be obviated by the terms of legislation providing for Federal assistance.

The prospect that the Federal Government will extend liberal financial assistance to the public schools of the nation calls to mind the dire extremity in which many privately-owned or religiously-supported schools and colleges find themselves. It is difficult for these institutions of learning to keep up with the standards set by schools supported by public funds. Nevertheless, the Government has no right to curtail the fulfillment of its duty because of the inability of private or church-directed schools to keep up with the pace. The members of the churches, for example, which operate in the field of education, must, if they want the work to continue, support their schools and colleges.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste.

Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Lose Four Billion

Insects inflict damage to the crops of the United States that cost growers about $4,000,000,000 a year, according to experts of the Department of Agriculture, despite the existence of improved and highly effective insecticides.

This is a surprising figure and seemingly large enough to spur all growers of crops to use the spray gun incessantly.

Progress is being made in the control of insects, including those that carry disease and those that devour plants and their fruit. Gradually the crop growers are becoming convinced that greater profits from growing things comes to those who take advantage of what modern science has done to make possible the protection of crops from insects of all kinds.

Highway Tragedy

The death of six high school students in Minnesota, which occurred in an automobile accident while they were returning from a football game, is a tragedy that heavily emphasizes the danger that besets those who travel the highways.

Cold statistics tell us that nearly one hundred Americans die in traffic accidents every day of the year. Such figures are theoretical things, but the bodies of six young people lying by the roadside present a picture that witnesses will not forget.

There is nothing to be gained by preaching a sermon to young people about the dangers of automobile driving. The same lesson could be directed to adults. All of us need to remember, when we take the wheel,
