IT PAYS . . . TO LOOK AHEAD

One person who looks forward to Thanksgiving as much as anyone else in Tarheella is "Ole" Jack. "I probly eat too much," he says, "but a big meal never hurts me."

But that's where Jack's reasoning is wrong. As his friend Charlie reminded him the other day: "One of these days you'll really overstuff yourself and be sorry. I believe it always pays to look ahead so you won't make mistakes now."

That's mighty good advice Charlie gave "Ole" Jack, and the beer industry of our state thinks that "looking ahead" is just as important in business. It is using foresight and good planning in working with the Malt Beverage Division of the North Carolina ABO Board so that North Carolina citizens may be proud of the brewing industry.
