

Benefits For Aged Social Security

In recent months the Norfolk Social Security office, according to J. A. Morrison, manager, has received numerous claims from persons over 75 years of age who are continuing to work in jobs held by them for many years. The new law which became effective September 1, 1950, permits the payment of monthly benefits to these persons regardless of the amount of their monthly earnings or salary, provided they have worked long enough under Social Security to be insured. It was pointed out by Mr. Morrison that this new law only requires the equivalent of eighteen months work since 1936 for any one now 65 or older to be insured.

Undoubtedly there are many more persons in this area who are 75 years old and are steadily employed. These persons should file claims at once, or not later than March 1, 1951, to avoid a loss since back payments cannot be made for more than six months before the month in which the application is actually filed. It is always necessary to file an application to get old-age insurance payments.

Until a person reaches 75 years of age he is not eligible for benefits for any month in which his earnings are more than $50.00. The earliest eligibility age for old-age benefits, in any event, is 65. (Mr. Morrison also mentioned that persons who are 65 to 74 years of age whose wages are not over $50.00 per month should make application for benefits without delay if their employment under Social Security has been substantial.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of my dear husband, Billie, whom God called three years ago, March 7th. The years have passed since he went away, it seems I miss you more each day, and I am often sad and lonely for since you are gone dear one, your place is vacant in my home which never be filled.
