

Baptist Church Of Edenton Host For Annual Convention

On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the Edenton Baptist Church was host to the 144th annual session of the Chowan Baptist Association. Official delegates and members of the 59 churches of the expansive area comprising the Chowan Association attended in large numbers the two-day sessions. It was conservatively estimated that some 650 enjoyed the good old fashioned "serve yourself" dinner on Tuesday which was prepared and served by the ladies of the Edenton Church.

Along with fellowship and good eats, those attending enjoyed one of the most outstanding programs in recent years. Not only were there outstanding contributions from laymen and workers of the Association but the program was also highlighted by contributions from Baptist leaders of state-wide and south-wide prominence. Among those were Dr. Zeno Wall, General Superintendent of the North Carolina Baptist Orphanages, who very appealingly presented the orphanage work; Dr. W. K. McGee, Religious Director of the N. C. Baptist Hospital, presenting the challenge of mending physical bodies; Dr. E. L. Bradley representing the State Board of Missions and the Baptist program of Missions; Dr. L. L. Carpenter, editor of the Biblical Recorder, who presented the Recorder and Baptist Literature; President B. D. Bunn of Chowan College; the Rev. Austin Staples, also of Chowan College where he is professor of Bible, speaking to the report on Christian Education; and Dr. L. M. Dawson, Chowan Association's Missionary, making an interesting presentation on Associational Missions. During the Tuesday morning session the Rev. Frank B. Dinwiddie, pastor of Roanoke Island churches, preached the annual associational sermon.

The interesting and inspiring program was very capably guided through its two-day course by the moderator, the Rev. C. W. Duling, pastor of the Hertford Baptist Church.
